Gale-Force Winds, Rain Lash Marin

Sections Of Kentfield, Santa Venetia Flooded

The season's first major storm flooded low-lying areas of Kentfield, Santa Venetia and along Shoreline Highway last night, but most of Marin County escaped with little or no damage, officials reported today.

High winds — which hit 65 to 75 miles per hour at Muir Woods — toppled many trees and shorted out power lines throughout the county. This caused serious problems in Santa Venetia where flood control pumps were stopped, and on Throckmorton Ridge, where firemen battled a $50,000 house blaze.

Rainfall was sometimes torrential. In a 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m., Hamilton Air Force Base reported 4.91 inches; Woodacre, 4.6 inches; Fairfax, 4; Terra Linda, 3.37 inches; Bolinas, 2.86; San Rafael, 2; Sausalito, 1.7, and two differing readings in Tiburon — 3.05 inches in one observer's gauge and 1.36 in another.

TIBURON GUSTS

Wind gusts reportedly hit 50 miles per hour in Tiburon.

Donald R. Frost, county public works director, said fast-rising waters after 10 p.m. eroded ground from behind a temporary bulkhead at the "transition stage" on Corte Madera Creek, between Army Engineers' recently completed flood control work and the old channel.

He said he would inspect the bulkhead — leaning at a 45-degree angle — today to determine how serious the threat is.

Corte Madera Creek rose about 10 feet in two hours, according to Ross policeman Walter Fischer, briefly closing Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and causing familes in the College and Granton Park areas to evacuate their homes.

EMERGENCY PUMPS

Frost said county public works crews set up emergency pumps in Santa Venetia, and that power was restored to the regular pumps by 2 a.m. Rainfall slacked off by then, he said, so trouble was limited to flooded streets and yards, plus a few homes where water entered briefly.

Tamalpais Valley firemen reported water intruded in three homes during the height of the storm shortly after 10 a.m., but did no damage.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. crews toiled all night throughout Marin County, replacing lines felled by trees or shorted out by high winds. PG&E district superintendent Leonard Robertson could not be reached today, as he was out in the field checking damage.

The Larkspur area lost power for two hours beginning at 10:30 p.m.; Marin City lights went out for an hour at 7:30 a.m. today.

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. crews also were out all night. Business office manager Charles H. Russell reported that one cable in Northgate cut service to 300 homes from 1 a.m. to 5 a.m., and other telephones were out in Kentfield and San Anselmo. He said service was to be back to normal by 5 p.m. today.

SAN RAFAEL AREA

San Rafael had flooding only in one area, Lovell Avenue. Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles said that wind toppled a few trees elsewhere, and a few catch basins were plugged with leaves, but otherwise there was no trouble. Pumps kept the streets clear at Lincoln Avenue and Second Street, which often flooded in earlier years.

Both Rawles and Frost said they were pleased with the way Marin weathered the storm, partly because of drainage and flood control work recently done and partly because of the fact that last night's high tide was a moderate 4.4 feet.

STORM PEAK

Frost said that because the peak of the storm nearly coincided with high tide, Highway 101 had water standing on it at Corte Madera and at Terra Linda Creek. Shoreline Highway at Tam Valley flooded briefly, he said.

He said Sir Francis Drake Boulevard was flooded, but drained within two hours, because flood control work on Corte Madera Creek speeded the runoff. It was "driveable" by 2:30 a.m., he said.

This noon's high tide of 6.1 feet produced no problems because the rains had eased. High tides at night for the next two days will reach only 4.5 feet.

The weather forecast calls for an 80 per cent chance of rain tomorrow, with southwest winds easing to 15 to 30 miles per hour.

Last night's storm brought heavy, wind-driven snows to he Sierra, dumping two feet of snow on Mount Shasta City

51 Killed, Missing In Crash Of Jet

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —A chartered jet with 230 persons aboard crashed while attempting to take off in a freezing rain last night and exploded, killing a number of military personnel bound for Vietnam.

Military officials said there were 179 known survivors and 51 persons killed or missing in the crash of the Capitol International Airways DC8 jet bound for Cam Ranh Bay. Forty-six bodies have been recovered thus far.

Aboard were 219 military personnel and a crew of 11.

"I heard a noise, then I saw the wings flutter and the plane crash," said Joseph Heywood, who was working on his car near the airport.

"The fuselage split in the middle and a big ball of flames went up, maybe 120 to 150 feet high," he said.

Other witnesses said the pilot was trying to take off but decided to abort. One of them said the plane smacked back down on the runway at a speed of about 170 miles an hour.

The plane flattened a small fence, plowed under a building designed to hold instrument landing equipment and slid to a stop trailing tons of burning jet fuel.

The big plane began breaking up as it bounded across the runway, shedding one engine. It broke into three pieces and passengers soaked with jet fuel tumbled out of the plane.

The explosion came from three to five minutes later.

"There was panic at first," said Master Sgt. Robert L. Keller of New York City.

"But the older GIs aboard the plane quelled the panic instantly and this is one of the things that pulled us out," he said.

"I was stationed at the rear of the exit door to help people get out," he said. "It was pretty mushy and swampy getting out. It was a matter of five or six minutes before the engines exploded."

The flight originated at McChord Air Force Base, Wash., and was bound for Cam Ranh Bay in South Vietnam with the servicemen, many of them returning from Thanksgiving leaves at home. The flight had scheduled refueling stops here and another in Japan.

The accident was the third serious crash of a nonscheduled airliner in the last two months.

Several survivors said they heard a series of loud reports just before the pilot attempted to abort the takeoff. Some of the men also said they saw fire in the outboard left-hand engines about the same time they heard the loud reports.

Others said they thought the plane had blown some of its tires on takeoff.

Searchers with flashlights worked far into the night scouring areas in all directions from the wreckage, looking for bodies or injured survivors.

The bodies were taken to a temporary morgue set up at Kulis Air National Guard Base which is located at the airport and is about one-half mile from the crash scene.

Survivors were taken to Providence and Community Hospitals in Anchorage for treatment. Those who were not seriously injured were taken to facilities at Elmendorf Air Force Base.

LARGEST CROWD EVER

3.5 Million Attend Mass

MANILA (UPI) — A huge crowd gathered to see Pope Paul VI say an open-air mass today, while not far away the man who tried to assassinate the Pope Friday said "it would be a pleasure" to have another chance to kill him.

Bishop Juan Velasco, chairman of the mass media committee for the papal visit, said he estimated 3.5 million persons gatherd before the altar set up in Luneta Park on Manila Bay for the papal mass. Police and other estimates were much lower — the highest ranging about one million persons.

"It is the largest crowd ever assembled for any papal appearance any place in the world on a single occasion," Velasco said. The largest crowd Vatican officials who travel with the Pope could remember was in Bombay when some 2.5 million Indians lined the 10-mile drive on his way from the airport to the city center.

Not long before the Pope said mass, Bolivian surrealist painter Benjamin Mendoza y Amor appeared at a press conference held at a police headquarters about 400 yards away. He told journalists, "I should be congratulated" for the attack on the Pope and added: "It would be a pleasure if I can get another chance" to kill him.

To get Pope Paul through the huge crowd to the altar presented a problem for the security-conscious police. At times his motorcycle escort swerved directly into the crowd to drive the people back.

Security men were all around the limousine and police with three-foot staves hit out at the crowd to clear the way.

Shortly before the mass, the Pope told a South Vietnamese delegation "we are doing everything in our power" to help bring peace in Vietnam. He renewed his call for "honest and sincere negotiations" to end the war.

The Pope, throughout his numerous ceremonies today, appeared unruffled by the assassination attempt and reports there may be more death plots against him.

The Pope, 73, appeared very tired Friday night at the end of what had been a 35-hour day during which he had flown from Rome to Manila with stops in Tehran and Dacca, East Pakistan. But today, despite the busy schedule, he was more relaxed and spoke with much more force.

On top of a Bolivian painter's attempt to stab Pope Paul at Manila International Airport when he arrived Friday, Manila was shaken by an earthquake today. It was a light quake, measuring only three on the Richter scale of 10, and a spokesman at the papal nunciature where the pontiff was staying said it was not noticied. No damage was reported in the quake, which came at 6:45 a.m.

The painter, Benjamin Mendoza y Amor, 35, got to within three feet of the Pope at the airport and slashed out with a foot-long dagger. He did not touch the Pope and was quickly subdued by papal aides and security police. He was charged with attempted murder today, which could bring a 20 to 40 year prison sentence.

Lt. Col. Andres Ruiz, chief intelligence officer of the security force guarding the Pope, said he received fresh reports early today that Communist Huk guerrillas have sent a man "to inflict harm on the Pope" during public appearances. He said he had another report "radical elements" planned to attack the Pope and Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

Ruiz said he also had received a petition from the citizens of Manila's Tondo district asking the Pope to move ahead his Sunday visit there so he could leave the slum region before dark.

Cambodia Says Communists Add Fifth Element To Major Push

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian government sources today reported evidence of a fairly strong Communist troop buildup near the town of Prey Veng 25 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The buildup would add a fifth element of Communist troops to four other columns which were reported moving toward Phnom Penh. No estimate of size was given.

There was continued speculation among government sources that the Communists were planning a new squeeze on transportation routes in and out of the Cambodian capital or possibly a direct attack of some sort.

Officials believed that any attack would not be a major military move but a tactic designed to grab headlines and embarrass the government.

Government sources said a new curfew was going into effect in Phnom Penh on Monday as part of a program of new security measures. The curfew would run from dusk to dawn and apply to all foreigners.

Pickup 2nd pgh 026A: There have

There have been seven days this year when no U.S. war deaths were reported, they noted, and three of them came during November. In addition, the level of deaths has been lower than in past months.

The level of activity has been so low that the monthly death figure was expected to be among the lowest recorded since the American buildup started in 1965 despite a helicopter loss earlier in the month in which 15 U.S. Marines died.

At first it was believed there was a 48 hour period this week in which no Americans were killed, but later reports said that one American was killed Thursday and another died on Friday. The reports brought the total number of dead recorded by the U.S. Command so far to two since midnight Tuesday.

Official communiques reported eight U.S. wounded during the period, but spokesman said there frequently were additional wounded in incidents not reported in the daily communiques.

In Cambodia, government planes and artillery pounded suspected Communist troops concentrations on the outer defense perimeter of Phnom Penh throughout the night.

Military command spokesman Lt. Col. Am Rong said despite the heavy shelling by both artillery and planes "there was not much fighting around Phnom Penh."

Meanwhile, radio Hanoi broadcast today what it claimed was another Christmas message from a captured U.S. pilot to his wife and family in California.

An American-accented voice, claiming to be Marine Lt. Col. Edison W. Miller, said, "I had hoped to be with you but unfortunately circumstances will not allow me to join with you in the holiday festivities this year."

Military spokesmen in Saigon said Miller has been missing in North Vietnam since Oct. 13, 1967. There was no way of knowing if the message broadcast by Radio Hanoi's English-language service was really Miller.

The short message to his family said Miller was "always with you in heart and mind, and take joy in knowing you are together safe and happy. Be in good spirits, opaimistic and active for peace. We'll be together soon and will have many good times and wonderful years together."

At Retreat

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon is spending the weekend at Camp David, his mountain retreat, to consider more high-level personnel changes and to work on the 1971-72 federal budget.

With the President are Mrs. Nixon, daughter Tricia and a close Nixon friend, C. G. Bebe Rebozo. The Nixons' other daughter, Julie Eisenhower is in Newport, R.I., visiting her husband David who is undergoing naval officer training.

H. R. Haldemann, Nixon's chief of staff, was expected to go to Camp David during the weekend.

Big Art Theft

KURASHIKI, Japan (UPI)—Five paintings worth half a million dollars, including a Van Gogh, were stolen from the gallery of a Japanese silk tycoon after steel bars were cut from a rear window, police said today.

Authorities in the textile and industrial city of 370,000 said the paintings were taken Friday night from the walls of the stately O'Hara Art Gallery, built in the style of a Greek temple to house one of Japan's finest private collections of Western art.

On Visit Agenda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has announced that President Nixon will meet during December with King Hussein of Jordan and British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

The meeting with Hussein will be Dec. 8, on the first day of a two-day unofficial visit to Washington, during which he also will meet with Secretary of State William P. Rogers and other officials.

13th Birthday

HYANNISPORT, Mass. (UPI)—Caroline Kennedy, who played at her father's knee in the Oval Office of the White House, is now a shy, attractive teen-agers.

Members of her family gathered at the Kennedy compound Friday to celebrate the 13th birthday of the daughter of President John F. Kennedy.

The event ended a three-day celebration that began Wednesday night with a birthday party for John F. Kennedy Jr., 10.

A pretty girl with long light brown hair and blue eyes, Caroline is popular at the school and her grades are said to be excellent. Although somewhat shy, she has many friends and is not treated like a celebrity.

U.N. Post Is Rejected By Moynihan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's urban affairs adviser, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, has turned down a chance to become U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations. Instead, he will rejoin the faculty of Harvard University.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Moynihan, generally considered the administration's most prominent liberal, would leave his White House post shortly after the first of the year.

Moynihan had earlier indicated a desire to leave before Feb. 1 to avoid losing his tenure at Harvard, which limits to two years leaves of absence for faculty members who go into government.

Ziegler refused to confirm repotrs that Moynihan was offered the U.N. ambassador's post. Other sources said, however, Moynihan was offered the post but turned it down.

There was no indication when Nixon would choose someone else to succeed Ambassador Charles W. Yost. Nixon flew to Camp David, his retreat in the Maryland Mountains, for the weekend, and the White House said he would be considering personnel changes including the U.N. ambassadorship.

There was no immediate indication what Moynihan would do once he returned to Harvard. When he joined the White House staff at the beginning of the Nixon administration, he had been professor of education and urban studies and director of the Harvard-Massachusetts Institute of Technology Joint Center for Urban Studies.

"I am delighted he is coming back," said Theodore R. Sizer, dean of Harvard's Graduate School of Education. "He fills an important place in our program on education and social policy, particularly as that program might connect with the work of other faculities of the university."

Egypt Taking Over Missile Operations

CAIRO (UPI) —Egypt has begun to replace Soviet technicians with Egyptians manning the nation's increasingly sophisticated weapons systems, including missiles, government officials said today.

The officials said the Soviets would be returning home in greater numbers as more Egyptians become qualified to handle equipment in the Nile Valley and delta and near the Suez Canal cease-fire lines with Israel.

"We have never used this electronic equipment before," one official said. "We had to train our armed forces technicians. As soon as they were trained it was natural for them to man the weapons."

Soviets, although willing to act as advisers, were reluctant to be drawn into any situation which might lead to open conflict with Israeli forces, officials said. Under current planning, the minimum number of Soviet technicians will be kept in battle areas and as their jobs are finished and they are replaced with Arabs they will be withdrawn, officials said.

The semi-official newspaper Al Ahram said today Cairo will draw up a new protest note to the United States clarifying its objections to U.S. spy flights over the Suez Canal cease-fire area. Cairo already has protested to the United States about the flights.

In another development, Egypt, Libya, the Sudan and Syria laid plans for a political link-up which could spell peace or war for the Middle East. Officials of the four states were working out details following Syria's admission Friday to the proposed North African merger.

The Syrian decision to join the group came after Lt. Gen. Hafez Assad seized power Nov. 13 in a bloodless coup.

450 Tons Of Relief So Far To East Pakistan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has sent some 450 tons of relief supplies to cyclone-torn East Pakistan, along with eight helicopters to distribute the aid.

But Robert M. Murphy, named by President Nixon to head the Pakistan Relief Committee, said more millions of dollars worth of American aid would be needed for months to come.

Murphy said $8 million of the $10 million Nixon had pledged to the relief effort had been spent, primarily for food.

"It's anticipated further aid will be required, in the millions of dollars, in the coming months," said Murphy.

So far the U.S. supplies have filled 10 commercial charter flights, each carrying about 90,000 pounds. The shipments have included civil defense survival biscuits to help sustain survivors of the Nov. 12-13 cyclone. (Cyclones are called hurricanes in the western hemisphere.)

Under the Food for Peace Program, 50,000 tons of wheat have been granted to Pakistan. This allows the Pakistani government to release available stocks there for immediate relief feeding. The United States will send replacement stocks later.

On Nov. 25, the U.S. Agriculture Department announced that an additional $75.4 million of American farm products would be sent to Pakistan under the Food for Peace Program.

Condition Poor

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actor Brian Kelly, who appeared in the television series "Flipper," was listed in poor condition today after suffering a severe head injury in a motorcycle accident.

Hickel Will Not Relate His Story

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel cancelled without explanation a press conference next week at which he had promised to answer all questions about his abrupt dismissal by President Nixon.

Hickel's action came Friday shortly after a White House aide personally fired six other Interior Department officials, all close associates of Hickel. Other dismissals were expected.

Josef Holbert, Hickel's press secretary, had requested on Thursday that the National Press Club set up the Wednesday luncheon press conference. (Holbert was one of the six officials dismissed.)

But on Friday, an unidentified Hickel spokesman told Donald Larrabee, chairman of the National Press Club's board of governors, that Hickel would be out of town Wednesday and would not be able to return in time for the meeting.

There was no official announcement of the cancellation, but Larrabee confirmed it when contacted by newsmen.

Hickel was understood to be in Texas Friday night, but his exact location was unknown.

Hickel was fired Wednesday in a 25-minute meeting with Nixon, of one of the few times Hickel had met personally with the President. Nixon then announced he intended to nominate GOP National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton to take Hickel's place.

On Friday afternoon, about two hours before quitting time, White House special assistant Frederic W. Malek and Interior Deputy Undersecretary William Rogers summoned six Interior Department officials and told them to clear out by the end of the day.

Kidnap Plot Story Prompts Security Call

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee chairman says he believes government security measures should be stepped up to guard against a kidnap plot reported by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., said Friday additional action should be taken to protect government officials and facilities.

Earlier Friday, Hoover told Byrd's Senate appropriations subcommittee the FBI had learned an antiwar group was planning to kidnap foreign diplomats and high government officials and hold them hostage until the United States agrees to stop bombing in Southeast Asia and releases "all political prisoners."

The FBI director said the plot had not been broken despite both an "intensive investigation" and the imprisonment of Roman Catholic priests Philip and Daniel Berrigan. Hoover described the Berrigans as leaders of the group, called "The East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives."

Rev. Peter D. Fordi, who said he was a member of the antiwar group, told UPI in New York City to East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives has never "entertained the possibility of kidnaping or bombing." A brother of the Berrigans, Jerome Berrigan, a college English teacher in Syracuse, N.Y., said he was "shocked and unbelieving" at Hoover's testimony.

Hoover said the name of a White House staff member had been mentioned as a possible victim of the kidnap effort. He declined to give any names but said the plotters had other victims in mind including "some high government officials and members of the diplomatic corps."

Ronald L. Ziegler, press secretary to President Nixon, declined "to expand in any way" or give more details of the alleged plot.

Hoover appeared before the committee to ask for an additional $14 million appropriation to hire 1,000 more FBI agents and 702 clerks.

$606,000 Award In Medical Case

SAN JOSE (UPI)—An 8-year-old boy who suffered brain damage during an operation at Stanford Medical Center, has been awarded $606,000 in a medical malpractice suit.

A jury awarded the damages Wednesday to Joseph Chidester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Chidester, of Menlo Park, Calif. The parents were awarded an additional $20,000 for loss of their son's companionship.

Testimony in the 11-day trial indicated that an oxygen tube became detached during an operation being performed on the boy and that as a result he suffered permanent mental damage.

The suit originally asked for $3 million damages.

Two I-J Employees Have Tires Punctured

Tires on the cars of two Independent-Journal employees were punctured and an Independent-Journal advertiser was threatened with further vandalism yesterday in incidents apparently related to the strike against the newspaper.

The four tires on the auto of I-J Gen. Mgr. Norwin S. Yoffie were punctured behind 1230 Fifth Avenue between 4 and 4:30 p.m., San Rafael police reported.

Four tires on the sedan of news editor Donald G. Davis were punctured during the same time span while the car was parked on Mission Avenue, police said.

Byrne's Fine Foods store of San Francisco, part of a chain whose Kentfield store advertises in the I-J, had the tires on two trucks slashed Wednesday night, and received a call yesterday warning the firm to cease advertising in the I-J, according to the manager.

Store manager Larry Bain said a note was left on the vandalized trucks Wednesday night which read, "Take your ad out of the I-J."

He said the caller yesterday threatened further vandalism last night if the food store continued to advertise, but there was none.

One tire on a large produce truck and two tires on a pickup truck were slashed between 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday, Bain said, and a spare tire for the produce truck was stolen.

Seven Hurt In Puerto Suello Crash

A 57-year-old San Rafael woman was in poor condition in Marin General Hospital today, the most severely injured of seven persons hurt yesterday in a five-car accident on Highway 101 near the Puerto Sueleo Hill.

The accident also injured five members of one family. Treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts were David Pular, 35; his wife, Madeline, 34; two daughters, Sharon 4 and Lynn, 8, and a son, David, 6, all of 224 Mari Lane, Petaluma.

The seventh victim of the accident was Donna Lanning, 22, of 223 Blackstone Drive, San Rafael.

Details of the accident were unavailable from the California Highway Patrol, but officers indicated the mishap started when a car driven by William W. Nichleman, 19, of 773 Beachnut Court, San Rafael, spun out on the wet roadway and four other cars, unable to stop, rear-ended each other.

$50,000 Fire Routs Pair, Dogs

A Throckmorton Ridge couple fled with their two dogs and their car, while wind-whipped flames destroyed their home last night, Marin County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom said.

The $50,000 fire routed Mr. and Mrs. James W. Brodale of 560 Panoramic Highway at 9:28 p.m.

Chief Bloom said the fire may have been storm-connected, due to surging voltage in power lines in the neighborhood. The fire started in a bedroom wall, apparently from shorted wiring. The Brodales had retired to bed to watch television when they smelled smoke, called firemen and fled.

They and neighbors reported the lights had flared to unusual brightness at 6:18 p.m. Firemen and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. crews found high-voltage lines arcing in high winds at that time.

The Brodales spent the night with neighbors, Chief Bloom said.

He said firemen were hindered in their efforts by both wind and the power blackout which hit the area just as they arrived. Units from Mill Valley and Tamalpais Valley fire departments helped the county crews, but the destruction was total, Bloom said.

He said damage to the house was $35,000 and to its contents, $15,000.

22-Year-Old Mill Valleyan Is Missing

Relatives and friends of a 22-year-old Mill Valley woman, missing for three weeks, are seeking information on her whereabouts.

Miss Rinehart had been in Marin four months. She formerly lived in Omaha, Neb.

She is described as 5 feet, 2 inches tall, 115 pounds, with long light brown hair. She last was seen wearing a purple print dress.

Knife-Wielder Is Chased Out

When a knife-wielding man tried to hold up a cashier at his San Anselmo restaurant last night, Joe Barthel retaliated with the would-be thief's own medicine — he grabbed a knife, too.

Police said the would-be bandit, dressed in an Army field jacket, entered the restaurant, at 115 San Anselmo Avenue, about 11 p.m., grabbed a knife from a table and demanded money from the cashier.

Barthel then went into action.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Her Girl Friend Wants To Leave Home For Commune, Older Man

DEAR HELEN:

My girl friend who is 15, met this older guy who wants her to come and live in a hippie commune. She thinks that would be the greatest, as she has fallen madly in love with him and believes everything he says.

Helen, she's an immature little dummy, and also very stubborn. I've talked until I'm hoarse and she doesn't listen. I tell her running away is dangerous, but she says he'll carry a knife. Then I asked her what if he leaves her, and she answered, "Then I'll carry a knife."

How can I get through to a girl who hates school, her parents, and is hooked on being "free"? — WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED:

This girl needs more help than a teen can give. Confide in an adult you trust and let him take it from there. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Is it true that the fella who goes in for weight lifting and body building is really fearful of his manhood and trying to hide his sissiness under a lot of bulging muscles?

I've known several guys that walked on their hands at the beach and looked like Charles Atlas' grandsons, but it turns out they don't like girls very well. Or if they date us, it's mostly to make us feel miserable. They are so in love with themselves they don't waste any on others.

DEAR LFARM:

I advise against generalizations. Muscle culture doesn't always rule out manliness any more than brawn rules out brain. (But a little observation will soon separate the guys from the gays.) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a 16-year-old boy, who fell for a great girl, but another guy came along, and all of a sudden she had his ring. I guess my trouble was I didn't make it official soon enough. We dated two months and I didn't ask her to go steady. She liked me then — at least she acted so.

Well, I had to teach this guy, so we had a big fight over her. Now she won't speak to me. She thinks I am immature and a non-gentleman, while this dude treats her like gold. He has a job and can take her out while I'm on the football team and have to practice, get in early, etc.

Whenever he takes her to a game, I don't play so well.

I know I made a lot of mistakes, but what can I do to get her back? — H.C.I.

DEAR H.:

Try a little "suave." Send her a single red rose everyday for a week (singles won't break you), with low key (not mushy) notes attached. Then call her up "just to talk because I felt lonesome tonight" (that really gets 'em); next "stop by" her house, being especially nice to her parents.

If she liked you once, she may still like you again, especially when you polish up that new image. — H.

How To Buy A Machine

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

I am an avid reader and a devoted fan of yours since I make almost all of the clothes my family wears. My sewing machine is quite old, and I have hinted for a new one. I have a feeling my husband will probably surprise me with a new one. My problem is, how to let him know what I want in a sewing machine and not let some fast talking sales man talk him into anything.

MRS. A. W.

DEAR MRS. A. W.,

Buying a sewing machine takes quite a bit of careful study and should never be done without checking carefully into the following details. A sewing machine is a very expensive purchase and should be made with the idea of using it for many, many years to come, and using it happily, because it meets all of your requirements.

The surprise should only be verbal, you and you alone should decide on the machine you want to use. Before you buy any machine, it is wise to check out several brands and see a demonstration on each one. Compare some of the following qualifications. How difficult is the threading, how many eyes does the thread have to be threaded through, how difficult is it to thread and place the bobbin into position?

Take your own fabric samples with you and have the testing done on various types of fabrics, not just the hard finish muslins that are often used for this purpose. Tension is probably the most important of all the features. A good sewing machine will have a self-adjusting tension, and it will not be necessary for you to change the tension of the top or bobbin threads for various weights of fabrics. Once the average person starts fiddling with the tension, it usually must end up in the repair shop for a professional adjustment. The best way to test the tension is with the zig-zag stitch, you can easily see if the fabric has a tendency to draw up and distort the shape of your garment.

Since knits of all types are a way of life today and will probably continue to be important in our clothing, it is wise to check the sewing machine carefully on knits. Stitch on both the very sheer knits as well as the very heavy ones and see if there is the proper give to your seams to avoid popping the stitches.

Decorative stitches make a strong selling point when you see any demonstration, but it is wise to remember that this will usually only be a very small percentage of the use you will give your machine; instead, you must find a sewing machine that stitches a beautiful straight stitch.

Today with the polyesters, synthetics, vinyls, knits we find a great deal of top stitching used to add decorative touches as well as assuring nice flat outer edges. Be sure the machine you buy stitches beautifully with buttonhole twist for this top stitching. Also, be sure the machine has a separate presser foot for straight stitching.

Most companies will let you take a machine to your home for a few days if you are seriously considering a purchase, work on it yourself, then decide.

Be sure there is good service available where you live. Occasionally, you may need it regardless of the machine. A well built machine with metal parts throughout usually needs no further service. You must be prepared to spend money for this purchase, a good sewing machine is expensive, just as any other good mechanical product.

Don't be too concerned about whether or not you will get a trade-in. You can usually sell your old machine through your local newspaper to someone who needs a second machine in the family. A gear driven machine is not necessarily better than a felt driven machine, it is much easier to replace a belt if it should be needed, than to have the gears replaced. You may also compare notes with your friends and check any consumer magazine for a specific machine rating which compares all brands. Have a happy, happy Christmas with your new sewing machine.

"Most patterns do not give yardage requirements for 60 or 68 inch fabrics as we find many times today. I have found that if I take a piece of old sheeting and fold it to the exact width of my fabric and place the pattern on this, I can usually save at least one half yard of fabric. By this savings, I treat myself to a better price fabric and consequently, I am much happier with the finished results!"

ON THE AGENDA

Festival Of Trees Friday And Saturday At The Holiday Inn

The 1970 Marin Festival of Trees, an annual sale and exhibit of Christmas gifts and decorations, will be held on Friday from 6 to 11 p.m. and next Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

The festival is sponsored by the 11 Guilds of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science and the proceeds will go toward the expansion of its educational services to the community.

Local artists, craftsmen and merchants have donated exhibits to be judged by a panel of experts, including Mrs. Kendall Curry, San Rafael designer; William Cheney from Sunset Magazine; and Mr. Richard Fiscus, artist commissioned by Reese Palley Gallery of San Francisco. All exhibits will be for sale and visitors may cast their ballots.

Santa Claus will visit the festival on Saturday, and a photographer will be available for children's pictures. A continuous puppet show will also be held on Saturday.

A special shop for men, Adams' Eden, will feature fashions modeled by the Mannequin League of Marin.

Festival chairman is Mrs. Stanley Rutner of Novato, and co-chairman is Mrs. F. Paul Hacker of Terra Linda. Committee chairmen are Mmes. Allen Bernes of Fairfax exhibits; Robert Dagitz of Lucas Valley, staging; W. L. Miler and Victor Udaloff of Ignacio, program design; C. E. Welte of Terra Linda, advertising; Tim Hamill of Mill Valley, tickets; Lloyd Flatland of Kentfield, special events; J. D. Ryan of Glenwood, correspondence; and Neil Jannes of Fairhills, hostess.

Treasurer is Mrs. Joachim Jung of Mill Valley; secretary is Mrs. Robert Leonard of Fairfax; gift area chairmen are Mmes Walter Grothe and Merle Ellis of Belvedere-Tiburon; and publicty chairmen is Mrs. Ron Mires of Terra Linda.

THE PLEDGE dinner for Mill Valley's Omicron Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will be held Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the Tiburon Lodge. Pledges to be honored are Mmes. Judy Edwards, Robert Moulton and Bevan Robinson.

A PREVIEW of the 1970 California Home Show is planned by the Multiple Sclerosis Auxiliary which will honor new members and salute patients from noon to 3 p.m. on Friday.

Luncheon will be catered by a restaurant and Yamaha music will provide background organ concert during the preview meeting.

Planning to attend from Marin are Mmes. Donald Baird, Greenbrae; Kenneth E. Niles, Corte Madera; Robert McCray, Novato; William Mrrall, San Anselmo; Bennet Wren, Tiburon; Richard Woods, Kentfield; Richard Boesel, Edward B. Towne and Miss Ann Morrison, Belvedere.

SUSAN J. COOK

Susan J. Cook Is Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. John Cook of Tiburon have announced the engagement of their daughter, Susan J. Cook, to Gary M. Brodie of San Rafael.

Susi, who is the sister of Bonnie Jo Cook of Tiburon, is a Redwood High School graduate and is studying interior design at the College of Marin. She is also employed with the Emporium at Northgate Shopping Mall.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brodie of Greenbrae are Gary's parents and he is the brother of Marilyn Brodie. Mrs. Rose Starkey of Sebastopol and Mrs. Minnie Brodie of Fairfax are his grandmothers.

The couple plan to be married in June.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

William Kinzes Wed 50 Years Ago

It was Thanksgiving day 50 years ago that Mr. and Mrs. William Kinz of San Rafael exchanged wedding vows. They celebrated their golden anniversary this week and last Saturday were the honored guests at a reception given by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Salas of Sacramento.

The gathering was held at the Oakview Club in Terra Linda for relatives and friends.

The Kinzes spent the first years of their married life in Auburn, where Mr. Kinz was a member of the engineering department of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. He was transferred in 1942 to the Woodland office and then in 1947 to San Rafael. The couple have made their home on Marina Court in San Rafael since that time. Mr. Kinz retired six years ago after 50 years with the PG and E, and they have traveled through the Orient, Europe, the Hawaiian islands, Canada, Alaska and Mexico.

Pair To Wed In September

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Von Lehr of San Rafael have announced the engagement of their daughter, Cathy Marie Von Lehr, to Robert Lewis Swensen of Oakland.

Robert is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Marshall B. Tucker of Oakland.

Cathy is the sister of Frederic Von Lehr Jr., Jeffrey and Mark Von Lehr, all of San Rafael. Now a nurse at Alta Bates Hospital in Berkeley, she was graduated from Terra Linda High School and Providence College of Nursing in Oakland.

Robert is a graduate of Skyline High School in Oakland, attended California State Polytechnic College and was graduated from Chico State College. He is studying toward a masters degree in business at the University of California. He is the brother of Mrs. William Costa of Hawaii and the stepbrother of Mrs. Thomas Fletcher of Newark.

Wedding plans are for next September.

HOLIDAY SALES

A Good Season Being Forecast

The Christmas rush started yesterday, and most Marin businessmen predicted bigger sales than last year, despite job scarcity and a rise in unemployment.

Carroll A. Snyker, manager of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, said that Marin's dollar volume sales for the second quarter (April through June) this year was higher than last year.

Marin retail sales totalled $69,297,000 from April through June, compared with $67,260,000 for the same period last year.

He predicted that this upward trend in sales will continue for the last half of this year, including Christmas.

"It looks good so far," said Steve Leonesio, manager of Macy's in San Rafael. He said it is too early to tell what Christmas sales will be, but he should have a better picture after this weekend.

"The shoppers are out in droves," reported Jock Miller, president of the Northgate Mall. "It's much better than last year." He foresaw bigger sales than last Christmas, especially because Northgate is experimenting with being open Sunday afternoons from Dec. 6 through Christmas.

A similar report came from Alton Cox, president of the Northgate Merchants Association No. 1, who said sales are up about 10 per cent over this time last year.

"Considerably better than last year," said James Webb, manager of the 68 stores at the Strawberry Town and Country Village at Alto. He said stores were crowded yesterday despite the rain.

Assistant San Rafael Postmaster E.J. Fisher said the post office will be hiring about 30 or 35 extra help next month, the same as in past years. More than enough applicants have already applied for those jobs and those hired will be experienced people who worked there in the past he said.

Next week an annex will be set up in the Schoonmaker Building in Sausalito to process Marin's heavy holiday mail.

A slight increase in the parcel post rates might cut down slightly on the volume of packages, but Fisher said the total Christmas volume is expected to about the same as last year.

In contrast to the general upswing expected in holiday sales, the state Department of Resources Development in San Rafael (formerly the Department of Employment) reported a drop in employment. Edwin Ayer, manager of the employment service at 805 E Street, reported a general economic downtrend statewide. He added that Marin is not hit as hard as other areas such as the Peninsula, where a cutback in aerospace industries has a severe impact on employment.

Snyker said this may be one explanation for the apparent contradiction between an expected sales increase and a drop in employment. "We're not tied to any particular industry such as in San Jose and Santa Clara," said Snyker. "We don't get the swings to the extent that the rest of the Bay Area does because we're quite diversified."

Mrs. Marion Skoss, who handles unemployment at the Department of Human Resources Development, reported the lines in her office are longer this year.

She had no figures for Marin but believes unemployment here is similar to figures given for the San Francisco-Oakland area, where unemployment rose from 4.1 per cent in October of 1969 to 5.8 per cent in October this year. Statewide, the unemployment is even worse. State figures show unemployment up from 4.6 per cent in October of 1969 to 7.2 per cent in October this year.

Start Of Bus Runs Snagged Once Again

The start of hourly bus service between North and Central Marin, scheduled for Tuesday, has been delayed for a second time.

The service originally was to have started by Nov. 15, but was postponed because Marin Transit Systems needed extra time to get equipment and drivers for the service, which it will provide under a contract with the Golden Gate Bridge District.

Jesse Hebert, vice president of the Marin City-based transit company, told the Independent-Journal yesterday that the service would begin on Tuesday at 8:30 a.m. from San Marin.

The transit manager of the bridge district, Donald White, however, said that it was not possible to start the service at least until Dec. 9 even "if everything fits into place." The principal job remaining is to inspect the buses, he said.

White said that the contract for the service had been sent to the transit company by the bridge district on Oct. 28, but that it was not reurned signed to the district until this past Tuesday. He said the delay in returning the contract apparently was because Marin Transit Systems needed additional time to line up extra buses for the service.

Herbert, however, said the delay resulted from time needed for attorneys for the district and company to work out details of the contract, such as a recent increase in prevailing wages.

White said that bridge personnel will begin inspecting the transit company's equipment Monday morning to see that it conforms to specifications in the contract. Also, he said, fare boxes will be installed and an inspection made of drivers' records.

The district's insurance carrier also must inspect the buses before including them under the district's policies, White said.

The cost of the weekday service will be subsidized by Marin County at a maximum of $51,000 for the first six months.

The company has been operating a feeder bus service to the Tiburon ferry for the past year under county subsidies totaling $40,000 through Monday. This feeder service also will be taken over the district under a contract with Marin Transit Systems.

The new service will link Novato, Hamilton Air Force Base, Northgate Shopping Center, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, Greenbrae, Larkspur and the College of Marin.

Prisoners Get Time For Swim

The 30 to 50 inmates at the jail are taken under guard to the county "Y" for 90 minutes once a week under a program financed by a $700 grant from the Maine Law Enforcement Planning and Assistance Agency.

The grant was announced Thursday.

PHOTOGRAPHER — Burdette E. White, nature and wildlife photographer, will present a lecture and film, "On the Trail of Feathered Jewels and Other Gems of Nature," at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the College of Marin's Olney Hall.

Recycling Dates For Next Month

The Marin Ecology Center has announced dates and locations for recyling drives to be held during December.

Marinites may take clean crushed aluminum cans, newspapers tied in bundles, clean glass bottles and jars sorted by colors and flattened tin cans to the various locations on the specified dates between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The dates and places are:

Dec. 5 — St. Augustine's Episcopal Church, Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Oak Manor Drive, Fairfax.

Dec. 6 — Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

Dec. 9 — Prime Market, Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley.

Dec. 12 — College of Marin parking lot on College Avenue, Kentfield.

Dec. 19 — oCop parking lot, Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Dec. 26 — Ali Baba Cafe, Dolan's Corners.

Shark To Be Reassembled

BOSTON (UPI)—The New England Aquarium plans to retssemble what has been described as a 30-foot basking shark that washed up on a beach at Scituate. The aquarium wants to determine more definitely its species.

It was learned Wednesday Scituate selectmen had agreed to turn the carcass over to the aquarium for reassembly in Boston.

"We are still not sure just what species of fish or mammal this is," Carlo A. Hoscow, aquarium education director said.

Jobless Area List Stable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — No new major metropolitan areas were added this month to the list of those with unemployment of at least 6 per cent, the Labor Department says.

It was the first time in 10 months no new areas had been added.

The department Thursday dropped two cities from the list. They were Saginaw, Mich., and Corpus Christi, Tex. The revision lowered the total number of areas on the list to 36.

$18,319 Collected By Hunger Marchers

The 1,000 marchers who trudged through Marin's "Walk Against Hunger" on Sept. 20 raised a total of $18,319 for their cause, a banker reported yesterday.

D.R. Swing, manager of the Crocker Citizens National Bank in San Anselmo said the amount had grown by $482 Since Nov. 4 as sponsors who pledged donations on behalf of the marchers sent in their money.

Student Robert Morgan of San Anselmo, one of the walk's organizers, said the entire amount would be sent to Washington, D. C., headquarters of three anti-hunger organizations before mid-December.

The federal Economic Opportunity Council will receive 42.5 per cent of the money raised — or $7,786 to send back to Marin in quarterly installments. The Marin EOC will apply the money to programs providing food for needy youngsters, Morgan said.

The South Korean campaign of Meals for Millions will use its 42.5 per cent of the total to buy machinery that will process low-cost, high-protein food in Korea.

The remaining 15 per cent of the Marin donations will be paid to the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation, according to Morgan. He said the foundation works nationwide to coordinate such efforts as the one in Marin, and a similar walk planned for nationwide participation next May 2.

More than 750 of the hikers who made Marin's "Walk Against Hunger" trudged the full 20 miles of the course, to earn the money pledged by sponsors on a per-mile basis.

Censorship Drive Said Picking Up

The efforts of a Novato woman to have President Richard M. Nixon censured for his conduct during the November election campaign are said by her to be gathering momentum.

Sylvia Melton, 36, of 1171 Cambridge Street, said her petition drive is "getting too big to work out of my home."

An informal 20-member Citizens Committee for Cleaner Politics has been formed and the group is seeking headquarters in Novato and San Francisco, Mrs. Melton said.

She said that "thousands" of signatures have been gathered, but was unable to estimate the count because she said hundreds of petitions remained in circulation.

The petition criticizes Nixon "for actively campaigning or members of his party and using his high office to influence the voters."

The aim of the drive, Mrs. Melton said, is not partisan but hopes to bring about cleaner political campaigns from all parties in the future.

The idea for the drive came, she said, after Nixon made a political address Nov. 1 on television, "hiding behind the presidential seal."

Ultimately, she said, the drive will be expanded nationwide. If and when the goal of one million signatures is reached, she said, the petitions will be presented by a U.S. senator on the senate floor.

Fund Events For Linear Accelerator

A series of fund-raising events has been scheduled by the Linear Accelerator Campaign of Marin in an effort to raise $50,000 to help purchase new radiotherapy equipment for Marin General Hospital.

First will be a benefit buffet on Dec. 14 at Sally Stanford's Valhalla Inn in Sausalito, beginning with no-host cocktails at 6:30 p.m. with a buffet dinner at 7:30 p.m., according to Mrs. Walter G. Strauss, committee chairman.

Next will come a dinner at Sabella's Restaurant on Jan. 11 with all costs being donated by the restaurant. A theater party is tentatively planned for early January.

The campaign has been organized to raise part of the $175,000 needed to purchase a linear accelerator to replace the cobalt unit at Marin General. The balance of the money for the equipment which will provide more efficient radiotherapy will come from hospital funds.

New Assistant Dean Of Instruction Announced

A 30-year-old administrator from East Los Angeles College has been named to replace Dr. Eugene A. Farrar as assistant dean of instruction and director of community education at the College of Marin.

The appointment of Jared B. Sharon followed a lengthy screening process of 34 candidates for the position.

At East Los Angeles, Sharon was coordinator of specially funded projects.

Sharon holds degrees in the sciences and a bachelor's degree in chemistry from the University of Richmond at Richmond, Va., and a master's degree in biochemistry from the University of Southern California.

Sharon is married and has two children. He will begin his new assignment Dec. 7.

Farrar resigned last month to take a similar position at Grossmont College near San Diego.

Second Time Is Not Lucky

BEIRUT (UPI)—Two years ago Ali Mahmud Al-Sheikh, angered by what he considered the immoral behaviour of his sister, Amina, 20, drew a gun and shot her.

She survived and El-Sheikh went to prison for two years.

Thursday, El-Sheikh, now 24, returned to his home fillage of Kabeet in the far north of Lebanonan and cut Amina's throat. He locked her body in the house, then gave the key to a neighbor to pass on to the police.

Official sources, who confirmed the story today, said police were searching for the killer.

Francis Galton, an English scientist born in 1822, first proved that no two sets of fingerprints are alike.

Introductory Lecture Will Be Presented

An introductory lecture on the principles of transcendental meditation will be given by Philip Bombace of Mill Valley at 8 p.m. Thursday at Brown's Hall, 390 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley.

The lecture is sponsored by the International Meditation Society, a non profit organization founded by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, aimed at teaching people how to meditate.

Marin's Most Populated Island Is State Park Neighbor

How To Hypnotize Defenders Into Dropping Tricks–Almost!

If I were the right sort of bridge columnist, I would give free lessons in hypnotism. I would teach you to put the whammy on the opening leader, inducing him to make a friendly lead; or to hornswoggle the defenders into dropping a trick here and there. My lessons are less powerful, but they work pretty well on today's hand.

ESP NO USE

As West prepared to lead, South concentrated on "willing" him to lead a trump or anything but a heart. No use. West led the queen of hearts anyway.

South won with the ace of hearts and led the queen of clubs, hoping that the ace and king would fall together. "Step up," South projected fiercely with all the force of his telpathic power.

Evidently South was no great star as a hypnotist. West played a low club, and East won with the king. East cashed a heart trick, and West's ace of clubs eventually took the setting trick.

SIMPLE PLAY

South didn't need occult power to make his game. A simple line of play would have made five clubs for him.

After taking the first trick with the ace of hearts, South should lead the low diamond to dummy's jack and then continue with high diamonds. South discards a heart from dummy on the third diamond, with both opponents folowing suit.

LAST HIGH DIAMOND

South then leads his last high diamond. West ruffs with the nine of clubs, and South discards dummy's last heart.

Declarer regains the lead whether West leads a spade or a heart. South then leads a trump and doesn't need hypnotism to make the ace and king fall on the same trick.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades.

Since you have 9 points in high cards, you know that the combined count is 25 to 27 points. You also have distributional points to bring the count to at least the 26 points usually needed for game. Partner has at least two spades (probably three or more), so you are sure of a good trump suit. In short, you know that you want to get to four spades and that slam is out of the question. Bid the game without delay in such a situation.

War Ship Leaves

SAIGON (UPI)—The U.S.S. Benewah, anchored in the Mekong River near the Cambodian border for more than three years, has departed for Guam and decommissioning, the U.S. Command announced yesterday.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Nov. 28, the 332nd day of 1970.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius. On this day in history:

In 1520 Ferdinand Magellan entered the Pacific Ocean on his way around the world. He was the first European to sail through the Pacific from the east.

In 1956 the United States expressed concern over substantial shipments of Soviet arms to Syria.

In 1958 the United States fired an intercontinental ballistic missile at full range. It was the first such firing.

In 1963 Cape Canaveral, the space center in Florida, was renamed Cape Kennedy for the assassinated president.

A thought for today: George Washington said, "The basis of our political system is the right of the people to make and alter their constitution of government."

Germans Plan Desalinization

HAMBURG, Germany (GF) — West Germany's first plant for conversion of sea water into fresh water will be established on the island of Helgoland in the North Sea.

The ground water supply of the well-known vacation island no longer sufficies for its German inhabitants and the stream of tourists who come there every year.

The planned desalinization plant will use a complicated and costly process by which salt water is converted to steam and then condensed to produce salt-free water.

News Mite Less Disquieting In Mid-Depression 1934

TOO MUCH OF the news these days is disquieting.

Just for kicks, let's thumb through the pages of San Rafael Independent issues published in 1934.

Jan. 2 — The California Taxpayers Association foresaw tax relief for Marin property owners. New state legislation would provide substantial increases in school support, resulting in lower local property tax rates.

Jan. 3 — The Marin Music Chest's very first concert series opened at the Fairfax Pavilion in Fairfax. The featured performer was Nelson Eddy, described by the Independent as "the young American baritone who has created a sensation here and throughout the east."

Jan. 5 — The State Highway Commission voted to purchase the Sears Point Toll Road from Vallejo to Black Point with the intention of converting the route to a toll-free state highway.

Jan. 9 — The county board of supervisors adopted Marin County's first zoning ordinance, described by the Independent as "a big step forward in beautification and improvement."

JAN. 10 — "One of the greatest mass flights in history" stopped in Marin to refuel en route from Coco Solo, C.Z., to Hawaii. The six Navy seaplanes landed at Paradise Cove and took off as soon as they were refueled, landing safely at Honolulu after covering 2,150 nautical miles in about 12 hours. The San Rafael Independent "scooped" San Francisco newspapers in reporting their safe arrival at Honolulu. Each plane had left Paradise Cove with approximately 1,700 gallons of gasoline aboard.

Jan. 22 — The California Taxpayers Association estimated that Marin County's population had increased by 2,232 persons since the 1930 census, which had counted 41,648 people in Marin.

Jan. 23 — Southern Pacific-Golden Gate Ferries Ltd. reported a net profit for 1933 of $1,393,338, down somewhat from the previous year. Gross revenue for 1933 was reported at $4,549,878, also down somewhat from 1932.

Jan. 26 — Those present at a public meeting called by the board of supervisors recommended that Sir Francis Drake Highway and the Black Point-Novato-Hicks Valley-Point Reyes route be included in the state's secondary system. This became the recommendation of the county to the state.

Jan. 30 — Property taxpayers got more good news when the county won a law suit filed by Tax Factors Inc., seeking additional payment for a county-wide property reassessment performed earlier by the firm. Had Tax Factors won the suit, an emergency boost in Marin property taxes would have been necessary to raise funds for the payment.

FEB. 2 — The long fight to retain ferry service between Belvedere and San Francisco was finally lost. A new bus service was begun from Belvedere and Tiburon to Sausalito, and the Belvedere ferry operation was discontinued. Also on Feb. 2, William P. Murray Jr. was awarded Eagle Scout rank.

Feb. 5 — The state Parks Commission voted to purchase a 30-acre parcel adjacent to Muir Woods National Monument, to be used as a state park.

Feb. 8 — Interested citizens met at Marin Junior College to organize an association dedicated to seek an adequate airport for the county. Marin was said to have more pilots for its size than any other county in the state. The countywide effort followed seven years of individual community efforts to obtain airport facilities.

Feb. 14 — "To prevent the spread of gambling houses and houses of ill repute from citizens to the unincorporated areas, the Marin County Board of Supervisors have passed three ordinances regulating the morals of the county's citizens."

Feb. 15 — State Finance Director Roland Vandegrift revealed further details of his proposal to solve the state's pressing tax problems. He called for elimination of county boundaries and establishment of 15 larger governmental districts. Marin would be included with San Francisco in a metropolitan district extending from San Jose to Vallejo.

FEB. 23 — Sweeping reorganization of the San Rafael Police Department was recommended in a voluminous study report by the chief of police of Berkeley, who "was emphatic in his criticism of San Rafael's police organization. He found nothing to say in favor of it," the Independent reported. Mayor William S. Nock, acting police chief, had requested the study.

Feb. 23 — The Independent began daily publication of a tide table "of interest to Marin County fishermen and abalone hunters."

Feb. 26 — Gov. James A. Rolph visited Marin with the announced purpose of "bringing the government to the people." He addressed a service club luncheon at Marin Golf and Country Club.

Feb. 28 — The new state sales tax raised $41,382.35 in San Rafael during the first five months since it went into effect.

Feb. 28 — PG&E announced electric power rate reductions would become effective March 1 over a large part of northern California, including Marin.

MARCH 3 — Northwestern Pacific Railroad asked the California Railroad Commission for permission to raise Marin commute ticket prices. The railroad said it lost $222,000 on its previous year's commute hauling in Marin. The president of Marvelous Marin Inc. announced his organization would strongly oppose the increase.

March 5 — The San Rafael City Council approved a compromise routing for state construction of Highway 101 through San Rafael.

March 8 — San Rafael's acting chief of police, Mayor William S. Nock, announced confiscation of 16 slot machines from various local refreshment parlors and others places of business, pursuant to anti-gambling ordinances recently passed by the city council.

March 13 — San Rafael City Council decided to notify newspapers as a means of giving advance notice of special meetings "hereafter." The action followed criticism of a closed unannounced meeting.

March 13 — San Rafael Board of Education decided to pay teachers their salaries in 10 payments a year during the school term instead of 12 monthly payments as had previously been done.

March 17 — San Rafael Mayor Nock, in his capacity as acting chief of police, personally led raids on two alleged bookmaking shops. Of one of those arrested the mayor said, "He takes bets on horses during the day and dog races at night. This stuff has to stop."

March 22 — The Marin County Grand Jury called for a program to provide public access to Marin beaches, most of which cannot be reached without "trespass over some private property with fear of arrest."

March 29 — Capt. H.B. Nurse, in charge of Hamilton Field construction, said the halfway point had been reached in the $5 million development of the Army Air Corps installation.

As a look through the San Rafael Independent for the first quarter of 1934 has shown, yesterday's news doesn't seem so bad as today's.

Bouquets And Brickbat

BOUQUETS to San Geronimo Valley Community Church members for restoring the old San Geronimo railroad station.

BOUQUET to Frances Lestanguet for her service as Fairfax city clerk and in the unwanted role of city administrator.

BRICKBAT to the Novato Teachers Association for continuing a "sanctions alert" against Novato Unified School District despite accepting a 6.5 per cent pay raise. This smacks of blackmail.

BOUQUET to Jed Barahal for making straight A grades two consecutive semesters at San Rafael High School.

Talk Show Shortage Solved; How About Publishing Crisis?

WASHINGTON — The United States is suffering from its worst shortage of radio and TV talk show guests in 20 years. The reason for this is that while talk shows have been multiplying by the thousands, the people who have been appearing on them have become worn out. In 1960, there were 250 guests available for each talk show. Ten years later, there are 250 talk shows fighting over the same guests.

Things have gotten so bad that a professor who wrote a book about the mating habits of woodworms was recently kidnaped in front of the "Today" show in New York and flows out to California where he was forced to go on a radio-telephone talk show instead.

Two famous late-night show hosts got into a fist fight in a Sixth Avenue delicatessen last month over a waiter who could make a white napkin look like a rabbit.

And only three weeks ago, two female talk-show hostesses had a hair-pulling contest in a beauty shop over the TV rights to an author of the definitive book on false eyelashes.

IN ORDER to avoid an all-out war between the talk-show commentators, a secret conference was called at Johnny Carson's hideaway farm in the Adirondacks.

Black limousines with their shades drawn kept arriving at two-minute intervals and out stepped such big guns in the talk business as David Frost, Dick Cavett, Mike Douglas, Hugh Downs, Barbara Walters, Virginia Graham, Irv Kup, and David Susskind. Every major TV host and hostess was there.

Everyone brought his own producer and talent coordinator for protection, but Carson's people made everybody leave their teleprompters at the door.

Ed McMahon opened the meeting by saying, "And heeerrrre's Johnny."

CARSON GOT down to business right away. "We all know why we're here," he said. "There's a crisis in the talk-show business and unless we find an answer to it we'll all be doing commercials for Maxwell House coffee."

"Right," said Mike Douglas. "Now, my boys in Philadelphia say that unless some equal way is figured out to share the few available guests left, we're going to take them off the metroliner before they reach New York."

"Is that so?" said Virginia Graham. "Well, we on the West Coast are getting sick and tired of your eastern talk shows coming out here and grabbing all our guests."

"That's right, Ginny," said Merv Griffin. "If you muscle in on our territory, we" muscle in on yours."

DAVID FROST spoke up, "We're not getting anywhere with threats. As I see it, no matter what we do, we've used up every singer, comedian, author and politician for the next two years. A new crop should be coming up by then, but none of us can wait. What I suggest is that we each volunteer to go on each other's shows to fill the vacuum. After all, we are more interesting than the people we interview."

"I agree with David," Dick Cavett said, "but it seems to me the public would become very suspicious if we kept turning up on each other's shows without a reason."

"Why don't we each write a book? Then we would have a legitimate reason for going on each other's show," David Susskind said.

Carson replied, "You know we don't have tiem to write books."

"But suppose," said Frost, "we put together transcripts of our interviews with our former talk-show guests. Wouldn't that constitute a book?"

"Of course," said Barbara Walters. "Then no one could criticize us for going on each other's show."

AND SO IT was decided that each talk-show host would put together the best talks he or she has had. This would mean 345 books, which would take up the talk lack for the next two years.

As the long black limousines pulled out of Carson's farm, the state police, who were tipped off to the meeting, showed up. But, unfortunately, almost everyone got away.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 28, 1960

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 28, 1950

Gen. Douglas MacArthur asked authority to bomb Manchurian bases as a 200,000-man North Korean-Chinese army routed U.N. troops and threatened to encircle American forces.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, unhappy with performance of the county fire department, threatened to turn over fire protection in the unincorporated areas to the state Division of Forestry.

Real Pot Of Gold Found In Marin

More re: the rainbow.

I love it for a very special reason. I have only recently moved to Marin, and when I return home from a business trip to San Francisco, the rainbow gives me a warm feeling because I have escaped the 5 per cent intercity telephone tax, the extra ½ per cent tax on purchases, the increased cost of the Chronicle (I now subscribe to the I-J). Scavenger collection, water and ad infinitum.

Social Security Honors Centenarian

Your reporter neglected to mention, however, that in addition to her other cards, Mrs. Mathiasen also received a personal birthday greeting from Robert M. Ball, commissioner of social security, which I had the pleasure of presenting to her several days before her birthday.

Mrs. Mathiasen is indeed a delightful woman, one of several centenarians receiving social security benefits in Marin County. We in the Scoial Security Administration wish her continued good health and the privilege of sending checks to her for many years to come.

Red Wavelength Really Longest

Your paper of today (Nov. 24) carried a letter from a reader who appears to be mistaken as to color and wavelength.

I refer the reader to page 47 of Dr. Larmore's "Introduction to Photographic Principles." Red, like old-fashioned red drawers, are the longest visible portion of the electromagnetic spectrum, being in the 6,700 "A" range. Violet is shortest.

Britain, Like U.S., Is Plagued By Inflation And Unemployment

LONDON — Both President Richard Nixon and Prime Minister Edward Heath are wrestling with the same demon. Inflation is an imminent threat to the best-laid plans to restore stability and orderly growth.

Inflation is a drug, a stimulant, a form of economic "speed," that the West has been hooked on for a very long time. In West Germany, Chancellor Willy Brandt's Christian Democratic opposition exploits the fear of steadily rising prices as effectively as it cultivates the alleged peril of too close an embrace with the Communist bloc in Brandt's East policy. In the background is the memory of the bushel-basket inflation that brought down the Weimar Republic in the '20s.

THE FEVER CHART of inflation is up more sharply in Britain than in the United States. The cost of living has gone up nearly 7½ per cent in the past 12 months. The rise in October was 1½ points.

In office six months, Heath is being pressed hard to do something about it. He has already cut back government services by a billion dollars. These cuts range from whacking off agricultural subsidies — a saving to the taxpayer who will then pay more for food at the story — to cutting out free milk for school children over seven.

With an almost religious conviction Heath holds to the virtues of free enterprise and the need to take the government out of business. The Conservatives would like to turn the nationalized steel industry, or part of it, back to private ownership. The prime minister would, in short, reverse the trend of welfare statism and public ownership and give the citizen more of his own money to spend as he chooses.

But taking business off the dole is proving difficult. The Labor opposition in parliament jeered the government's proposal to give Rolls Royce a subsidy of more than $100 million to develop a new engine for a British-made air bus.

Whether inflation can be checked without rising unemployment and a spate of bankruptcies is doubtful. That may explain Heath's hesitation as a rising chorus of his own back-benchers in the House of Commons demands that he get on with it.

Large-scale unemployment is a specter in Britain. In November the number of unemployed rose by 4,000 to a total of 602,000 or 2.6 per cent of the labor force. That may seem small measured against the United State's 5.6 per cent, but the figure is the highest since 1940.

BOTH HEATH and Nixon can put the blame on the men who preceded them in office. The President can point to Lyndon Johnson's failure to apply taxes to pay the cost of his escalation of the Vietnam War. The Conservatives charge Harold Wilson and his Labor government with yielding to exorbitant wage demands.

With labor as the key, if stability under a system closer to free enterprise is to be restored, the Conservative majority in Parliament is backing a measure like the Taft-Hartley Act to prevent wildcat strikes. Strikes by 100 or 150 workers that shop stewards seem powerless to control have shut down for long periods plants employing thousands of workers. The competitive position of British goods, conspicuously motor cars, on the world market is steadily eroded.

The Conservative government has one advantage over the Nixon administration, and that is beginning with a clean copy book. While what to write in that copy book is unclear, the options are still open. It will take courage and strong and appealing leadership to prune back the luxuriant government growth of recent decades.

In contrast, the Nixon copy book is, after two years, blotted. The bland assumption was that the economy could be cooled without increasing unemployment. Whether president or prime minister can stop the merry-go-round is anyone's guess. But Heath would seem to have a better chance, with a margin of time and a solid election victory still of recent memory.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Giants Of Communism Learning To Get Along

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

When Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin made his surprise visit to Peking in September, 1969, he proposed to Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai they seek out areas where they might agree rather than those where they could not.

After a decade of deteriorating relations, in which war seemed a distinct likelihood, the Kosygin proposal has become the premise of their dealings with each other.

The two had withdrawn their ambassadors in 1966.

OTHER EVENTS in November included the signing of a new trade agreement between the two and a warmer than usual message from Peking to Moscow congratulating the Soviet Union on its 53rd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

It was not back to the good old days of 1959 when trade between the two came to more than $2 billion, nor was it back to early 1969 when bloody border clashes along their 5,000 mile borders brought relations to their lowest point.

It was shortly after the Kosygin visit that the two began their border talks which have been going on ever since.

The attempt to lower tensions has been apparent on both sides.

THE RUSSIANS have avoided criticism of the Chinese leadership and have voiced a desire both for improved relations with the Chinese government and with the Chinese people. The declarations studiously avoid any mention of relations between the two huge Communist parties, seemingly split irreconcilably over the Soviet policy of peaceful coexistence and the Red Chinese advocacy of violent revolution.

Chou En-lai told Kosygin that never in 10,000 years would the Chinese swerve from their own interpretation of Marxist-Leninism.

ON THE CHINESE side, the more relaxed attitude toward the Russians has been accompanied by a similar relation toward the world in general, with the United States the main exception.

The Chinese Cultural Revolution, reaching a peak in 1967-68, saw the Chinese withdraw their representatives from most of the world as Mao Tse-tung tore down the party structure and, with the help of the military, rebuilt it closer to his own image.

That revolution has been largely completed and the Chinese are re-emerging.

Travelers doing business with them report the country is settling down to the main jobs of supplying food for a population that expands by 10 million annually and is developing its industries.

Years of good growing weather have helped.

WHILE IT IS apparent that both sides are attempting to avoid a major confrontation, it is apparent also that both are keeping their powder dry.

The Russians are reported to have at least 35 divisions along the border and to be capable of launching an offensive with either conventional or nuclear weapons.

The Chinese also have been building up their conventional forces and are said to be nearly ready with at least a handful of missiles in the 1,500 to 2,000 mile range.

Ramadhan: Month Of Fasting For Moslem World

BEIRUT (UPI) —As November ends the first silver flicker of light from the new moon will announce the dawning of one of the world's great feasts —Id al-Fitr.

Millions of Moslems around the world will laugh, eat, drink, make love and light bonfires to mark the end of Ramadhan, the rigorous month-long fast which turns night into day and keen-eyed workmen into drowsy somnambulists.

Naming it a time of trial, the Koran declared: "O believers, prescribed for you is the fast . . . the month of Ramadhan wherein the Koran was sent down to be a guidance to the people, and as clear signs of guidance and salvation.

"So let those of you who are present at the month, fast it. And if any of you be sick, or if he be on a journey, then a number of other days . . .

"And eat and drink until the white thread shows clearly to you from the black thread at dawn, then complete the fast until the night."

Ramadhan this year began with the sighting of the new moon on Oct. 31. Muezzins on their minaret platforms, the thunder of ancient cannons and excited announcements over modern radio brought the news to the Moslem faithful.

Since then believers have abstained daily from all food and drink between dawn and sunset. Not even a taste of water may wet the lips of those keeping the fast.

Even pregnant or nursing women are required to give a bushel of wheat to the poor on the days they cannot fast.

Sex is forbidden during the fasting hours. So is smoking. In places such as Saudi Arabia, where the Islamic law is scrupulously observed, not even visiting non-Moslems are permitted to smoke in public.

At that moment the faithful quickly offer prayers and break their fast, first quenching their thirst with water, or —in the Arab world —drinking thick apricot syrup prepared from thin round wafers of dried apricots.

As the first meal ends, nighttime streets become alive with activity in the topsy-turvy Ramadhan world. Restaurants and coffee shops are thronged. Thousands pour into the brightly lighted mosques for the fifth prayer of the day.

Much social visiting takes place at least until 3 a.m. when the cannons fire again to signal the sahur, the last meal permitted before dawn.

In many Moslem cities a town crier roams the streets beating a drum to rouse those who have snatched a few hours sleep. "Wake sleepers," he cries, "it is time for sahur and prayers."

Then, at the moment a white thread can be distinguished in natural light from a black one, the eating ends and fasting resumes.

There seems little doubt that the Ramadhan Fast takes its toll of efficiency and industrial productivity. Sleepy workers fail to achieve much during a month in which they spend most of the night feasting. However, the law of the Koran takes precedence over the demands of a modern age.

The end of the month, signalled by the appearance of a new moon, relieves pressures which become intense. The festival of ending the fast, known as "The Little Id," is the second greatest day in the Islamic calendar.

Each family member wears new clothes and shoes and the souks (markets) of the Arab world offer everything from Egyptian cotton to English wool in all patterns and colors. Candies and chocolates, stored long beforehand, are consumed in vast quantitites by sweet-toothed Arabs.

Homes are scrubbed, rugs beaten and white starched covers are placed on the chairs.

In countries where Ramadhan is strictly kept, Id becomes a long festival. Saudi Arabia has a one-week holiday. Bands of men armed with swords dance the national ardah —once a war dance —in the streets and sing to the beat of drums.

The celebrations assert that the flesh may now be appeased, having endured the strictures of the fast.

The practice of fasting as a spiritual discipline is both ancient and widespread. It antedates Islam even among the Arabs. The Prophet himself, according to tradition, observed the feast of Ashura, a custom derived from the Jewish Day of Atonement.

HOLIDAY SHOPPER

Excellent New Bible Editions

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

If you accept the premise that Christmas is supposed to have some religious significance, you're wide open to the suggestion that the best possible Christmas gift is a Bible.

The suggestion is especially valid this year, as several excellent new editions of the Bible are available for Christmas giving.

Heading the list are The New English Bible and the New American Bible. The New English Bible is the work of British Protestant scholars. The New American Bible was produced by American Catholic scholars. Both are fresh translations from the original biblical languages (Hebrew and Greek) into eminently readable contemporary English.

The New English Bible (Oxford and Cambridge University Presses, standard edition $8.95) seems to me somewhat superior in clarity and elegance of language, but I would give high marks also to the New American Bible (St. Anthony Guild Press or Catholic Book Publishing Co., $8.50). Neither translation has any narrow "denominational" bias, and there is no reason at all why Protestants should not read the Catholic translation or vice versa.

If you feel like splurging on a gift for someone special, your best bet is the new deluxe edition of The Jerusalem Bible with 32 magnificent color plates by Salvador Dali (Doubleday, $39.95). The Jerusalem Bible has been available in English since 1966 and has won wide acclaim from both Catholic and Protestant scholars. This large-type edition, printed on a special kind of paper that's reputed to last for 2,000 years, is about as handsome a Bible as you'll ever see, and the Dali paintings are magnificent, a striking departure from his old surrealist style.

At the other extreme in price is Good News For Modern Man, thek fantastic little paperback published by the American Bible Society. It is the New Testament in sprightly, idiomatic English, illustrated by 200 line drawings. Some 24 million copies have been sold, which is sufficient proof of its appeal for readers of all ages.

This is a good choice for distribution to a long list of people: the price is only 35 cents. That's below the actual cost of printing. The loss is subsidized by the publisher, the nonprofit American Bible Society. You can find it on newsstandsa nd in book stores, or order it directly from the Society at 1865 Broadway, New York 10023.

For children, there are several superb new books of Bible stories, including Young Readers Book of Bible Stories (Abingdon, $7.95); the Taize Picture Bible (Fortress Press, $4.95); and Bible for Children (Westminister, $4.95). Perhaps the best of the lot is the series of paperback Bible story books with full-color, full-page illustrations, published under the Arch Books label (Concordia Publishing Co. 39 cents each, set of six for $2.25).

If your shopping list includes a blind person, or an elderly person with failing vision, you might consider a "talking Bible." The American Bible Society has recorded its Good News for Modern Man on records for $6.75, or in cassettes for $29. All orders to the Society, for books or recordings, should be accompanied by a 5 per cent fee for mailing and handling.

Marinite Will Deliver Talk

Leonard DeMartini, associate minister of the San Rafael Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, will be one of the speakers at next weekend's semi-annual circuit assembly at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Martini's talk is scheduled at 8:45 p.m. Friday, opening day of the gathering. His topic will be "Show Love — Help All Press on to Maturity."

Highlight of the assembly will be a talk on Sunday at 8 p.m. by Alvyn L. Franck, district ministerial supervisor.

Folk Concert

Wednesday's Children, a folk group from Burbank, will be among groups performing at a 2 p.m. festival tomorrow at Brown's Hall, Mill Valley, under sponsorship of the Baha'i Community of Marin.

New Leaflets For Mission

Retracing the steps of Father Junipero Serra, Mrs. Mary Kuepper of Malibu brought 5,000 packets of "Good News for California" to Mission San Rafael Arcangel in San Rafael to celebrate National Bible Week this week.

Mrs. Kuepper, coordinator of Roman Catholic women's activities for the American Bible Society in 13 Western states, has visited each mission in California to distribute the packets picturing each of the Spanish missions of California with readings from scripture on each leaflet.

Most of the selections are from "Good News for Modern Man," a new translation of the New Testament accepted widely from both Protestants and Roman Catholics.

POPE GIVEN COPY OF NEW AMERICAN BIBLE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has a new Bible.

The pontiff received a copy of the New American Bible, specially bound in white leather, as a gift from the Catholic bishops of the United States. It was presented to him by Cardinal John Dearden, Archbishop of Detroit and president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, and Bishop Joseph L. Bernardin, general secretary of the organization.

Bishop Bernardin, upon returning to the United States, said the pontiff expressed deep appreciation for the efforts of the 49 scholars, four of whom were Protestants, who translated and edited the New American Bible.

The New American Bible, a 26-year project, was translated into modern English from the original texts of Greek, Hebrew and Aramaic.

In accepting the gift, His Holiness sent a message to the United States bishops that said in part: "We are gratified to find in this new translation of the Scriptures a new opportunity for men to give themselves to frequent reading of, and meditation on, the living word of God. In its pages we recognize His voice, we hear a message of deep significance for every one of us. Through the spiritual dynamism and prophetic force of the Bible, the Holy Spirit spread His light and His warmth over all men, in whatever historical or sociological situation they find themselves."

CARDINAL POLICY

Decree Unlikely To Placate Liberals

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The decision by Pope Paul VI to bar cardinals over 80 years old from voting in the election of popes is unlikely to placate liberal churchmen who want the election thrown open to the church's 3,000 bishops.

The Pope, in an historic and revolutionary decree published Monday, ruled that any cardinal over the age of 80 can no longer vote in the conclave to elect a successor to the throne of St. Peter.

Although the new ruling goes far in reducing the conservative influence of age in voting for a new pope, it does little toward meeting demands of such liberal churchmen as Cardinal Leo J. Suenens of Belgium.

Suenens, 66, and one of the Roman Catholic Church's most outspoken liberals, has called for expanding the voting for new popes to include all the church's more than 3,000 bishops or at least the presidents of national conferences of bishops.

Suenens has so far not commented on the pope's decree.

The private theological feud between the Pope and Suenens was brought to the surface earlier this month when the Pope Paul said in a congratulatory telegram to the Belgian on his 25th anniversary on becoming a bishop that he was praying for Suenens to find "strength and wisdom."

The papal ruling also barred cardinals over 80 from working in the Vatican government and stipulated they must offer their resignations from top curia posts at the age of 75. The Pope may either accept or ignore the resignations at the earlier age.

The decree renewed speculation that the pontiff himself may resign when he reaches either 75 or 80. But Vatican officials refuse to even discuss the possibility either publicly or privately and the Pope has never hinted at such a step.

Only one other Roman Catholic Pope has voluntarily resigned his pontificate and that was in 1294 when Pope Celestine V stepped down after five months reign. Pope Paul visited Celestine's death place in 1966, the same year he suggested bishops should resign their office at age 75, but said nothing about following Celestine's example.

The decree, which will affect 25 cardinals out of the 127 now enrolled in the college, will come into effect Jan. 1.

Glimpse At Missions In Africa

Dr. Nobel Brown, professor of New Testament and an administrator for the Nigerian Baptist Theological Seminary, Ogbomosho, Nigeria, will discuss missions in Africa during tomorrow's 6 p.m. service at the First Baptist Church in Novato.

Brown, who is visiting professor of New Testament at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Mill Valley, while on furlough from Nigeria, will illustrate his talk with slides depicting missionary work in Nigeria.

The 40-year-old Southern Baptist missionary and educator has been assigned to Nigeria since 1963. He is a 1956 graduate of North Texas State University, and earned his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Golden Gate when the seminary campus was still in Berkeley.

He was awarded his Doctor of Theology degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.

Ordained in 1952, Brown served in California and Kentucky as a pastor. He was for two and one-half years a fellow and instructor in New Testament Greek at Southern Seminary.

Liberal Policy Gains Support From West German Church

HAMBURG (GF) — The decision of a section of West Germany's Protestant Church to give 27,000 dollars to the anti-racism program of the World Council of Churches has sparked a heated controversy in this country.

The nation's Protestant Church is split over whether to support political organizations such as African liberation movements for which the money is destined, though it would be used only for humanitarian purposes, for legal aid, information and domestic improvements.

Preceding the dispute was a resolution by the recent synod of the United German Evangelical-Lutheran Church defending use of force by the individual Christian to protect the rights of others.

The synod, at Eutin, Germany, added that the church itself must not resort to violence, lest it destroy its own credibility. Nevertheless, endorsement of violence in support of freedom movements was rejected by the Geneva Secretariat of the Ecumenical Council.

Since then, West Germany's Hesse-Nassau Regional Synod of the Evangelical Church has accepted the Geneva interpretation and has voted to join in the World Council of Churches' 200,000 anti-racism program.

Active church aid for freedom movements is of course more than just a moral decision against racial discrimination. It is, as Ecumenical Council Communications Section Director van den Heuvel says, a political decision.

Van den Heuvel explains that in 1966 the ecumenical movement urged not just integration of colored peoples into existing society. The movement said a solution of the racial problem could be achieved only through a change of social conditions.

Church leaders meeting in Uppsala later also concluded the main effort must be directed against white racism, because they said this was the most urgent problem.

Reaction in West Germany to the Hesse-Nassau regional church decision tends to follow general political patterns.

Thus, the conservative daily newspaper "Die Welt" of Hamburg spoke out against a "miserable theological simplification" and disputed the church's right to "finance the sword in the name of the cross."

The liberal "Sueddeutsche Zeitung" of Munich countered that the church must in deed give up its tradition of political abstinence. Religious leaders, it added, "must abandon their institutional ghetto of outdated religious mysticism."

Guest Priest Will Celebrate Eucharist

Rev. Joseph Kennedy, former assistant to the rector at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Oakland, will celebrate Holy Eucharist at both the 8 and 10 a.m. services tomorrow at The Church in Ignacio.

At noon he will meet with the Bishop's Committee as a possible candidate as interim priest, according to H. Erwin Griffin, warden.

Physician To Give Seminary Lecture On Medical Ethics

"Who Is To Live," a lecture on medical ethics for a Christian physician will be given by Dr. Ernest P. Guy, associate professor at the University of California School of Medicine, during "Lecture and Dialogue Day" at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary on Wednesday.

The talk, to begin at 9:50 a.m. in Room 210, Academic Building on the campus at Strawberry will include a discussion of the ethics of abortions and heart transplants, according to Dr. J. Roger Skelton, chairman of the Chapel and Special Events Committee at Golden Gate.

The public is invited to attend the lecture and a question-answer, dialogue session which will follow, Skelton said.

"Lecture and Dialogue Day" was begun during the 1970-71 school year as a monthly event to give students, faculty and other interested persons an opportunity to hear and talk with prominent men regarding current thought and issues.

Dr. Guy is the second speaker featured in the fall quarter series of lectures. The California medical doctor and teacher is also active in California Southern Baptist circles and is chairman of the Board of Trustees for Golden Gate Seminary, having served on the board since 1961.

A native of Jackson, Tenn., Guy is a 1946 graduate of Union University in Jackson and received his medical degree from the University of Tennessee's College of Medicine in 1949. Following an internship at John Gaston Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., Guy practiced medicine in Henderson, Tenn. He has been on the California School of Medicine staff since 1957.

In 1962-63, Guy was granted a year's leave from the UC School of Medicine to assume duties as visiting professor of anesthesia at the American University of Beirut, Lebanon.

He is an active member of Tiburon Baptist Church, where he is chairman of the board of deacons and teaches a men's Bible class.

Used Clothing, Toy Shop Opens

A new children's shop featuring new and used clothing and toys opened yesterday next door to the FYT (Formative Years Training) School, 1046 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley.

School Director Jaki Albright said that proceeds will be used for school scholarships. Hours of the shop until Christmas will be 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The school has also started a series of Saturday films for children 3 to 8 years old designed so that parents can be free for Christmas shopping. The full-length features will be shown each Saturday until Christmas at 10 a.m. and at 1 p.m.

Sports Events Cheerleaders Are Elected

San Rafael High School students have elected cheerleader teams for the varsity, jayvee and other teams at the school, according to Kerry Easom, director of elections.

She said the winners in the election were:

Freshmen — The Jabarakos with Janet Love, Janet Kamp, Barbara Bowers, Renee Fish, Karen Kelly and Joann Flynn.

Advanced Student Art To Be Displayed

The College of Marin Art Gallery will display work by advanced students of the Rudolph Schaeffer School of Design in San Francisco, from Thursday through Dec. 18.

Hours for the Kentfield campus gallery are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Reduced Charge In Cannibal Death

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (UPI)— A jury has returned a verdict of guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter against Harry Alan Stroup, 20, in connection with the canibalistic death last July of a Roundup, Mont., welfare worker.

The trial was highlighted by the testimony of Stanley Dean Baker, a friend of Stroup's who told the court he alone was guilty of the crime.

Baker earlier had pleaded guilty to murder and had been sentenced to life imprisonment. Stroup was to be sentenced later.

I-J Carrier averts serious fire, wins Community Award

If young Mark Bramman, I-J carrier of Tiburon, had not been "alert and inquisitive we would have had a very serious fire." The quote is from Tiburon Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher, commenting on Mark's recent exploit in saving a home from serious damage.

For keeping his "cool" in a hot situation and taking immediate action, Mark is the winner of the Community Service Award of the California Newspaperboy Foundation.

Deeds like this are not at all uncommon among I-J newspaperboys. Because they are intimately aware of the community. They know virtually every house on their routes. And being trained to be responsible, these youngsters seem to respond to situations requiring decision. Mark Bramman is a pretty outstanding example.

Outlook Dim For Taxi Settlement

NEW YORK (UPI)—Efforts to avert a strike by the city's 36,000 taxicab drivers have reached an impasse and the situation is "highly critical," the chief mediator in the contract dispute warned Friday.

The owners and drivers reported earlier this week they had arrived at a "general understanding" pending a review by their accountants, but State Mediation Board Chairman Vincent D. McDonnell told leaders of the City Council Friday the agreement had broken down.

The council's Consumer Affairs Committee, which had convened to meet with negotiators on a possible increase in taxi fares to finance the new contract, adjourned indefinitely as both sides resumed talks in McDonnell's office.

"We thoughe we had it but a study of the figures shows we don't have anything to go before the committee with," Harry Van Arsdale, president of the taxi drivers union, said.

McDonnell said the situation was "highly critical" and Van Arsdale said while he hoped there would be no strike he was not optimistic.

"We've done everything possible to avoid a stoppage," he said. "We'll continue our effort but there is nothing to be optimistic about."

The 36,000 drivers and 1,200 garage workers had scheduled a strike for midnight Nov. 17 but postponed it after Mayor John V. Lindsay proposed a fare raise to provide funds for a $53 million contract settlement.

The "general understanding" was said to fall within the limits of the mayor's proposal, which would have raised the price of the average taxi ride from $1.35 to $1.90 and instituted a toll of 25 cents for each passenger after the first.

The drivers, who presently average $150 a week, sought parity with other transit workers earning $174 to $200 a week.

Markleeville Not Overly Concerned

MARKLEEVILLE (UPI) — Residents of mountainous Alpine County do not seem overly worried by the three-person advance guard of the Gay Liberation Front scouting the area over the holiday weekend for a threatened takeover.

"I don't think they'll make it," said Gus Egger, a member of the county board of supervisors for 22 years and owner of this town's only grocery. "I think it's just a lark. These guys have no idea how they'll make a living once they get to Alpine County.

"Maybe they'll be able to infiltrate in two or three years, but I don't see any big takeover right away."

Two men and a woman from the homosexual group gathered on the courthouse steps Thursday, but only newsmen and a beagle greeted them.

Steve Beckwith, a Los Angeles accountant, said the GLF is serious about its plan to import enough homosexuals to outnumber the county's 384 registered voters and elect a gay county government.

"At first it was just an idea," he said, "but thousands of gay people have rallied to our cause and now we have international support."

He said the GLF hopes to call a town hall meeting Dec. 18, when he said a much larger contingent from his organization will be present to make plans.

"We want to show the local residents that homosexuals are just plain people like everybody else," Beckwith told reporters.

He was accompanied by a young man who identified himself as Rod Gibson and a young lady named June Herrle.

Retail Stores See Upswing In Holiday Sales

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most retail stores expect an upturn in Christmas business this year although selling will be harder, it was reported yesterday by the Bureau of Advertising.

The bureau, an agency of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said three out of four retailers said tight money, unemployment, and increased competition will make selling tough and at least 13 per cent of them reported they would start promotional campaigns earlier this year.

According to the bureau, 55 per cent of the retailers anticipated an increase in sales although 73 per cent felt selling would be more difficult than last year.

The figures were based on a survey of 307 retailers. The bureau also reported that prices of items advertised by department, specialty and general merchandise stores averaged 0.91 per cent higher in October that they did the same month in 1969.

Cove Apartment Hearing Reset

Four-thousand flyers to the contrary notwithstanding, a hearing on the 102-unit Strawberry Cove apartment project will not be held Tuesday by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

William Rochester, co-chairman of Save Strawberry Cove, said he learned yesterday that the hearing has been postponed to Dec. 17, but it was too late to halt the mailing of flyers to 4,000 Strawberry and other Marin residents.

The meeting will begin at 2 p.m. in room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco.

49ers Favored Over Rams In Kezar Mud Tomorrow

Big Game In Race For Title

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The last time the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams played on a muddy field at old Kezar the Rams "escaped" with a tie and a rebuke of the stadium that got coach George Allen a slap on the wrists from Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

If Allen thought Kezar was in bad shape for that 20-20 standoff two years ago wait until he gets a load of the field for Sunday's big showdown with the 49ers, which could decide the NFC West title.

Rain early in the week, plus a high school game Thursday has left the field in about as poor condition as it can be, but really not all that bad when you consider some 40 plus games were played there this year.

Two days ago sea gulls practiced landings and takeoffs at midfield and when the water finally receded there wasn't a blade of grass in sight between the 40 yard lines,

GOSSETT GOAL

Bruce Gossett booted a field goal with 17 seconds left in that game two years ago to help the Rams save a 20-20 tie. After the game Allen called Kezar Stadium such things as "a disgrace, something they ought to give to the hippies, and the worst stadium in pro football."

Some of his athletes felt the same way and they yelled almost as loud as Allen, but Deacon Jones, the Rams' star defensive end, felt only charity.

"I feel sorry for the 49ers," Jones said then. "We play here only once. They have to nearly every week. The commissioner should do something about it."

Rozelle did, the very next day, advising Allen to keep his opinions to himself and not to air them publicly. He also told the Los Angeles coach he would be held responsible if any of his players made disparaging remarks about Kezar.

That was two years ago. The Rams survived the tie to win the division title. Now, they come to San Francisco a game behind the 49ers in the division race and 2½ point underdogs. And Kezar is a mess.

TOUGH CUSTOMERS

The Rams still are pretty tough customers but this time so, too, are the 49ers whose 7-2-1 record actually belies how good they have played this year. Los Angeles is 6-3-1, losing to Minnesota 13-3, to the New York Jets 31-20, and to the 49ers 20-6.

San Francisco's losses were to Atlanta, 21-20, and to the Detroit Lions last Sunday, 28-7.

Sunday's game brings together an offensive line (of San Francisco's) that has given its quarterback the best protection in the NFL and a defensive line (Rams) which has dumped opposing quarterbacks a league leading 44 times.

John Brodie is having one of his best years as San Francisco quarterback mostly because he has been operating behind a fine line which has kept enemy rushers off his back every time except seven.

The 49ers have a couple of other things going for them, too. In addition to seeing Brodie lead the league in passing they have the league's third leading pass receiver in Gene Washington, the league's sixth leading scorer in Gossett and the league's No. 5 rusher in Ken Willard.

FRONT FOUR

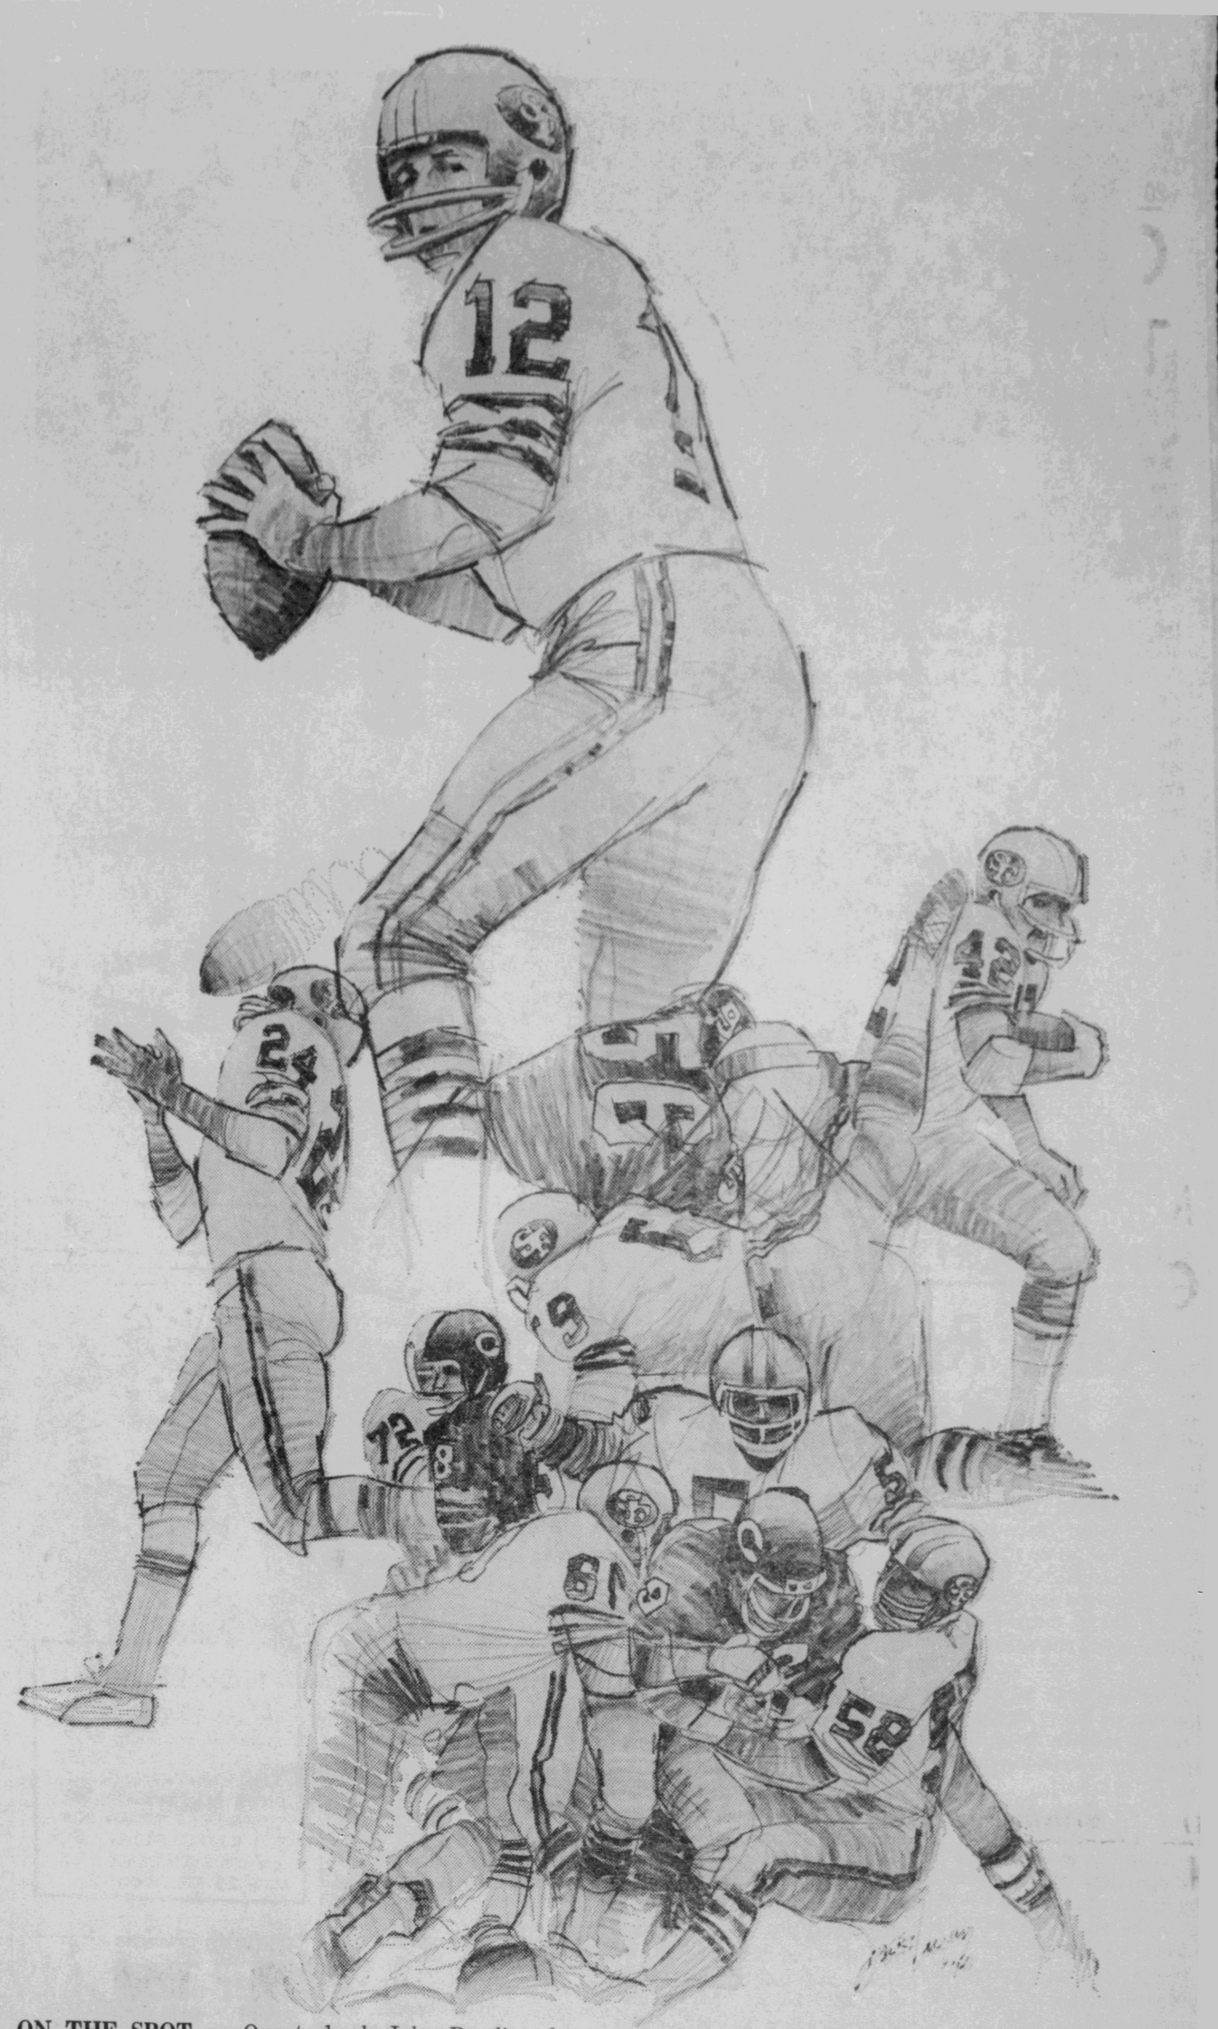
A "new" man in their defensive backfield is Kermit Alexander, who played so many years for the 49ers. He went over to Los Angeles during the off-season in exchange for Gossett, a move which has worked out well for both clubs.

Offensive tackle Cas Banaszek, who missed last week's game against the Lions, more than likely will start for San Francisco. He'll line up nose to nose with Jones, a man he has been able to contain in previous confrontations.

The Rams have lost running back Tommy Mason for the season. He had a shoulder operation in Oklahoma City Friday. Cornerback Eddie Meador (hamstring) and linebacker Maxie Baughan (arch) are possible starters for the Rams. If they can't go then Alvin Hammond and Jim Purnell will take over as they did last Sunday in the 17-7 victory over Atlanta.



ON THE SPOT — Quarterback John Brodie of the 49ers, depicted in drawing by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey, will lead San Francisco against the rugged Los Angeles Rams tomorrow at Kezar Stadium.

MARIN BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Texas Transfer Sparks Tam To Impressive Win

Center Will Garner, a junior transfer from El Paso, Tex., poured 22 points through the nets at Tamalpais High School last night to lead the Indians of Mill Valley to a 81-58 devastating win over Lincoln of San Francisco. It was the Indian's first basketball game of the season.

Other Marin County Athletic League teams did not fare so well last night. In season opening games, Redwood lost to Washington of San Francisco, 44-38 in Larkspur, and Terra Linda bowed to Salesian in Richmond, 65-48. Losing for the second straight time were San Rafael, which bowed to Armijo in Fairfield, 62-58, and San Marin, an overtime victim of Healdsburg, 58-53 in Novato.

Four Tam Indians made double figures including flashy guard John Earl Huff who ran the visitors from the city's AAA league dizzy. Huff scored 15 points in the three quarters he played. Tam coach Bernie Schneider pulled him at the start of the final period, and took out Garner just minutes afterward to avoid further embarrassment to the Mustangs.

Garner, 6-foot-3, who started as a sophomore last year for a team that went to his state's finals, posted 12 points in the third quarter when the Indians outscored the city team, 31-17. Actually, the game was a "no contest" affair as early as the second period, when Huff sparked a rally that gave Tam a 29-22 halftime lead.

Also in double figures for the Indians were David Jones, who picked up 12 as a replacement for Huff late in the game, and forward Steve Miles with 11.

The defending MCAL champion Redwood Giants found the going rough against Washington. Scott Thobbe collected a game-high 18 points for Dick Hart's local troops, and Steve McGee added 13, but the Larkspur team couldn't hold a 20-19 halftime lead.

Terra Linda trailed Salesian by just one point going into the fourth quarter, but then the roof caved in on Bob Corley's boys. Starting guards Larry Kerr and Gordon Walker fouled out, and forward Joe Casteel sat out most of the final period in foul trouble, so the Richmond team took the opportunity to outscore the Trojans, 33-18 and put the game away.

Casteel had a hot hand before he came out, and ended up leading all scorers with 21 points.

San Rafaels' Bulldogs took their second loss in as many games, but this contest was far closer than Wednesday's 96-68 rout at the hands of Sonoma. Down by six at the half, the Bulldogs rallied to tie the game with minutes remaining, but just couldn't turn the tide. Jerry Malinari racked up 15 points to lead Coach Mike Diaz' San Rafael team, and following him were Jim Thorne with 11, and Wayne Lechner with nine.

The San Marin Mustangs also improved over Wednesday night, when they lost to Napa, 72-46. Once again, though, they played without star center Dana LaFerriere, suspended two days ago for reasons coach Andy Frauenhofer stated were "personal."

Marin Wins Cage Opener

College of Marin Tars, playing sloppy but explosive basketball, waltzed to a season-opening, 90-75 win over College of San Mateo last night in Kentfield.

The Tars were as inexperienced as possible at playing together with no returning letterman — and they made an almost unbelievable total of 35 turnovers. But four players hit double figures, and Marin stormed to as much as a 21 point lead in the second half.

Mike Peden led all scorers with 21 points; following him were Joe Smith with 17, Ed Herrnberber with 14, and Rooseveit Green with 12.

"We shot well but we didn't handle the ball well," said coach John Panagakis. "The first game always shows you have a lot of work to do."

Warriors Muff One; Host L.A.

OAKLAND (UPI) — They muffed a chance Friday night, but the San Francisco Warriors can barge into first place tonight in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division.

The Warriors, now 13-10, host the division-leading Los Angeles Lakers at the Oakland Arena. The Lakers have won two less games and have lost seven.

Nate Thurmond entered the Warrior record book when he scored a field goal in the opening period to raise his career point total to 8,015, bettering by one the old mark held by Wilt Chamberlain. For the game, Thurmond had 16 points.

For the Sonics, player-coach Len Wilkens scored 31 points and Don Kojis 22.

MARIN NETTER ACCEPTS BID TO AUSTRALIA

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, 18, one of America's budding young tennis stars, has postponed a trip to South Africa next week in order to compete in tournaments in New Zealand and Australia this month, it was announced today by her father, Les Walsh of San Rafael.

Miss Walsh is vacationing in England this week following participation in tournament play there, but will return to San Rafael next week before departing for the "Down Under" tournaments. "She'll have to change her wardrobe from winter to summer clothing," her father said, "because it's hot in Australia at this time of year."

Following the important Australian tournament Miss Walsh plans to play in South Africa and possibly other tournaments in Europe.

Namath Declared Out For Season

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Jets placed quarterback Joe Namath on the reserve list Friday, ending any chance that he would return to action before the end of the National Football League season.

Namath broke his right wrist in a game against Baltimore, Oct. 18. He is scheduled to meet with his doctor early next week for an examination of the wrist, but the Jets felt that regardless of his improvement it would be best for Namath to avoid playing until next year.

Namath has stated that he unequivocably intends to return to football in 1971.

The Jets, who were expected to be a power this season, have only a 3-7 record.

Poor Seals Drop Sixth Straight

OAKLAND (UPI)—As if he didn't have his hands full with a slumping hockey team, California Seals coach Fred Glover has agreed to double temporarily as general manager of the National Hockey League club.

Glover, who will fill in for Bill Torrey, who left the post earlier this week, made the announcement before Friday night's game with the Minnesota North Stars, which the Seals dropped 3-2, gaining a firmer hold on the NHL West Division cellar.

The luckless Seals had twice come from behind in the second period to tie the score 2-2, but Minnesota rookie Jude Drouin's deflection goal in the final period wrapped it up and handed the Seals their sixth straight loss.

California had a chance to tie it in the final minute when Ted Harris of the North Stars was sent to the penalty box for tripping. California pulled Gary Smith for an extra skater, but they couldn't get past Minnesota goalie Cesare Maniago.

After a scoreless first period, Minnesotas' Danny Grant lit up the scoreboard by tapping in a rebound at 4:44. Oakland's Ernie Hicke matched this four minutes later following a two-on-one break.

Danny O'Shea tipped in a pass from the corner to put the North Stars ahead less than a minute later, and Oakland got its final goal at 12:12 by Billy Hicke, Ernie's brother, on a power play.

In assuming the managerial post, Glover becomes the fifth coach in the NHL this season to double as a manager.

Knick Ace Sees Blood On Horizon

By United Press International

"They'll want blood tonight!"

That's the way Walt Frazier interprets Milwaukee's feelings after the New York Knicks snapped the club's string of 16 straight victories, 103-94, Friday with a stunning defense that held the Bucks to just 11 points in the final quarter.

A Knick loss would have put Milwaukee within a game of New York's 18-game consecutive winning record set last season. The teams meet in New York tonight in the second half of a home-and-home set.

"We needed this one," said Captain Willis Reed, who scored 34 points and frustrated Lew Alcindor into committing five fouls and losing his poise in the final two minutes when the Knicks ran off the last six points of the game.

STILL GREAT

"It proves that we've still got a great club," Reed said. "We've had all sorts of problems getting started this year, with injuries and other little things. This game gave us a chance to measure ourselves."

Phil Jackson, the substitute center, hit for two key baskets while Reed was rested late in the game and helped generate the momentum that overcame a nine-point Milwaukee lead going into the last quarter.

Alcindor hit for 33 points and outrebounded Reed, 16-10, as Milwaukee lost only its second game in 19 outings this season.

In other NBA games, Cincinnati nipped Philadelphia, 113-109, Boston rolled past Baltimore 153-107, Chicago whipped Buffalo 121-104, Portland topped Cleveland 111-102, Seattle beat San Francisco 101-96, Phoenix upset Los Angeles 116-105 and San Diego defeated Atlanta 128-127.

DROPS LOWER

Philadelphia dropped five games behind New York in the Atlantic Division as Tom Van Arsdale broke a 107-all tie on a pair of free throws with 1:54 remaining. Van Arsdale and Johnny Green each scored 23 points for the Royals, who closed to within four games of first place Baltimore in the Central Division. Billy Cunningham led the 76ers with 22 points.

John Havlicek scored 25 of his game-high 33 points in the first half as Boston recorded its biggest victory margin in 25 years of NBA play. The 46-point spread eclipsed the 173-139 triumph over Minneapolis in 1959. Gus Johnson paced a weak Baltimore attack with 22 points.

Chicago led all the way in the Bulls' triumph over Buffalo as Bob Love tallied 31 points and Chet Walker had 19. Dick Garrett and Bob Kauffman each scored 16 points for the Braves, who trailed by 30 points at one stage of the fourth quarter before the Chicago subs took over.

EXPANSION BATTLE

Portland pinned Cleveland with its 24th loss in 25 games in a battle of expansion teams. Jim Barnett led the Trail Blazers with 20 points while Walt Wesley led the Cavaliers with 24 points.

Rookies Don Adams and Calvin Murphy and veteran Elvin Hayes combined for 87 points to lift the Rockets past Atlanta. Adams had a career high 33 and Hayes tossed in 32. Murphy, making his first pro start in place of the injured Larry Siegfried, had 22.

Toby Kimball's tip-in in the last 18 seconds provided the margin of victory over the Hawks who were led by Lou Hudson's 32 points.

Paul Silas had 27 points and 22 rebounds and Neal Walk tossed in 25 points to lift Phoenix over the Lakers. Jerry West led Los Angeles with 33 points.

Ailing S.F. Youth Grabs Golf Lead

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI)—If John Miller plays as good a game of golf when he's well as he does when sick, he's going to be a tough man to beat.

The 23-year-old Californias, in his first full year on the pro tour, went into today's third round of the $100,000 Heritage Golf Classic with a one-stroke lead over brawny amateur Steve Melnyk.

He got that lead by shooting a 5-under-par 66, oe stroke off the course record, in Friday's second round despite an upset stomach brought on by eating too much Thanksgiving dinner the previous day.

That 66 gave Miller a score of 138 at the midway point of the year's third from last PGA tournament and kept him in front of the 247-pound Melnyk, the 1969 National Amateur champ, who posted a 67 Friday for a 139.

Miller held a four-stroke lead over his next closest competitors—first-round leader Homero Blancas, Bob Lunn and Bert Greene, all at even-par 142 as only two golfers in the 102-man field were able to break par for two days over the short but tricky Harbour Town course.

BLANCAS SLIPS

Blancas, the only man to break par in Thursday's opesing round when he had a 70, shot 72 Friday while Lunn had a 67 and Greene a 68.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer, vutting together the "wildest" 70 he had shot in a dozen years, and Bert Yancey, who had a 67, were another stroke back at 143.

Miller, out of SKAN Francisco, had four birdies in his first seven holes and was 5-under after 10 holes before that Thanksgiving Day dinner caught up with him.

"I was playing great through 10 holes and, although I know you're not supposed to think that way, really thought I could set a new course record," Miller said. "But that dinner began to get to me. I really felt terrible for about four holes and, although it cleared up after that, I was lucky to hang onto what I had."

Miller, who joined the tour at mid-year in 1969, wasn't invited to last year's Heritage. But he has already won more than $50,000 so far this year.

DON'T CHOKE

j; I've been thrilled to dea with my play this fear," the slender blond said. "Last year, I thought those $1,000 checks were super. When you get used to the bigger checks, you don't choke as early.

"I'm still choking, but not at the same prices."

The $30,000 Sea Pines Open, a satellite to the Heritage, is being played on this same coastal island and winds up today. South Carolinian Randy Glover, forced off the regular tour by a hip ailment, held a three-stroke lead over Larry Wood going into the final round.

Melnyk, who recently "trimmed down" from 260 pounds, insists he doesn't know whether he'll turn pro. "I don't think I'm ready to go out on the tour," the insurance company representative from Jacksonville, Fla., said. "But, if I continue to play well, I may change my mind."

PALMER SCRAMBLES

Palmer had a real scrambler of a round and said it had been a long time since he played like that "and got away with it. That was one of my funnier rounds. A dozen years ago, I used to play that way all the time."

Jack Nicklaus, who is playi

Jack Nicklaus, who is playing here only because he helped design the course on which the tournament is being held, wasn't disturbed that his 71-146 had him eight strokes off Miller's pace.

"I'm tired now and want to rest up for next year," Nicklaus said. "I'll play this week and then forget it. This is the time of year I'd really rather not play."

Ashe Rallies For Victory Over Richey At Stockholm

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Top-seeded Arthur Ashe of Gum Springs, Va., came from behind to beat Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., and reach the finals in the $35,200 Stockholm Open Indoor tennis championships today.

Ashe was down 0-2 and 2-4 in the first set before he sharpened his play and won the set 7-5. He wound up the match with a 6-4 win in the second.

Richey, winner of ILTFS Grand Prix competition, lost the battle on bad serving. He broke his opponents service twice in the first set and scored a breaker in the second set but could not hold his own service.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League announced Friday that running back Tom Matte of the Baltimore Colts will be sidelined for the remainder of the season and wide receiver Paul Warfield of the Miami Dolphins will be out of action at least until the final game of the season.

Matte is suffering with a knee injury while Warfield is scheduled to undergo surgery to repair rib damage.

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The New Orleans Saints acquired center John Didion on waivers from the Washington Redskins Friday and placed reserve quarterback Steve Ramsey on the move list.

Didion, a 6-4, 245-pounder, was the Redskins' 7th round draft choice in 1969. He joined the Redskins from Oregon State.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — Jim Valek was relieved officially of his job as Illinois football coach today and apparently there'll be no repetition of a threatened player revolt which saved his job in mid-season.

The action to relieve Valek was taken by the Board of Directors of the Athletic Association, which "reaffirmed" its decision of Oct. 23 not to renew Valek's contract.

The board announced on Oct. 24, before the Illinois game with Ohio State, that the coach was fired effective at the end of the game. But the players voted unanimously that they would neither practice nor play unless Valek was retained.

Thus the following day the board stayed their action and Valek was allowed to finish the season, in which Illinois won three and lost seven, winding up in a tie for last place in the Big Ten with a 1-6 record.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Tulane will be invited to play Colorado in the Liberty Bowl here Dec. 12 if the Greenies upset sixth-ranked Louisiana State University Saturday night in New Orleans, the Memphis Commercial-Appeal said today.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (UPI) — East Tennessee State University football players voted Friday to play in a "Dedication Bowl" at Huntington, W. Va., for the benefit of Marshall University if the school agrees.

The game would be dedicated to the memory of members of the Marshall University football team who were killed in the crash of a jetliner near Huntington, W. Va., on Nov. 14.

SAN MATEO (UPI) — Paranha $9.40 outlegged a field of six two-year-old fillies on a muddy track Friday to post a three-and-a-half-length triumph over Lulie's Glory in the $15,000 added Santa Cruz Stakes before a crowd of 10,001 at Bay Meadows.

DONCASTER, Eng. (UPI) — Caramel, a six-year old mare who is the daughter of 1957 English Derby winner Crepello, was purchased Friday for $63,000, a record price for the Doncaster Bloodstock sales. Caramel's new owner is Mrs. Anne Harries, who maintains the Coxland Stud at Ewhurst, Eng., founded by her late husband.

DALLAS (UPI) — Bill Blakely, 36, was named head coach of the Texas Chaparrals Friday, replacing Max Williams who resigned to devote full time to the office of general manager.

Blakely had been serving as business manager and assistant coach since April, 1970. Prior to that he was athletic director and head basketball coach at Christian College of the Southwest, where his teams compiled a won-lost record of 125-24.

49er Toe Has Score To Settle

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Bruce Gossett has another score to settle with George Allen, head coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

Allen traded Gossett to the San Francisco 49ers earlier this year and later explained he wanted "an athlete because an athlete reacts better to pressure" than a place kicker. Allen made that remark on national television and it ruffled the feathers of Gossett.

"He was not only knocking me but Cox, Stenerud and all the kickers," said Gossett. "And I imagine there's been more field goals kicked this year than any other."

Gossett kicked two field goals in San Francisco's 20-6 win over the Rams earlier in the season. The teams meet again Sunday at Kezar Stadium with the Rams (6-3-1) one game behind San Francisco (7-2-1) in the Western Division of the National Football Conference.

"This game is the key to the season for us," adds Gossett. "I think we've come back great from what happened at Detroit (a 28-7 loss)."

Boat Racer Is Killed

LAKE HAVASU, Ariz. (UPI) —Outboard racer Warren V. Thompson was killed Friday during practice for the World Outboard Championships when his boat strayed off the course and hit a sandbar.

The 21-foot De Silva split in two when it struck the sand and the upper portion hit Thompson on the head' fracturing his skull.

The 53-year-old driver was picked up by a patrol boat, and was pronounced dead on arrival at a local physician's office. It was the first death in the seven-year history of the race.

His boat was capable of speeds up to 100 miles an hour and it was estimated from the condition of the wreckage that he was traveling at 70 mph when he hit the bar.

It was the first time Thompson had entered Havasu race and he was unfamiliar with the course.

Record Boat Speeds Expected

LAKE HAVASU, Ariz. (UPI) —Record setting speeds were predicted for Saturday and Sunday's World Outboard Championships here, with some experts looking for speeds averaging over 80 miles an hour.

That's not too bad considering that in 1967, the race record was tied at 59 miles an hour.

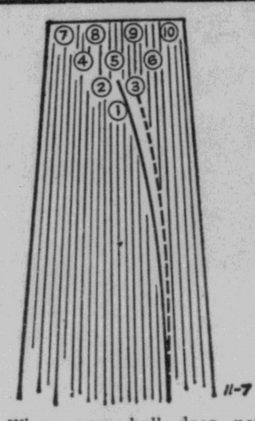
Top drivers out to pick up chunks of the $63,500 prize money will be making their runs in innovative, tunnel-hulled boats which, catamaran-like, skim the water. There is hardly no drag. Although several of the boats entered in the Havasu race have been driven at speeds in excess of 100 m.p.h., the swiftest run (18.99) has been made by a 16-foot tunnel hull powered by a Johnson Stinger engine.

The tunnel-hulled boats also dominated the 1969 race.

Aerodynamics has been the key to the new design and consequently, the new speeds. Only a handful of drivers plan to compete with older styled crafts.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



When your ball does not quite reach the solid 1-3 pocket (striking the 1-pin too far to its right), don't try to achieve more spin to bring it up. It's much easier and more dependable to move a board or so to the right and roll the ball over the same spot without extra wrist-twist. This position will help correct the situation.

Two 700s Are Rolled In Marin

Terry De Young, a lefthander, and Gordon Hutchison, a righthander, found the conditions at Nave Lanes to their liking this week and went over the 700 mark, high scores of the pastweek's Marin County bowling.

The 21-year-old De Young rolled games of 256, 229 and 278 for a whopping 763 series in the California Trophy Travel League. Hutchison rolled a 279 game and went on to a 702 in the Sportsmen's League.

Marilyn Epidentio was the star among women for the week, a 679 series on games of 253, 214 and 212 in the Mixed Mates League at Greenbrae Lanes. Ann Rogers was next with a 256 game and 620 series in the Woodcutters.

Chiefs Get Big Test Tomorrow

By BILL MADDEN

UPI Sports Writer

The Chiefs, 5-3-2, in the Western Division of the American Football Conference, a half-game behind Oakland (6-3-2), entertain the San Diego Chargers (4-4-2) in the first of four straight games against their division lodge-brothers.

A victory over the Chargers would be a step in the right direction for the Chiefs as it would propel them into a first place tie in the AFC West with Oakland, which was defeated by Detroit on Thursday. A loss, however, would drop the Chiefs into a tie for second with the Chargers and make the trip toward another World Championship increasingly difficult.

The Denver Broncos, the fourth member in the division and the early leaders, take their 5-5 record on the road to Houston after snapping a four-game losing streak last week against New Orleans.

In other AFC action, Boston (1-9) is at Buffalo (3-6) and Cleveland (5-5) at Pittsburgh (4-6).

Over in the National Conference, Los Angeles (6-3-1) is at San Francisco (7-2-1) in a game that will seriously affect the outcome of the Western Division title, the New York Giants are at Washington and Philadelphia is at St. Louis. Dallas defeated Green Bay, 16-3, Thursday.

In inter-conference games, Chicago is at Baltimore, New Orleans at Cincinnati, Minnesota at New York against the Jets and Miami will play at Atlanta Monday night. Oakland's loss to Detroit on Thursday was 28-14.

In addition to the title chase consequences, the Chargers-Chiefs matchup also features the return of Mike Garrett to Kansas City for the first meeting against his old teammates since being dealt to the Chargers early in the season.

Garrett, however, has not been sorely missed by Kansas City. Second-year man Ed Podolak rushed for a season high of 112 yards in 23 carries for the Chiefs in last week's 6-6 tie with St. Louis. In all, Podolak has gained 481 yards for an average of 4.3 yards per carry to lead the club.

Rams Activate Defensive Back

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Defensive back Nate Shaw h as been activated by the Los Angeles Rams and accompanies the team north today for the key National Football Conference game against the San Francisco 49ers Sunday.

Coach George Allen announced that Shaw would fill the vacancy in the Rams' roster opened up by the injury to running back Tommy Mason, who is out for the season with a shoulder injury he suffered last week.

Shaw played his collegiate football at the University of Southern California and was on the active list briefly earlier in the season.

Showdown Is Awaited By Raiders

The Raiders, despite their 8-14 loss to Detroit on Thanksgiving Day, enjoy a slim half-game edge over the Chiefs, who host the San Diego Chargers Sunday.

The Chargers are fourth and last in the Western Division race but trail the Raiders by only 1 1-2 games with Denver in third, also 1 1-2 games away at 5-5.

Should the Chiefs defeat San Diego Sunday, they'll move into a tie with the Raiders, thus setting the stage for the following weekend's titanic.

The winner of that game should clinch the championship spot in the AFC playoffs because of the system used to break championship ties. In the case of a tie, the winner is determined on the basis of the head-to-head records between the two teams.

Since the Raiders and Chiefs tied in their first game, the winner of the second game would automatically have the better head-to-head record.

Marinites Reminded Of Yard Burning Ban

While the burning season opens Tuesday for ranchers, other residents are still prohibited from backyard burning, Novato's Asst. Fire Chief R. W. Beyer reminded Marinites today.

Noting recent calls about illegal burning and a steady influx of new residents, Beyer issued a reminder of the ban instituted Jan. 1, 1970.

Residents are not permitted to burn any refuse, litter trimmings or leafes in outdoor fires and the use of indoor fireplaces can be hazardous and is usually objectionable due to smoke, he said.

He suggested the leaves and lawn clippings could be placed in plastic bags or cardboard boxes with a capacity of two cubic feet and placed beside the family garbage can once a week for disposal.

Where an entire neighborhood is deluged with leaves and fallen branches, a group of neighbors, eight or 10, could contract the Novato Disposal Co. to place a large debris bin in their neighborhood.

"And for the avid gardeners there is the process of returning such material to the earth, known as composting Beyer said.

Marin Symphony To Benefit From 'McGovern Day'

"Terry McGovern Day" tomorrow at the Electrovision Theater in Ghiradelli Square, San Francisco, will be a fund-raiser for the Marin Symphony.

Proceeds for this one day from admission to "The San Francisco Experience," a sound, light and film history of the city now at the Electrovision Theater, will go to the symphony. Included in the 45-minute show is simulation of the 1906 earthquake and fire. The show runs continously fron 11:15 a.m. through the evening.

McGovern, a Novato resident and KSFO disc jockey who assisted at the recent "whole works auction" that raised over $7,000 for the symphony, arranged the benefit with Donna Casavant, a director of the show. The disc jockey will be present to sign autographs and meet fans.

Ancient Reptile Skeleton Found

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI)—A well preserved skeleton of a cynodont believed to be 200 million years old has been found 350 miles from the South Pole by U.S. Antarctic program scientists, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The 10-inch long skeleton found Nov. 10 by a member of the Institute of Polar Studies of Ohio State University was considered an important link in scientists' efforts to prove the existence of a lost supercontinent.

Cynodon's were four-legged carnivorous reptiles with dog-like teeth. They ranged in size from a little larger than a rat to about the size of a wolf.

The month of May was named after Maia, Roman goddess of the growth of plants.

Exception To Secrecy Law Is Being Sought

Marin County is trying to get another exception to the state's antisecrecy law so that city councils or county boards of supervisors can meet in secret to discuss security countermeasures against "revolutionary or conspiratorial attack."

This is one of the new state laws proposed in the county's legislative program for 1971, drawn up by County Administrator Alan Bruce and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney. A draft of the county's legislative program will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday.

The county administrator said city councils and county supervisors should be allowed to discuss in secret, security measures to be taken against revolutionary violence "in those instances where effectiveness of security measures would be vitiated by public revelation."

This is one of three new bills proposed by the county administrator since the Aug. 7 shootout and the Oct. 8 courtroom explosion in the Marin Hall of Justice.

The two other bills concern insurance coverage for public buildings. One would expand the State Compensation Insurance Fund to provide damage and liability insurance to public buildings. The other would prohibit an insurance carrier from making unilateral changes in the provisions of an insurance policy or canceling the policy without cause.

Nuclear Submarine Tests New Warhead

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The nuclear powered submarine Daniel Boone shot a Poseidon missile to an Atlantic Ocean target area late Friday on a flight testing both the missile and a dummy version of its new multiple warhead payload.

It was the 27th launch of the 34-foot rocket and its seventh from a submerged submarine. The USS James Madison is scheduled to begin operational patrols with 16 of the new missiles early next year.

G.M. Asks Recall Of 4,800 Cars

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. announced Friday it is asking owners of about 1,800 early production 1971 model cars to return them to their dealers for correction of a possible safety defect.

The cares involved in the recall are six-cylinder Chevrolets, Camaros, Novas, Chevelles, El Caminos, Pontias LeMans and Firebirds, F-85 Oldsmobile and Buick Specials.

G.M. said the carburetor throttle rod and retainer clip on the cars need to be replaced.

"The correction is necessary," the company said, "because a retainer clip on the upper throttle control rod may be misaligned, allowing it to contact the throttle lever and hold it in a partially open position.

"That condition could make it difficult to slow or stop the car."

G.M. said the parts would be replaced at its expense and no accidents had been reported as a result of the condition.

Crocker Bank Robbed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Three men wearing ski masks robbed a Crocker-Citizens National Bank of $5,500 Friday but three suspects were in custody several hours later.

Virginia Dare was the first English child born in the New World.

Road Projects Win Approval

Three highway improvement projects in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties have been approved for funding by the California Highway Commission.

James A. Moe, state director of public works, said four-tenths of a mile of Highway 37 east of Lakeville Road in Sonoma County will be resurfaced.

Guardrails will be replaced on Highway 37 from its junction with Highway 101 to a point nine-tenths of a mile east of Lakeville Road, and on Highway 101 in and near Novato. Moe said the cost of the two guardrail projects is estimated at $44,000.

Use Fruit, Flowers For Color

At holiday time, flowers and fruits or a combination add a colorful tone to the festivities.

Fruits and flowers plus vegetables in combination are very appropriate through the fall and winter.

Apples, oranges, lemons, grapes and nuts with multicolored gourds combine well with bronze and yellow pompom chrysanthemums. Decorative vegetables include peppers, green and red; red onions, artichokes, tall, thin carrots and red cabbage.

FRUITS PILED high around will conceal flower holders. The flowers may be inserted in florist's water picks and arranged individually. Or use "non-spillable" water, the plastic florist material that absorbs water as a sponge.

Place the material in a low bowl with a bit of extra water to replace that drawn out by the flowers. The holder here also may be camouflaged with encircling fruits.

Prof. Raymond T. Fox of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University has a word of caution about table decorations featuring flowers, fruits and vegetables.

Ripening fruits and vegetables, he says, give off quantities of ethylene gas. Where air currents do not dissipate the gas, ethylene has a definite detrimental effect on flower life.

"SOME FLOWERS react very strongly to the gas," he noted.

Red roses develop the purple-tones of aging flowers. Snapdragon florets drop prematurely, and carnations fold in their petals and die.

"These flowers show the strongest reaction," he added. "However, other flowers also have a tendency toward shorter vase life, but chrysanthemums are less affected than most other flowers."

To Extend The Life Of Holiday Greens

To extend the life of Christmas evergreens, especially holly, mash or crush the tough, woody branch ends and place them for a couple of days in a quart of water mixed with a tablespoon of brown sugar.

This will help branches absorb enough moisture to hold them through the holidays.

San Domenico's New Approach To Music

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Child-sized instruments are the really new element in a system of teaching music to children that is proving highly successful at San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow.

The system is based on the philosophies of Carl Orff, a contemporary German composer, and Zoltan Kodaly, the late Hungarian composer and teacher, according to Faith France, head of the school's music department, and Carol Stetler, the teacher in charge of the program.

"We started the program five years ago," Miss Stetler explains, "and about three years ago we began buying the instruments designed by Orff.

OVER A PERIOD of 25 years Orff worked on getting the best wood and other materials, and in designing the best sound chambers. The instruments are very expensive because they come through a distributor in Germany. Copies are available in the United States, but they are made of cheaper materials and the craftsmanship is not as good.

"The size of the instruments is important because children often lose an innate sense of rhythm when they are forced to try to control small muscles on instruments, such as the piano, that are too big for them. Orff-designed instruments use the larger motor movements, and the rhythm flow is developed in the proper order by using them."

The Orff instruments are all percussion, such as xylophones, glockenspiels, tympani, hand drums, triangles, tambourines and mellophones, but scaled-down string instruments and recorders are used to complete a small orchestra.

"THE ORFF and Kodaly systems are compatible," Miss Stetler says, "because both stress learning through joy of making and listening to music — both are dedicated to music for children — and both use native folk music.

"This has been adapted to American melodies, literature and rhythms."

"The Kodaly system," she adds, "emphasizes singing, especially the use of the body as instrument, and progresses gradually to musical literacy and the reading of music in a graduated sequence.

"The Orff system also emphasizes teaching music through rhythm, body movement and musical games, but is more improvisational; and, of course, the instruments are a unique Orff contribution."

AT SAN DOMENICO the music program is organized so that the first three grades have four music sessions a week in which they are involved with songs, verse, drama, movement and other musical experiences related to understanding of tone, melody, rhythm and musical symbols.

In addition to this, students are given recorder study in fourth grade, violin and cello instruction in fifth grade, and instrumental ensemble training in the sixth grade.

Carol Stetler, who holds a master's degree in music from Indiana University, has had special training in the Orff system in summer school work in Los Angeles and in the Kodaly system at the College of the Holy Names in Oakland. Last summer she conducted a workshop for teachers at Western State College in Colorado.

FAITH FRANCE comments on the results of the Orff-Kodaly system of teaching:

"We notice in piano study," she says, "that children who have had a couple of years of this training have a much better sense of rhythm and are really ready to study piano. There is improvement in all body coordination.

"The system has completely changed our string program. Children used to be lukewarm when introduced to string study in the fourth grade. Now they are so accustomed to making music that the strings do not seem so difficult.

"With interest so strong last year, we were able to have for the first time this year in the sixth grade a string ensemble, including along with violins and cellos a double bass and viola.

She continued, "We noticed

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS scaled down in size for children to promote a better development of rhythm sense is the unique feature of this orchestra at the San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow. that as a result of the training in listening when we took the fifth grade to the opera this year, the children were able to get a great deal out of it."

The music chairman, who in private life is Mrs. Hugo Rinaldi, wife of the head of music in the San Rafael public schools, feels that this kind of teaching may be the method for reviving interest in music study in schools. She warns, however, that unless the system is taught by a strong musician using the complete materials, it will not be successful.

She says that when she and her husband were on a European tour last summer they found that Hungary, because the Kodaly system is taught there in all the schools, was the only country in which school children were getting any "in-depth" music training.

"IN ITALY musicians are getting panicky," she says. "The children are no longer much interested in music because there is no music taught in the schools. The music conservatories are not full, though

MARGE HIBBETT of San Rafael shows you some of the decorative wall plaques for home and patio that she has fashioned from wood shingles and a variety of dried materials. Her unique creations will be featured at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross when the Decorations Guild holds its traditional Greens Sale in its building Dec. 11, 12 and 13. Mrs. Hibbett hit upon the idea for the plaques when she balked at discarding and wasting a stack of old shingles she found in a Guild workroom. (Independent-Journal photos by Alfred M. Arn)

Works Of Art From Wooden Shingles

Decorations Guild's Marge Hibbett Puts Her Creativity To Work

By LOIS B. GRIFFITH

Are you still searching for that elusive gift for the person who has everything?

How about a pair of shingle plaques? You've never heard of them?

No one else had until last May when Margery Hibbett originated them at the Decorations Guild building of the Marin Art and Garden Center grounds in Ross, where she is production manager and a member of the board.

Marge in giving one of the workrooms a spring-cleaning found a stack of old wooden roof shingles which she was about to throw away. Suddenly it occurred to her that these could be transformed into plaques for porches, patio and/or gardens.

WHEN THEY were cleaned and decorated with driftwood, pine cones, pods and other dried natural materials, each designed differently, they sold as quickly as her skillful hands could make them.

A family which was replacing its shake roof agreed to let the Guild use those old shingles. And since the plaques are so unique and beautiful, the Guild then decided to feature them at its annual Greens Sale in December. So Marge Hibbett has been busy for weeks making a large supply.

SHE IS soft-spoken, tactful, even-tempered, witty, and has a quick, contagious smile and a warm personality.

Marge is interested in most aspects of art, and has taken numerous courses in color, design, woodcarving, metal work, decoupage, collage and painting. But of all these forms of art, she likes best to work with the dried natural materials which the Decorations Guild uses, and prefers making picture collages.

She says, "One of the best things that happened to me was the opportunity of becoming a member of the Decorations Guild. It gives me an outlet for my compulsion to create, and brings me in contact with so many talented women."

MARGE ATTRIBUTES her creative ability to her father, who was a builder, and later was in the hardware business in San Francisco. One of five children, three girls and two boys, she came with her family to this country from Dublin, Ireland, when she was 6. They lived in Buffalo, N.Y., for two years before moving on to San Francisco.

They were a close, happy family, she recalls, and if they expressed a wish for anything, their father would say, "I'll build you one." He designed and built everything from doll beds to tree houses.

BOTH HER parents were "jewels," and perhaps this ac-

THE PHOTOS on this page provide you with a step-by-step report of how Marge Hibbett turns out her handsome wall plaques. At upper left, she begins with an old wooden shingle and drills holes in it, through which will be run the wires that will be used to attach the dried materials that will form her design. And at upper right, she starts with an interesting piece of driftwood, and proceeds to tie it down. At lower left, cones are added to her creation after some study to make certain the effect is the one desired. And at lower right, she poses with the finished piece. Her unusual wall plaques have enjoyed a brisk sale in the Decorations Guild building at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, where next month the annual Greens Sale will be the big pre-holiday attraction. Plaque prices vary from $5.50 to $7.50, depending upon the materials used, and the amount of work that has gone into a piece.

"Why Does Rabbit Fur Shed?" - Miss L.A.C.

Rabbit fur garments or trim should not be dry-cleaned. Even the fur-cleaning method with sawdust may reveal the weaknesses of rabbit fur.

As you may have learned, rabbit fur does not wear well even under normal conditions. There is little oil in Coney and Belgian fur and for that reason the hairs become brittle. They break and shed. This fur, also, may mat, producing a most unsatisfactory appearance.

When purchasing a garment that has rabbit fur, keep in mind the fur's poor serviceability and its tendency to mat or shed. Then, buy with your eyes open to its poor wearing qualities as well as its beauty.

After attending grammar and high school in San Francisco, she became a registered nurse, then an anesthetist. She is a graduate of the Lakeside School of Anesthesia in Cleveland, Ohio, which is a branch of Western Reserve University. She worked in Cleveland at the Lakeside Hospital and at the Crile Clinic, then came back West and worked in most of the San Francisco hospitals.

"Anesthetists get around, you know," she smiles.

SHE LOVES the profession and has found it "fascinating and thrilling to watch the skillful surgeons."

She met her husband, Lloyd, in San Francisco, and came to Marin County as his bride.

Both the Hibbetts love to travel, and since his early retirement, have done so extensively in the U.S., Canada and Europe. They have been almost everywhere in the world except the Orient. Both are enthusiastic golfers, and long-time members of the Meadow Club, and both enjoy gardening for exercise and pleasure.

Marge's profession as an anesthetist seems incongruous to the artistry of the picture collages she loves to create. They have a tranquil simplicity to which the eye keeps returning, and an everlasting appeal.

THE SHINGLE plaques are, in reality, collages without frames. Each is different, all are beautiful, and they make provocative conversation pieces. Prices for the plaques vary (from $5.50 to $7.50) depending upon what materials were used, and the number of hours spent on each.

The 1970 Greens Sale will be held at the Art and Garden Center Dec. 11, 12, and 13 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and there you will find not only the plaques, but many unique gifts. The theme this year is "A Storybook Christmas."

It is the annual sale of the Decorations Guild and features hand-made fresh green wreaths, swags, kissing balls, table decorations and branches of do-it-yourself greens, plus the popular yule logs, and the sugarplum tree which offers numerous small items for children, tree decorations and novelties.

BECAUSE OF the theme, the members have made an abundance of storybook characters, irresistible to all ages, and tableaux depicting favorite stories, with the characters and buildings affixed to bases, suitable for centerpieces, table decor or use beneath the tree.

The Garden Society of Marin, one of the founding groups of the Center, will assist with the fresh greens, helping the Guild to collect, separate and sell them.

THE PATHFINDERS' Tea room will be open, and the Pixie Parents will have homemade delicacies for sale.

The Guild's bouquets, line arrangements, tree plaques, wreaths and other products which are on sale all year will be available, too.

The sole function of the Guild is to raise funds for the maintenance of the Marin Art and Garden Center, to which its yearly profits are given. The members are all volunteers, highly skilled and trained by the Guild.

Throughout the county and far beyond, all year long, members gather, dry and store separately over 2,000 varieties of natural materials. Each member creates her own flowers by combining two or three of these materials, gluing each petal into place by hand and then coloring them and arranging them permanently. Each creation takes hours to complete.

ESPECIALLY BRIGHT and colorful items are made for Christmas, both with the dried materials and with fresh greens.

Marge Hibbett is so versatile that she has made some of nearly everything the Guild sells. In addition to the shingle plaques, she originated the miniature boutiques that are tiny, colorful, dried flowers, arranged in a bouquet and set in a small, glass-covered oval picture frame.

There are many members of the Decorations Guild with outstanding talent, and she insists that this be stressed. But resourceful, modest Marge Hibbett is nevertheless a keystone of the organization, and one of its most beloved members.

"Marvelous Marge," her co-workers call her.

A VERY BUSY PLACE these days is the workshop of the Decorations Guild of the Marin Art and Garden Center, as the talented women prepare for their traditional Greens Sale to be held on the Ross grounds Dec. 11, 12, and 13. The wares feature decorations for the holiday season such as wreaths, kissing balls and yule logs. Other units at the art and garden center will also be active during the three-day weekend event.

Marin Youth Digs Into History Of California's Mother Lode

By DON KEOWN

A family trip into the Mother Lode country four years ago when he was 12 started it all for Steven Cabella of Kentfield.

Since then, the teen-ager has been an ardent student of California Gold Rush history and an enthusiastic collector of the mementoes of that era.

His introduction to collecting came through antique bottles, "and I still pick some of those up from time to time."

But that trip to the Gold Rush towns and mine sites really set young Cabella off. "I was really caught up in what I saw," he says. "I thought it was really great."

STEVE HAD studied that period of California history some in school and found it interesting. "But being there in person was something else. That was the real start for me."

As for collecting memorabilia of an era when gold prospecting and mining were rivaled only by saloon-keeping as a California industry, Steve says: "It fascinates me to feel that I own a piece of real history."

The collection began with a canceled check drawn on a Mother Lode bank. To that he has added mining tools, Wells Fargo receipts, mine stock certificates, a deed to a mining claim that belonged to one of his uncles, other checks, pictures and books.

A FAVORITE is a booklet entitled "The Miner's Ten Commandments." And Steve's favorite commandment is the one that solemnly intones:

"If thou telleth a lie about good diggings up in ye mountains, the person who has been lied to shall come down and present thee with the contents of his rifle, and thou shall fall down and die."

Steve works part-time with his father, Louis Cabella, who is employed by the Schultz Building Co. Most of his wages go, not for the usual teen-ager recreations and interests, but instead for additions to the gold mining collection.

"ONCE IN awhile some one gives me something," he says. "But most of the things I have to buy."

Some of his friends, the Sir Francis Drake High School junior admits, are bewildered by these expenditures, and a few even sarcastic. But Steve doesn't let that dim his enthusiasm. "It's my money," he says.

Louis Cabella was recently remarried, so that there are now 13 brothers, sisters, half-brothers and half-sisters, counting Steven, at home.

"THAT DOESN'T leave me much room for my collection," grins Steve, "and right now it's mostly stored away inside boxes."

But the Cabellas are in the final phases of the construction of a new home. "And once we move in," Steve says, "I imagine my room is going to look pretty much like a museum."

From time to time Steve unpacks his collection and takes appropriate pieces with him when he speaks at a Marin school on Gold Rush history.

STUDENTS AT Drake High, A. E. Kent and Wolfe Grade schools and the College of Marin have heard his talks. And he has displayed his collection at Redwood High School and at the Wells Fargo Bank in Greenbrae.

"The kids seem to be very much interested in the subject and what I have to say and show them," says the 16-year-old "authority" on events that occurred a century before his birth.

Steve says part of his success as a lecturer in schools lies in his approach. "I try to keep it relaxed, and pitch my talk at kid-level with plenty of humor. There's none of that pay-attention-or-out-you-go-kind of stuff."

LAST YEAR Steve took the California history course at Drake High and enjoyed it.

The teacher, Jerry Jones, "is particularly expert on Indian history," he says. "And he let me help out on the Gold Rush days."

This year Steve is doing some special work on Mother Lode history for credit.

The youth notes that he comes by his interest in the history of the area and itfs glory era naturally, for a great uncle, the late Archie D. Stevenot, was a regional historian of considerable repute.

WHEN STEVENOT, to whom Steve was related on his mother's side, died in Sonora in 1968 at the age of 85, the Stockton Record described him as "champion of the Mother Lode and a noted area historian."

That newspaper went on to declare: "Few men possessed a keener perspective of the historical past than Stevenot, the grandson of Jean Gabriel K. Stevenot, a lawyer from Alsace-Lorraine who landed in San Francisco in 1849. The attorney accompanied General Sutter to Calaveras County in 1850 where he pitched his tent a half-mile below Carson Hill and started the New Melones Mining Co."

Archie's father, Emile K. Stevenot also settled at Carson Hill, but later went to San Francisco to start a borax metallurgical refinery and to become know as "the Borax King."

IT WAS AT Carson Hill that Archie Stevenot, sixth child of Emile and Sarah Stevenot, was born on Sept. 25, 1882.

Archie Stevenot went on to become the Carson Hill postmaster during the Taft administration, a mining superintendent and engineer, and a hotel keeper. As a youth, he had sold candles to miners, traveling throughout the Mother Lode. And for a time he ranched.

He was one of the organizers of the California State Chamber of Commerce, the founder of the Mother Lode Highway Association in 1919 and its long-time president and director, a past president of the San Joaquin Valley Hotel Association, a past president of the Golden Chain Council, and active with such organizations as the Native Sons of the Golden West, the Lions Club, the American Mining Congress, the American Institute of Mining Engineers

SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD Steven Cabella of 10 McAllister Street, Kentfield, takes notes from Mother Lode newspapers concerning the illustrious career of his great uncle, Archie D. Stevenot, Gold Rush country historian and booster, whose biography the youth is writing. Young Cabella is also a student of early California gold mining days and a collector of memorabilia of that colorful era.

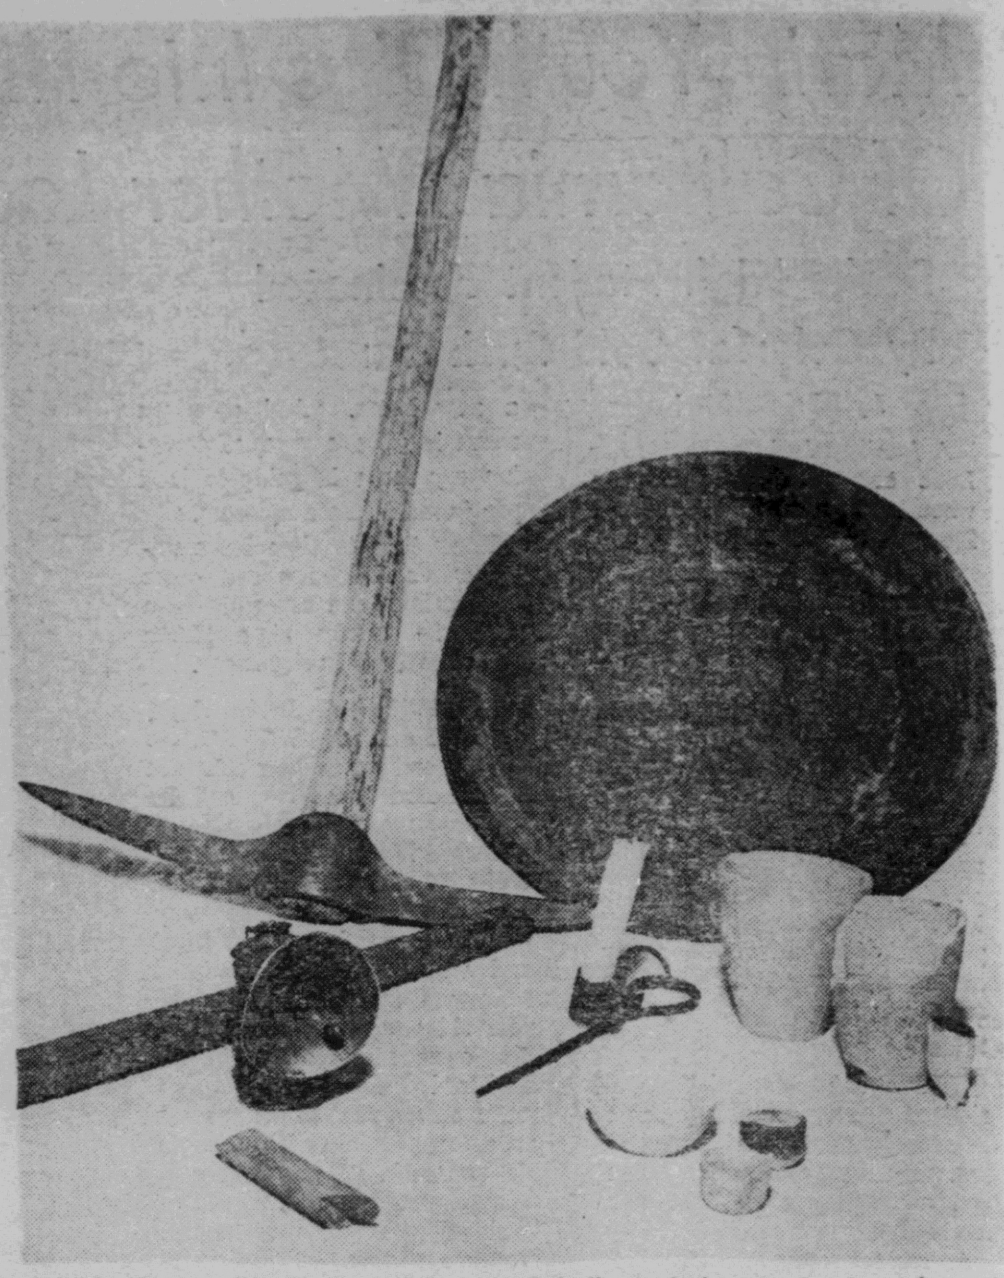
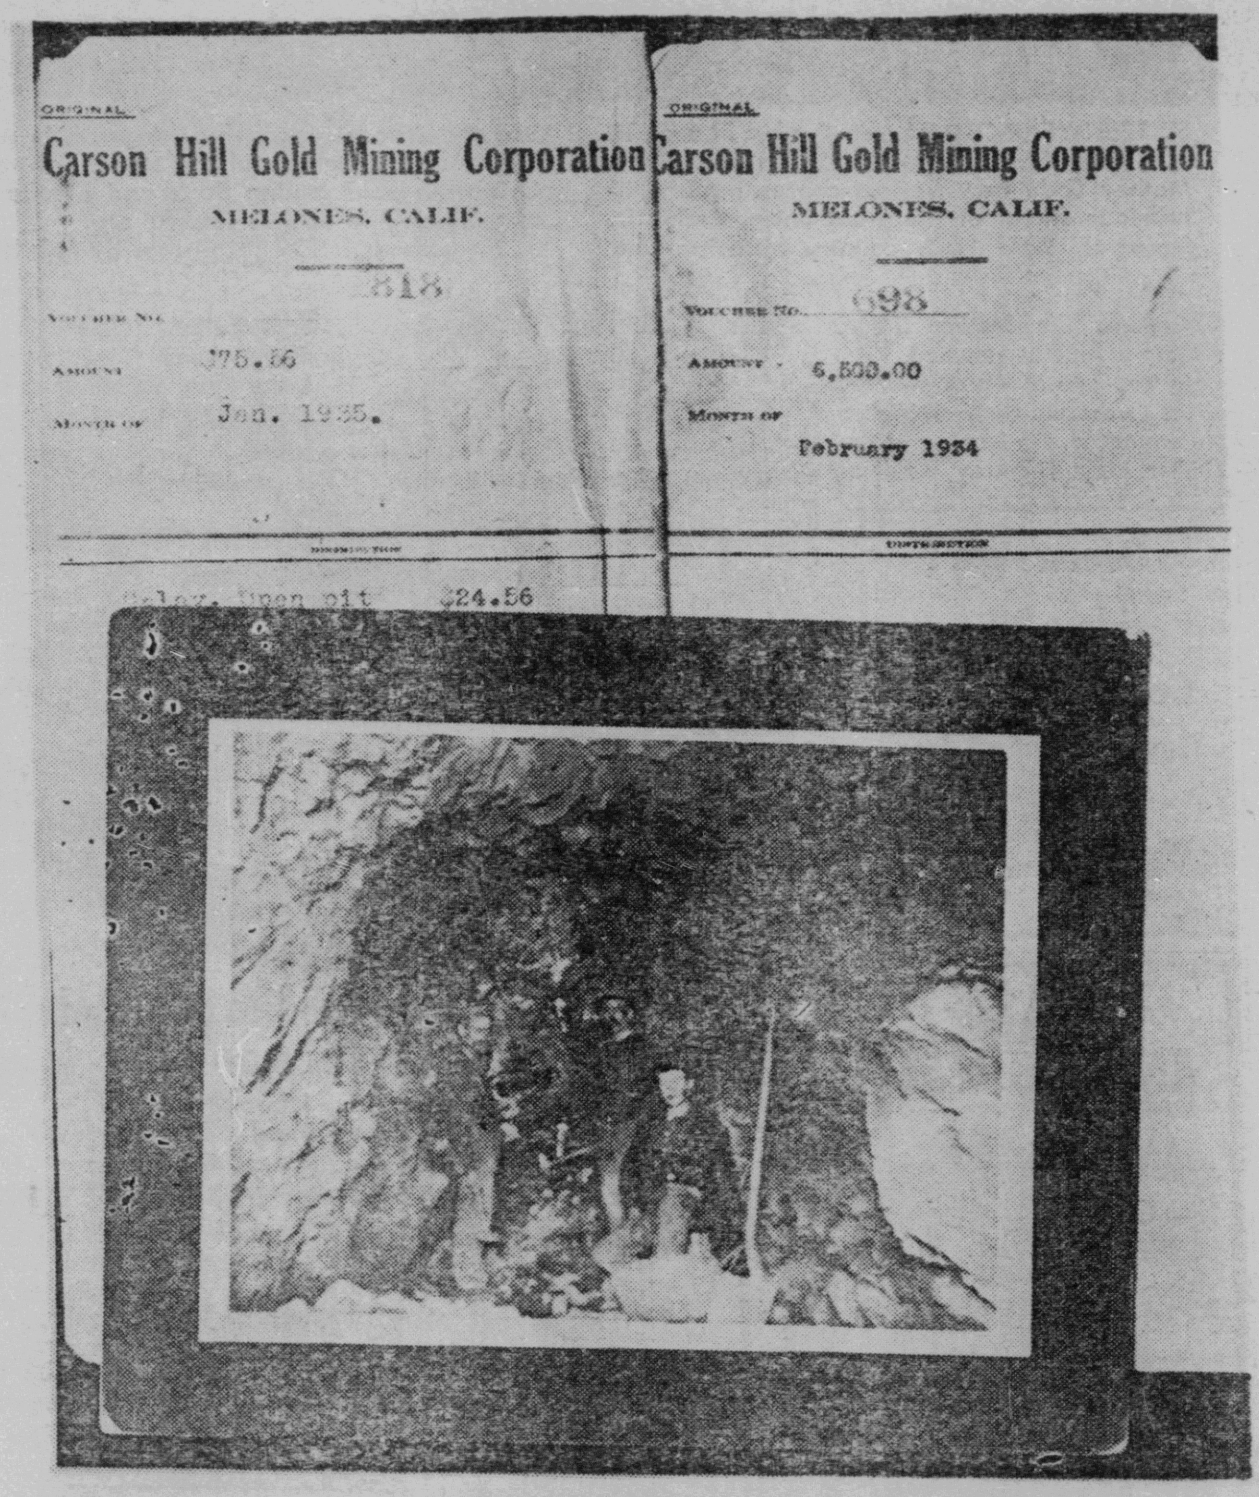
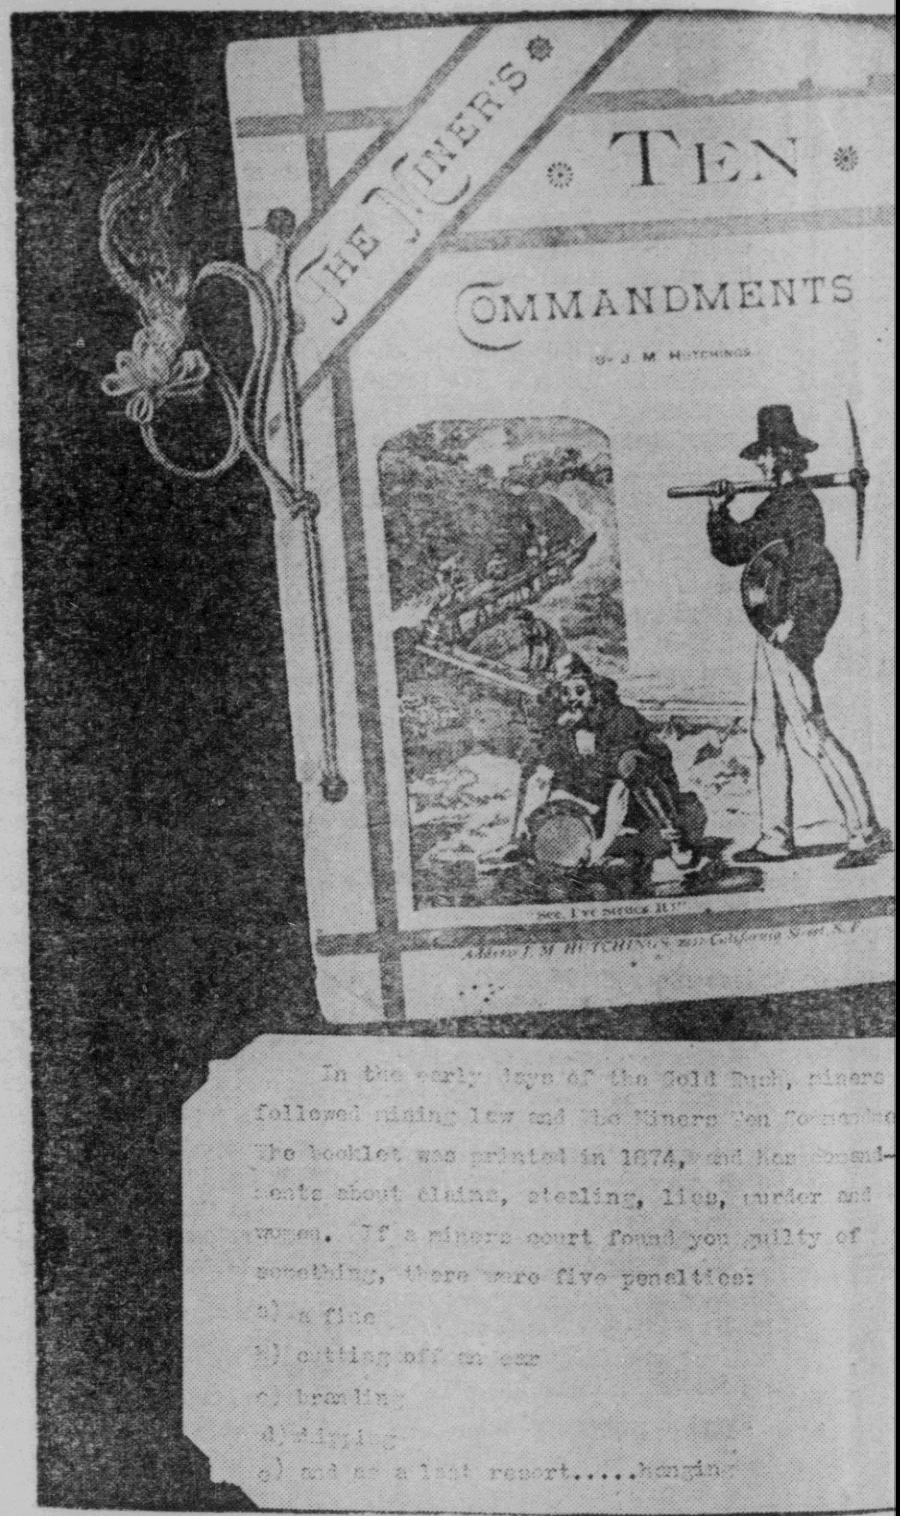
INCLUDED AMONG the mementoes of California's colorful Gold Rush era that have been collected by Steven Cabella, 16-year-old history enthusiast living in Kentfield, are an 1846 Colt dragoon gun and holster, an 1883 deed to one of the Carson Hill mines and an antique bottle.



OTHER PRIZED possessions of Steven Cabella include a miner's pick and pan, two large assay cups, a pipe bowl used for melting gold dust, a miner's candleholder, carbide lamp, in front of it a core sample and behind it a dill bit or "widow-maker," and some smaller assay cups.



VOUCHER PAPERS from the historic Carson Hill Gold Mining Corp. and a photograph of approximate 1880 vintage of miners at work also are part of Steven Cabella's growing collection from Mother Lode history.



THE BOOKLET, "The Miner's Ten Commandments" by J.M. Hutchings, owned by Steve Cabella, sets forth Lode during the G grim penalties tha

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

Man has gone down to the sea for ages in quest of adventure, romance, food, or just fun and relaxation.

In older times, he set out in about any contraption that would float — hollowed out trees, timbers lashed together with vines, cockleshells of reed and animal skins, among others. Later came the wooden sailing ships and iron steamboats, but often as not it still was rough going.

Today, he can sail the Seven Seas in luxury and style aboard sleek air-conditioned liners equipped with stabilizers and other modern electronic safety devices, offering all the comforts of home — and more.

AND WHAT with the steady increase in popularity of vacations at sea, scores of steamship companies have scheduled thousands of cruises designed to fit the time and money budget of virtually everyone.

Sailings range from one-day trips to a nearby port to round-the world voyages of 90 days and more with scores of ports of call. Generally, the cost of a cruise starts at about $30 per day per person —or about what you would expect to pay at a land based resort.

The cruise cost, however, includes accommodations, transportation to the ports on the itinerary, use of swimming pool and other sports facilities, entertainment and meals.

NOT INCLUDED are bar bills, laundry and other personal expenses, including tips. Holland America Line, however, has abolished tipping on its cruise liners.

Naturally, the better the accommodations, the more you will pay.

Steamship companies usually quote only the minimum rate in advertising and these rooms, generally a few inside on the lower decks, go fast. So, if you are planning a cruise, book as early as possible since most cruise ships operate one-class service and all passengers have equal status in the dining room and other public facilities.

VETERAN CRUISE passengers will tell you to leave your calorie counter at home. For in addition to breakfast, lunch and dinner — with menus offering scores of choices —there are 11 a.m. bouillon with crackers, 4 p.m. tea with cookies and a sumptuous midnight buffet.

Usually there are two sittings for lunch and dinner. So one of the first things to do after boarding the ship is to find the maitre d'hotel and select your sitting and table.

The early sitting for lunch is about noon, for dinner around 6 p.m. Second sittings usually are about 90 minutes later.

After getting squared away in the dining room, look up the chief deck steward. From his deck plans, choose the location of your deck chairs. Decide whether you want sun or shade, wind or shelter, be near the pool or other sports facilities, or a quiet area where you can read and relax.

INCIDENTALLY, if you are planning a bon voyage party with friends before sailing don't forget to bring your own liquor. If advised in advance, the room steward will provide glasses, setups and canapes.

By U. S. law, all liquor cabinets must remain sealed until the ship is outside the territorial waters of the United States.

Dress aboard ship is informal. There are formal events, such as the captain's dinner, but evening wear is not compulsory. I've made do with a black bow tie white shirt and dark suit; my wife with a cocktail dress.

EXCEPT ON the longer cruises, most cruise ships in the Caribbean sail from port to port during the night. During the evening and night hours, there are first run movies, dancing, floor shows, masquerade parties and similar special events arranged by the cruise director.

Bigger liners generally have a bar which remains open until the last guest leaves.

During the day, there are numerous shipboard activities — swimming in the pool, golf and shooting lessons, shuffleboard, bridge, bingo and horse race games, foreign language and dance lessons and lectures on upcoming ports by the cruise director and his staff.

HERE ARE A few more tips the first-time passenger may find helpful:

— Check the cruise line company on required documents, such as passports, visas and health certificates. And make sure your passport and smallpox vaccinations are valid.

— Tip waiters and room stewards at least $1 per day per person on the one-to-two week cruises — a little more on the shorter trips and a little less on the longer ones. Figure about $5 per week for the maitre d'hotel if he is extra helpful and about $3 for the wine steward and the deck steward for extra services.

Tip barmen and others as you would ashore.

A Grand Old Dame Is In Distress

The lady is Venice, the treasured city of canals and art masterpieces, now suffering from the ravages of time, nature and man. An appeal for funds to help her is being made through 21 magazines published from New York to Tokyo to Tel Aviv.

"Venice is under assault by uncontrolled tides, pollution and old age," says John R. McDermott, president of Diners Club magazine division. "Atmospheric acid is eating away its art treasures — stone, bronze and pigment; the walls of its buildings are being eroded by floods; industrial waste is polluting its waters.

"UNLESS THESE conditions are alleviated and repairs made, some of the loveliest art in the world will be lost forever and eventually the city itself could cease to exist as we know it now."

To prevent such a disaster, McDermott and his counterparts in foreign countries are taking part in an appeal to raise funds for art restoration and preventive engineering projects. The Italian government has promised 250 million dollars, but more is needed.

"The movement was started by Claudio Chiodelli, managing director of Diners Club of Italy," McDermott said. "He has publicized the problems to his countrymen, explained what corrective action can be taken, and set up a special fund for contributions. The fund is audited by the Italian government and the United Nations International Fund for Monuments."

The U.S. Diners Club magazine Signature told of Venice's plight in its November issue and asked for contributions from its million subscribers. Twenty other Diners Club "sister" magazines around the world are issuing similar appeals.

"WE HOPE TO get Venice's story across to our two million Diners Club members and their families and friends. They are, after all, sophisticated people interested in travel and sensitive to the arts, and we are hopeful they can make a significant contribution toward the preservation of the city, its architecture and art," McDermott said.

Checks from U.S. contributors should be made out to Diners Club of Italy Save Venice Fund and sent to Banca Nazionale del Lavoro, 25 West 51st Street, New York, N.Y., 10019, a participating sponsor and administrator of the fund.

What Those Flags Mean

For example, ships of Norwegian Caribbean Lines fly a special Norwegian national flag bearing the work "Post," signifying it is authorized to carry royal Norwegian mail.

It also serves as the flag of registry and is flown from the stern mast.

The same foremast carries the flag of the country where the ship is visiting. If it is the ship's country of registry, then the flag flown is of the country last visited.

When two ships come within sight of each other while at sea, they exchange a bit of traditional courtesy.

The first to respond to the sighting dips her national flag of registry. When the other dips hers in return, the first raises hers again and the other follows turn.

Don't Be Intimidated By Money

The Travel Pages

Not everyone has a yen for handling foreign currency — yet a yen comes in might handy in Japan.

And a bit of knowledge about this and other currencies of the Pacific (easy to acquire, remember and use) increases any travelers enjoyment of the earth's "world of exotic enchantment."

The Pacific Ocean area, served regularly by ships of the member lines of the Trans-Pacific Passenger Conference — American President, Mitsui-OSK, Orient Overseas and P & O — is the world's most extensive. Nations and cultures also are extremely diverse and widespread.

However, currencies — a bugaboo for many travelers when there's really no reason for it — aren't as complex as the national pattern might suggest.

But with any foreign currency, these facts are always present; it's never as complicated as it appears on the surface to convert values from one currency to another; and if you don't have a good idea of values, you're likely to spend money needlessly. What's more, if traveling by ship, you need not learn all about all the various currencies at once. Do it for one nation at a time — prior to arriving in port.

Banks aboard cruise ships give the latest and most favorable exchange rate available, usually at sailing time. This could go up or down en route, or be higher or lower when you reach port, but the range generally is not great one way or the other.

ONCE ASHORE, if you want to exchange dollars for local currency, banks or exchange bureaus give the most for your money (in some places like Hong Kong it pays to look around, but normally there isn't too much difference between what various places offer.) Next best bet, as a rule, is hotels.

Almost always, travelers checks bring a higher exchange value than bank notes.

Some nations still have certain currency restrictions.

AN EXAMPLE: New Zealand money, at the present time, not only is limited in export amounts but can't be exchanged outside the country. The ship's purser can give you details on such matters, and the banker will usually re-convert amounts you've previously purchased from him.

Additional tips: for fast figuring, use a round number (based on conversion rates) to divide or multiply the posted price to get the approximate U.S. dollar cost (this can be done in every country and, even on expensive purchases, you'll only, at most, be a few dollars off); learn how the local monetary unit is expressed symbolically, keeping in mind that a $ sign does not necessarily mean U.S. dollars; carry in your pocket the currency converter given you aboard ship.

In going around the Pacific, you'll handle francs, pesos, bahts, rupees, yens and dollars. When you arrive at additional island-nations, such as Samoa, Tonga and others, more names will join this list. It could all be very confusing, but — as we said — there's no need for it to be so.

PERHAPS ONE of the worst things a traveler can do is to fish into his pocket or purse and extend a handful of money, telling the seller to take what is required.

Most people are honest, but — as anywhere in the world — the open palm can be an open invitation to be "taken." It's much better to spend a few moments — and that's all that's really necessary in any country — to become familiar with the local coins and bank notes, and to know their worth in U.S. dollars, or vice versa.

Practical suggestions?

Certainly. Let's, for this purpose, divide the Pacific into two regions — north and south — and deal with tourist-frequented areas.

SOUTH PACIFIC: French Polynesia (Tahiti, Bora Bora, Moorea, etc.) has francs while Fiji, New Zealand and Australia have dollars. In terms of U.S. currency, these are all rather close, varying only a few cents. For fast figuring: take 100 francs or one dollar in the Commonwealth countries, and add about 12 per cent for the equivalent of U.S. dollars.

For example, an item costing $10 in New Zealand would mean about $11.20 in U.S. currency.

MID-AND NORTH Pacific: in Hong Kong and the Philippines, divide the posted price by six (it will be dollars in Hong Kong and pesos in the Philippines); should you visit Thailand, figure 20 bahts equal $1 USA. India (with rupees) means divding by seven and a half to calculate the US dollar equivalent.

In Taiwan, the dollar is 40-1 while in Japan the yen are about 360-1. This latter figure can get confusing, and here's where a converter card comes in handy.

The main thing to remember is never to be intimidated by another form of money. It's pretty much like your own. Only the value is different, and it's simple to determine that. From there, you can spend like a native, and at the same time gain the fun of trading in another currency and garnering bargains in the process.

Any change left over, by the way, makes an interesting souvenir.

Letters Of An Embittered Man

Reviews Of New Reading

I doubt that this book will be received by anyone with an open mind.

The polarization that exists in this country will lead those on one side to acclaim it as "a weapon of liberation and a love poem" as does Jean Genet who wrote the introduction.

Those on the other side will probably mostly not read it; and those who do will be appalled by its bitterness, or else discredit the whole book as false —as a series of writings aimed at gaining sympathy for the writer.

In Marin County, since the Aug. 7 shoot-out in which a respected judge died and a young assistant district attorney was so badly wounded that he will be paralyzed from the waist down for the rest of his life, there probably won't be much sympathetic reaction to the writings of Jackson.

Jackson, the brother of the youth who brought the guns into the courtroom in an abortive escape-attempt, was apparently one of the prizes sought in the kidnaping.

As he left the courtroom with the three black convicts he had armed and the five hostages they had taken, 17-year-old Jonathan Jackson shouted, "Free the Soledad Brothers by 12:30."

Although the attempt to free George Jackson and the other two convicts charged with slaying a Soledad guard failed, the older brother wievs his brother's action in this way:

"Man-child, black man-child with submachine gun in hand, he was free for a while. I guess that's more than most of us can expect."

The book purports to be a series of letters written from prison by George Jackson during the past six years.

If one accepts as fact that Jackson's mother, father, brother, friends and lawyers saved all these letters so they could be published, a first hurdle to accepting the book at face value has been overcome.

That a man with little formal education can write eloquently is not such a hard obstacle to confront — this has happened before. If a man can write with a certain natural flow, editing will take care of grammatical and punctuation difficulties.

A very bitter tale of a man who has become obsessed with the belief that only through revolution can black men achieve anything. Filled with "death to the pigs" slogans, Jackson's letters implore his family and friends to fight, fight, fight and never work within the system.

His mother, especially, is rather gently berated for espousing Christianity and a "good" attitude. Angela Davis enters the book near the end — he letters to her are a combination of political interchange between two fellow revolutionaries and typical love letters.

The book cannot receive an impartial review from me.

While easily able to find sympathy for a man who has spent the last 10 years in prison, much of it in solitary confinement, I cannot do so for a man who says, "Black men born in the U.S. and fortunate enough to live past the age of 18 are conditioned to accept the inevitability of prison."

Probably the most revealing sentence about the author is when he wrote, "All my life I've done exactly what I wanted to do just when I wanted, no more, perhaps less sometimes, but never any more, which explains why I had to be jailed."

Max Rafferty Says It All Over Again In Latest Book

CLASSROOM COUNTDOWN by Max Rafferty; Hawthorn, 296 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson

Some years back, Max Rafferty began attacking the practices and philosophies of what is known as "progressive education" and discovered he had a lot of company. A great many people had been nursing misgivings about what passed for education; Rafferty put their misgivings into torrid and telling prose.

He has never let up. But in his latest volume, "Classroom Countdown," he appears to be running low on material.

The themes of "Classroom Countdown" are predictably similar to those of his "Suffer Little Children" (1962) and "What They Are Doing To Your Children" (1964), and of the many columns he has written since then. He blames progressive education for most of what's wrong with America — including, this time, riots and bombings.

However, not only are the themes similar; Rafferty is repeating himself, word-for-word in some cases.

For instance, on page 40 of "Suffer Little Children" appeared this:

"A former student of mine who became a paratrooper during World War II and found himself stationed in various European countries made it an invariable custom to seek out a typical resident of each town his outfit liberated, and ask him to name the village's three most successful citizens. Almost always, he recalled, he was given the same three titles: the marie, or burgomaster; the cure or priest; and the schoolmaster."

He then went on to contrast this with the regard in which school superintendents and principals are held in this country.

The same anecdote appears on pages 11 and 12 of "Classroom Countdown," expanded this time to have the paratrooper ask the same question in American towns while stationed at Fort Benning and get the reply: "The bank president, the Cadillac dealer, and the Coca-Cola distributor."

On page 61 of the new volume, Rafferty tells how to know if your school is still devoted to "progressive education" even though it denies it:

"Do the people who are running your school believe that life adjustment is or should be the main goal of the instructional program? If they do, this is progressive education.

"Does your school place primary emphasis upon the happy, easy, comfortable acceptance of the child by his 'peer group'? If it does, your school is 'progressively' oriented." And so forth.

The same catalogue, with scarcely a word changed, appeared on pages 74 and 75 of "What They Are Doing To Your Children."

On page 64 of "Classroom Countdown," inveighing against the lack of history and literature in the school curriculum, appears this:

"Get sixth-grader Johnny in off the Little League diamond for a few minutes. Stand him in front of you, with his soiled sneakers and torn T-shirt. Ask him to tell you something about Charlemagne. Get him to expound on Hannibal. Ask him what century Julius Caesar lived in, who knocked him off, and why . . . .

"Then get sixth-grader Mary in on the carpet . . . . Ask her to quote just the opening lines of 'Paul Revere's Ride' or 'The Charge of the Light Brigade' or 'Old Ironsides' . . . . She'll probably think you've gone right off your rocker."

This no doubt is just as true now (unfortunately) as it was when the same paragraphs appeared word-for-word on pages 162-3 of "What They Are Doing To Your Children."

Maybe a good thing is worth repeating, and, after all, some readers of the latest book may not have read the earlier ones. But this can scarcely be the rationale for repeating oneself within the same book.

The fourth paragraph on page 111 of "Classroom Countdown" reads:

"The graduate who leaves the hallowed halls of academe convinced that his teachers have found the answers for him and have shared those answers with him has failed to get an education, regardless of what those answers may have been or how feverishly they may have been promulgated."

The first complete paragraph on page 279 reads:

"The graduate who leaves the hallowed halls of academe convinced that his teachers have found the answers for him and have shared those answers with him has failed to get an education, regardless of what those answers may be or how feverishly they have been promulgated."

Much of what Rafferty said in 1962 and subsequently, still makes sense. But there does not seem too much point in saying it over again in the same words.

An Exploration Tour Of Country's Finest Homes

TREASURE ROOMS OF AMERICA'S MANSIONS, MANORS AND HOUSES by Rita Reif; Coward-McCann, 297 pages, $19.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Tailored and timed for the Christmas trade, here is a hefty gift book that offers the connoisseur of fine furnishings an armchair tour of some of this country's most impressive homes.

The range is from the 17th Century Philipsburg and Van Cortlandt manors of New York to early 20th Century showplaces such as Washington's Anderson House and Hillwood and Winston-Salem's Hanes House.

They are shown through some 300 plates, nearly 100 of these in color, chosen by Rita Reif, the knowledgeable New York Times writer on homes, furnishings and antiques, to encompass the best in U. S. decorating styles over a period of more than 250 years. Mrs. Reif provides an interesting and enlightening text that is richly descriptive and detailed. And her book provides an armchair tour that the admirer of period housing and tasteful furniture could find nowhere else. Several of the homes and their treasures have never been photographed before.

After Jan. 1, the price of the big book goes up to $22.50. For the aficionado, it is probably worth that cost. So at $19.95 it must be a bit of a bargain.

Third Novel In Trilogy Lively Yarn

The third of a trilogy about Woods Palmer Jr. — the earlier books were "The Banker" and "The Family" — "The American" is a lively adventure novel set in Europe, spiced with intrigue and romance, and populated with generally interesting characters.

Soon he is involved with a pretty young woman and caught up in international plotting. Waller is not adverse to explicit sex scenes, but uses them better than most. And the continental background is first-rate.

Waller keeps a busy plot going at a rapid yet controlled pace. "The American" is not a great novel and makes no pretentions of being one. But it is an entertaining yarn.

Dispassionate Look At Vietnam War

By DON KEOWN

Our involvement in Indochina is one of those sensitive subjects Americans are seemingly unable to discuss or consider without extreme emotion.

The defenders of our policies approach it from the standpoint of a rigid patriotism or with an almost hysterical hatred and fear of communism.

Critics belabor it out of horror for the suffering that has been inflicted and from the depths of a terrible national guilt and despair.

In short, Veitnam is a moral issue, intensely so, and cool, dispassionate appraisals have become a near impossibility.

We say "near impossibility," for Chester L. Cooper, a veteran of the diplomatic service, demonstrates in his "The Lost Crusade" that this most difficult feat can still be done.

Here, by a true professional, is an astonishingly detached analysis of how, little by little, this country slipped and skidded into a Southeast Asian morass that now leaves most of us, belatedly awakened, aghast and confused.

Along with a remarkable ability to keep his cool while examining a subject that generates much heat, Cooper has other advantages that fit him admirably for his complex undertaking. For one thing, he demonstrates a considerable writing talent in setting forth his material literately and eruditely.

For another, he can speak with the insight of a true insider. For a decade and a half of his distinguished government career, Cooper was intimately associated with U.S. involvement in — and then its efforts to extricate itself from — the Vietnamese quicksand. That association extended from the 1954 Geneva Conference (with the U.S. playing a disappointing obstructionist role) to the frustrating talks in Paris that are still under way. Cooper is thus able

CHESTER L. COOPER

"The Lost Crusade" at first is the story of a government motivated by contradictory and often antequated concepts and principles into intruding itself deeper and deeper into a perilous situation. Then it becomes the sad story of a stubborn refusal to admit mistakes and a desperate desire to save face, so that opportunities to reverse the dangerous direction of our Southeast Asian policies were repeatedly flubbed and wasted.

Cooper does not deal in villains, nor in heroes either (except for Averell Harriman, the diplomat he seems to admire most). His point is that at the outset there were few Americans, in or out of government, who were concerned over the moral implications of our Vietnamese adventure. A handful, like Sen. Wayne Morse, expressed indignation or alarm. But we all know how Oregonians ultimately rewarded Morse for his foresight. It was not until much later that the outcry became general, and even then it was our lack of overwhelming military success, more than the ethical aspects of our policies, that created the greatest disillusionment and clamor for disengagement.

Cooper recites the record of our entrapment. And it becomes clear that the snare was set, not so much by the Vietcong, the North Vietnamese nor Red China,, as by our supposed allies, the South Vietnamese and their several governments.

For, says Cooper, of all the reasons offered for American involvement in Vietnam, the most legitimate was our claim that we were there to secure "freedom of choice" or the values of democracy for the people of South Vietnam.

But, admits Cooper, the people in power in Saigon, from Diem through Khanh to Ky and Thieu have made a mockery of our resolution. Their objective has been anything but "freedom of choice" for the people over whom they rule.

Cooper strives for fairness, and admits that application of the principles of democracy under the conditions that existed in the 1950s and 1960s in Vietnam would have been a most difficult, if not impossible, undertaking. But if American participation in the fighting was to be justified morally, at least some effort in that direction was an absolute prerequisite.

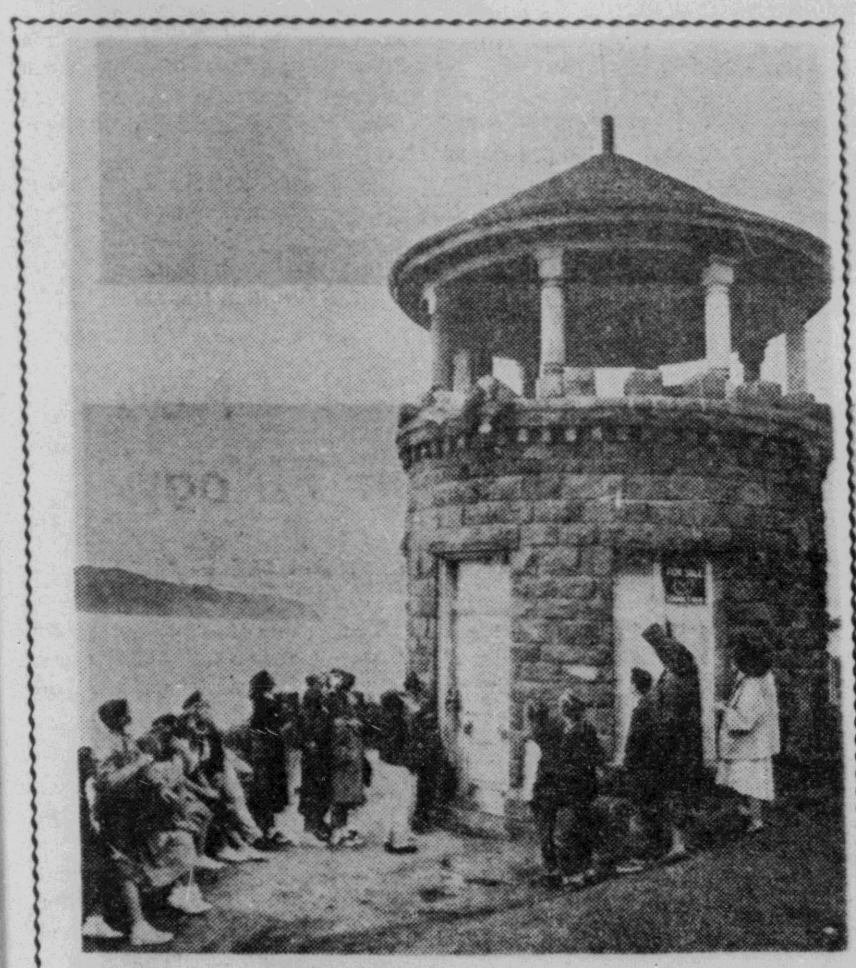
Cooper suggests that at this stage the U.S. would still be wise to concentrate upon the "free choice" objective. A fair election, he admits, might well be won or partly won by the Communists. But at least Americans could then say they had realized one of the commitments for which they began their ill-fated "crusade."

Would the Vietnamese themselves, North or South, now agree to such a formula? Perhaps not. But if they did not, then the U.S. might finally have cause to disengage and pull its soldiers out of Asia. A basic war aim would be proven unrealizable. Cooper does not suggest this specifically. But he does advise that we must learn the benefits of sometimes saying "no" to allies that renege upon their promises or blackmail us politically.

Cooper suggests, too, a long range lesson the U.S. might learn from this unfortunate episode in our history — that Congress must reassert its responsibilities in helping to make foreign policy, and particularly its power to declare war. This coming from a man who worked long, hard and honorably for the government's executive branch, is especially impressive.

Cooper aruges too for a better informed, more interested public. Yet, somewhat conversely, he maintains that a certain element of secrecy is essential to successful diplomacy. One wonders, however, if the reverses and problems created by public exposure would have been any worse than has been the outcome of policies conceived in such secrecy that often bureaucrats, generals and others directly involved have been uncertain as to their content or intent.

Yet, candidly and clearly, Cooper has written a brilliant exposition of the course that we have followed in Southeast Asia from qualified support of doomed French imperialism i Indochina, to the disastro point where we now find ou selves cast in the role of interl per and invader. Those who e pect from Cooper either an apo ogy for government positions, an angry diatribe against h former superiors will be disa pointed. But those who hope f a wealth of information calm evaluated by a diplomat wh frankly admits he acquired h second-sight belatedly, will b amply rewarded by the be book yet to be written on a su ject that haunts and bedevils a of us, as well it should.



TO MARK the 20th anniversary of the Reed Union School District, the district's Parent-Teacher Club has issued a new, revised edition of the Tiburon-Belvedere area history "Shark-Point — High Point." The book was originally a project of the Reed District eighth grade class of 1954 and published then as a mimeographed booklet. Subsequent classes contributed further to the material and in 1958 a printed edition was published. That book, however, has become exceedingly scarce. Thus, the new updated and expanded edition just published with an editorial committee consisting of Joyce Wilson, Mrs. David Teather and Mrs. Erwin Farley, all of whom served with the late Mrs. Richard Y. Dakin in a similar capacity in 1958, in charge. The new cover was designed by Mrs. Farley, and there are now 46 illustrations including the Ken Molino photo above of the Reed eighth graders at Lyford Tower in 1953 that was originally taken for the Independent-Journal. Copies of the new edition are available at area bookstores for $3.50, or can be ordered for $3.70 including tax and mailing charges from the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society, Post Office Box 134, Belvedere-Tiburon, Calif., 94920.

Paperback Honors

Voted "paperback publisher of the year" by the Mid-American Periodical Distributors was Ballantine Books of New York, while that firm's "The Population Bomb" by Paul Ehrlich was acclaimed "paperback book of the year."

Sleuths & Suspense

THE HOUSE OF THE CAT by Alexandra Roudybush; Doubleday, 191 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Rachael Farrara.

Intriguing characters abound in this Crime Club selection, and occasional flashbacks fill the reader in with needed information.

Madame Zed, the owner of a private club in Paris, is the mysterious woman who becomes the focal point of the yarn. Her early years in a convent school, a love affair terminated by parents, a marriage to conceal a pregnancy, a mother-in-law and daughter who hate her, are some of the forces that establish her personality.

Jason Whitaker who is a First Secretary in the American Embassy, and is engaged in illegal enterprises in order to maintain his comfortable way of life, becomes involved in the 22 Club, Madame Zed's expensive establishment, and with her granddaughter.

The French minister of the i terior, Alexis de Guenilles, Madame Zed's childhood swee heart and father of her daught — and now the plot is thic enough to carry the read through this absorbing and su penseful novel.

AMONG THE newest batch paperbacks from Ballantir Books is a 95-cent original, "7 Hours to Hammelburg" b Charles Whiting. Whiting, wh earlier did a biography of Ge George Patton, now tells th hour-by-hour story of a critic behind-the-German-lines mi sion by American soldiers, ca ried out at Patton's command.

Also new: "The Year of th Last Eagle" by Leona Tra Rienow, a satirical treatment a serious theme, the survival a species. It's humorous. Ar yet, it's not so funny.

LOUISA M. Burger of Poi Reyes Station has published booklet of her poems that available in some Marin boo stores.

Entitled "Driftwood," th book contains a number poems — "Morning in Marin "Man With a Pail," etc. - that were first printed in th Marin Magazine's Marin Poet Corner.

The poet is also an artist, retired teacher, the composer published music and a priva instructor of piano, organ ar music theory.

"Concerts and operas are not well attended by young people, and audiences are middle-aged," she noted.

The music chairman points out that this could happen —or rather is happening and will continue to happen — in this country if the trend continues toward excluding music from the curricula in schools.

Those interested in hearing and observing the results of the new program are invited to attend the school's presentation of Orff's "The Christmas Story," which involves all children in grades one through eight, on Dec. 11 at 8 p.m. in Alumnae Hall on the Sleepy Hollow campus.

Some Good Prospects For Small Containers

There's A Wide Variety Of Selections That Can Be Grown In Or Out Of Doors

Indoors or out, month in and month out, he can enjoy beauty and pleasure from plants which he pots-up.

The advantages of growing plants in small containers are many.

THE POTS CAN be moved to take advantage of bloom where it's needed. Besides the portability, there is the convenience of being able to carry on in spite of weather conditions. And don't overlook the intimate relationship a gardener has with the plants he features in pots, whether they are grown on the patio, under lath —or indoors.

Potting-up any plant makes it something special in the mind of a gardener, or why would he go to the trouble of potting it?

Growing plants in pots or containers can be the first step to a possible hobby and to countless hours of pleasure.

The California Association of Nurserymen reports there are a great number of plants that are favorites for potting. In their season, geraniums, pelargoniums, tuberous begonias and fuchsias are top summer choices.

FOR WINTER color to be potted-up right now, cyclamen is a favorite. Christmas cactus and African violets are also enjoyable plants to grow in pots.

Bulbs are excellent choices for potting, and spring-blooming bulbs are still to be found in nurseries. Tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and other narcissus are recommended.

Bloom is not necessarily a requisite.

Ferns are striking specimens in a pot; the varying foliage textures and colors of ivy plants — Hahn's, English, Grape Ivy, etc. —are refreshing sights to behold.

The only true requisite is to plant what gives you pleasure. An inspection of your nearby nursery will turn-up a host of likely candidates.

Aluminum Foil Proves Effective Against Aphids

Aphids — small insects that suck the juices of plants — often transmit virus diseases that reduce crop yields. The repellent foil strips provide an effective barrier from aphids by reflecting ultraviolet rays from the sky.

Reflected rays cause the flying insects to change their course. Traps on protected plots captured 90 to 98 per cent fewer aphids than traps on unprotected experimental plots.

Alumininum reflectivity is demonstrated anew in this application. For years farmers have taken advantage of the fact that aluminum roofs reflect up to 95 per cent of the sun's radiant heat, providing cooler interiors to boost livestock production.

GARDENER'S CHECKLIST

- Top dress garden beds with compost, peat moss or wood bark products. Start a compost pile from leaves you rake-up.
- Continue your fall clean-up in the garden. This is a good time to spray certain deciduous trees and shrubs, so check with your nurseryman about yours.
- Spring blooming bulbs are still to be found, but you should plant them without further delay.
- Plant stock, snapdragons, pansies, violas, calendulas and Iceland poppies from nursery flats. They'll provide brilliant garden color as soon as the weather starts to warm-up in late winter.
- For something different in a berried shrub, see the Chinese and English hollies trained as small patio trees. They add a distinctive touch to the landscape.
- Don't forget to shop for that living Christmas tree before the supply becomes picked over.
- The azalea makes an excellent indoor plant to lend a special note of cheer to your home during the holiday season.

The Care And Cleaning Of Upholstery

Time spent keeping upholstered furniture clean today will pay dividends in longer life and better looks.

Upholstered furniture represents a substantial investment, and it merits planned and careful care. Soil and stain unattended soon become difficult, if not impossible, to remove.

CARE BEGINS before you buy ... Before you buy any upholstered furniture, ask yourself, "How will it wear and clean?"

Most fabrics used today are blends of different yarns. Durability and shrinkage cannot be determined for every blend on the market and do not correspond with the characteristics of fabrics rated individually.

ROUTINE upholstery care .... Vacuum once a week and reverse cushions. Keep furniture away from direct sunlight. Brush with "soft" brush only (stiff bristles can damage fabric fibers). Remove spots immediately. Use partial slip covers (on arm and head rests since they receive the most wear).

RECOMMENDED cleaning products ... For synthetic fibers and cotton you may use light-duty detergent foam (but this is risky because the liquid may cause over-wetting and also must be rinsed). Or use an upholstery shampoo specially formulated to dry into solid, hard crystals for easy removal by vacuuming.

For leather, use saddle soap, paste wax, leather preservative or upholstery shampoo. For plastics use a mild detergent-and-water solution or upholstery shampoo.

For fabric over foam rubber, use upholstery shampoo (never use spirit solvent cleaning fluids because they can damage the rubber padding.)

A Homemaker's Opportunity For Individuality

Handyman's Page

The bedroom is often the only place a homemaker can be totally free to express her own individual taste in decor.

In other rooms she has to compromise with family foibles.

If father is inclined to spill ashes or drop newspapers willy-nilly on chairs or davenports, white brocade upholstery is not for her. And junior can make a deep-pile rug look like a race track after the races, permanently.

BUT IN THE bedroom the homemaker has free choice of materials and colors and she can display her own personal treasures, fragile or otherwise, for her particular pleasure.

That's one reason (of many) that the addition of a master bedroom ranks high when families need more room. In comparatively limited square footage, you can plan space not only for a bed, but for a reading corner, desk, wardrobes, master bath and dressing room.

Regardless of the style of the house, many homemakers choose to be eclectic in plans and materials for an addition; a vaulted ceiling, for instance, makes space seem larger, and wood paneling creates a warm and intimate setting.

HEMLOCK OR red cedar panel boards can be used in a variety of styles and tones on walls and ceilings. Louver closet doors will provide ventilation for wardrobes, while hiding their contents as effectively as solid doors.

A small nook alongside a closet is ample for a built-in desk and shelving convenient for correspondence and household accounts.

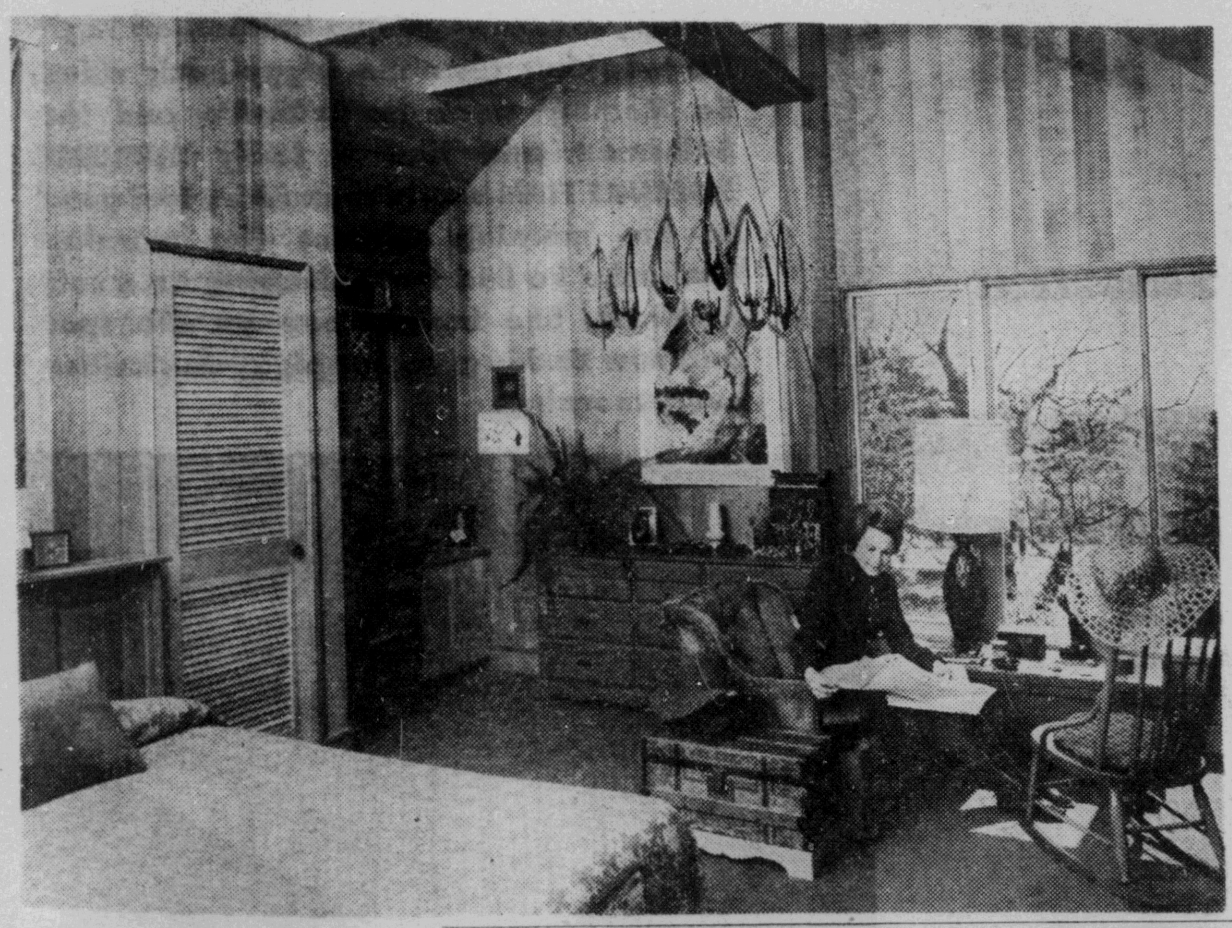
A comfortable chair or two is a must — perhaps a day bed if space allows — and a table or chest for magazines and needlework alongside. Using a gaily painted old trunk is a "campish" fad now.

Choice of headboards needn't be limited to available merchandise at decorators' salons or discount houses. For example, a panel door may make a handsome headboard that will blend in beautifully with walls and de-emphasize the presence of the bed.

BESIDES READING and bed lamps, overall lighting is desirable. A false beam made of a one-by-12-inch board with one-by-two-inch sides will conceal a row of light bulbs, or a neon tube. The absence of fussy fixtures leaves you free to indulge in mobiles or sculptures.

Colors? Choose those that express your personality. Soft greens and golds tone in well with woodwork. But if you're a "pink-and-purple" girl, by all means choose them. After all, it's your own room.

Camp or classical, it's up to you.



THE individuality of the occupant has had full expression in the design and decor of this bedroom. The headboard is a nine-foot raised panel door that has been cut down and framed. Candelabra was custom-designed. The nook shelters a built-in desk. Walls are rough-sawn one-by-six-inch western red cedar boards. The ceiling and louvered door are hemlock.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

Continuing last week's rundown of recent Columbia releases:

LOCAL ROCK group Santana has had a big hit in their single "Evil Ways," as well as with their first Columbia LP, CS 9781 It contains that funky tune, as well as "Jingo," and "Soul Sacrifice" and six others. The group's Latin make-up and emphasis on conga drums adds an extraordinary excitement and sets Santana apart from all those rock groups that seem to sound alike.

Leader Carlos Santana has a good voice and the group comes through with tremendous impact and high musicality at the same time.

COLUMBIA'S "Greatest Hits" series has provided unparalleled opportunities for both pop and classical record buyers to add many of their favorites to their library at lowest cost. My vote for the most successful in the jazz category is "Miles Davis' Greatest Hits," (CS 9808).

With over 26 minutes per side, unusual for jazz LPs, eight of the moody trumpet star's very best can be packaged together. You'll find the swinging theme of "Seven Steps to Heaven," the beauty of "Someday My Prince Will Come," the funk of "Walkin'," plus the Gil Evans Orchestra backing up Miles in "So What."

Some of Davis' recent far-out explorations are upsetting his staunch fans — if this applies to you put CS 9808 on your turntable and nostalgicate.

Brod Crawford Lives Casually

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Broderick Crawford, his battered face the single most impressive element of "The Interns," is divorced, hard working and enjoys the company of Indians more than he does most other persons.

A hulking 220 pounder, Crawford lives in a modert furnished apartment which is a 15-minute walk to Columbia Studios where the medical series is filmed

The studio was also the site of his two greatest screen triumphs, "All the King's Men" for which he won the Oscar in 1949 and "Born Yesterday."

HE IS UNAWARE of his surroundings in the apartment. It is not his home. Because he works only three days a week on the average, the apartment has just become a place to hang his hat.

Crawford's real home is a lovely lonely ranch house outside Tucson, Ariz.

"I live there because I can't stand the California taxes," he said. "And the smog in Hollywood is terrible. Smog is getting to Arizona. I guess I'll keep moving until I end up in northern Maine."

Crawford's ranch consists of 55 acres. He says he raises hell, but no crops, in the open spaces.

HE OWNS FIVE horses, three of which have yet to be ridden. Most of the time a half-dozen or so Indians share the ranch with the actor. He has great fondness and compassion for them.

The ranch house is furnished with rustic Western chairs, tables, rugs and couches, the kind of cushions you don't want to get up from. It's strictly a man's hangout with little or no sign of a feminine touch.

Crawford had the three-bedroom, three-bath house built to his own specifications. The living room is 30 feet square with a fireplace at each of two ends. Windows provide sweeping vistas of scenery.

LIFE IS CASUAL at the ranch. Frequently dinner consists of what Crawford shoots; rabbit, deer, quail.

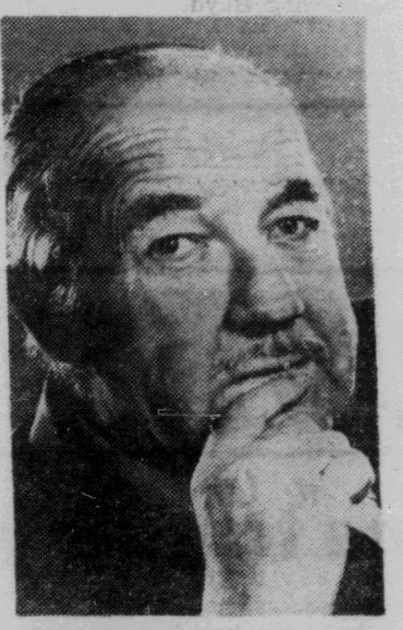
In addition to the Indians, Brod's social life includes a few other ranch owners in the area.

A big night consists of sitting around talking, drinking, admiring paintings and enjoying a large meal.

ONE PARTICULAR old-timer is convinced he has the original map locating the Lost Dutchman gold mine. He has been trying to convince Crawford to help him go in search of it for years.



BRODERICK CRAWFORD
He prefers the ranch

Crawford is the father of two sons, Kelly, a 19-year-old aspiring actor, and Chris, 22, who drives a truck in Hollywood, Fla.

"They're both doing what they like. They're happy," the big man concluded. "Sometimes I wish my own father had encouraged me to become a truck driver."

BUCKLED BULKHEAD—Richard Cole of Novato inspects damage to a temporary bulkhead caved in by the overflowing waters of Corte Madera Creek in Kentfield. Torrential rains from the season's first major storm swelled the creek over the wall upstream from College Avenue, but most of the county escaped unflooded. Cole is a foreman for JB and C Construction Co. of Arizona, the firm which built the latest addition to the concrete creek project.

Gale-Force Winds, Rain Lash Marin

Sections Of Kentfield, Santa Venetia Flooded

The season's first major storm flooded low-lying areas of Kentfield, Santa Venetia and along Shoreline Highway last night, but most of Marin County escaped with little or no damage, officials reported today.

High winds — which hit 65 to 75 miles per hour at Muir Woods — toppled many trees and shorted out power lines throughout the county. This caused serious problems in Santa Venetia where flood control pumps were stopped, and on Throckmorton Ridge, where firemen battled a $50,000 house blaze.

Rainfall was sometimes torrential. In a 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m., Hamilton Air Force Base reported 4.91 inches; Woodacre, 4.6 inches; Fairfax, 4; Terra Linda, 3.37 inches; Bolinas, 2.86; San Rafael, 2; Sausalito, 1.7, and two differing readings in Tiburon — 3.05 inches in one observer's gauge and 1.36 in another.

TIBURON GUSTS

Wind gusts reportedly hit 50 miles per hour in Tiburon.

Donald R. Frost, county public works director, said fast-rising waters after 10 p.m. eroded ground from behind a temporary bulkhead at the "transition stage" on Corte Madera Creek, between Army Engineers' recently completed flood control work and the old channel.

He said he would inspect the bulkhead — leaning at a 45-degree angle — today to determine how serious the threat is.

Corte Madera Creek rose about 10 feet in two hours, according to Ross policeman Walter Fischer, briefly closing Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and causing familes in the College and Granton Park areas to evacuate their homes.

EMERGENCY PUMPS

Frost said county public works crews set up emergency pumps in Santa Venetia, and that power was restored to the regular pumps by 2 a.m. Rainfall slacked off by then, he said, so trouble was limited to flooded streets and yards, plus a few homes where water entered briefly.

Tamalpais Valley firemen reported water intruded in three homes during the height of the storm shortly after 10 a.m., but did no damage.

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. crews toiled all night throughout Marin County, replacing lines felled by trees or shorted out by high winds. PG&E district superintendent Leonard Robertson could not be reached today, as he was out in the field checking damage.

The Larkspur area lost power for two hours beginning at 10:30 p.m.; Marin City lights went out for an hour at 7:30 a.m. today.

Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. crews also were out all night. Business office manager Charles H. Russell reported that one cable in Northgate cut service to 300 homes from 1 a.m. to 5 a.m., and other telephones were out in Kentfield and San Anselmo. He said service was to be back to normal by 5 p.m. today.

SAN RAFAEL AREA

San Rafael had flooding only in one area, Lovell Avenue. Public Works Director Norris M. Rawles said that wind toppled a few trees elsewhere, and a few catch basins were plugged with leaves, but otherwise there was no trouble. Pumps kept the streets clear at Lincoln Avenue and Second Street, which often flooded in earlier years.

Both Rawles and Frost said they were pleased with the way Marin weathered the storm, partly because of drainage and flood control work recently done and partly because of the fact that last night's high tide was a moderate 4.4 feet.

STORM PEAK

Frost said that because the peak of the storm nearly coincided with high tide, Highway 101 had water standing on it at Corte Madera and at Terra Linda Creek. Shoreline Highway at Tam Valley flooded briefly, he said.

He said Sir Francis Drake Boulevard was flooded, but drained within two hours, because flood control work on Corte Madera Creek speeded the runoff. It was "driveable" by 2:30 a.m., he said.

This noon's high tide of 6.1 feet produced no problems because the rains had eased. High tides at night for the next two days will reach only 4.5 feet.

The weather forecast calls for an 80 per cent chance of rain tomorrow, with southwest winds easing to 15 to 30 miles per hour.

Last night's storm brought heavy, wind-driven snows to he Sierra, dumping two feet of snow on Mount Shasta City

51 Killed, Missing In Crash Of Jet

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —A chartered jet with 230 persons aboard crashed while attempting to take off in a freezing rain last night and exploded, killing a number of military personnel bound for Vietnam.

Military officials said there were 179 known survivors and 51 persons killed or missing in the crash of the Capitol International Airways DC8 jet bound for Cam Ranh Bay. Forty-six bodies have been recovered thus far.

Aboard were 219 military personnel and a crew of 11.

"I heard a noise, then I saw the wings flutter and the plane crash," said Joseph Heywood, who was working on his car near the airport.

"The fuselage split in the middle and a big ball of flames went up, maybe 120 to 150 feet high," he said.

Other witnesses said the pilot was trying to take off but decided to abort. One of them said the plane smacked back down on the runway at a speed of about 170 miles an hour.

The plane flattened a small fence, plowed under a building designed to hold instrument landing equipment and slid to a stop trailing tons of burning jet fuel.

The big plane began breaking up as it bounded across the runway, shedding one engine. It broke into three pieces and passengers soaked with jet fuel tumbled out of the plane.

The explosion came from three to five minutes later.

"There was panic at first," said Master Sgt. Robert L. Keller of New York City.

"But the older GIs aboard the plane quelled the panic instantly and this is one of the things that pulled us out," he said.

"I was stationed at the rear of the exit door to help people get out," he said. "It was pretty mushy and swampy getting out. It was a matter of five or six minutes before the engines exploded."

The flight originated at McChord Air Force Base, Wash., and was bound for Cam Ranh Bay in South Vietnam with the servicemen, many of them returning from Thanksgiving leaves at home. The flight had scheduled refueling stops here and another in Japan.

The accident was the third serious crash of a nonscheduled airliner in the last two months.

Several survivors said they heard a series of loud reports just before the pilot attempted to abort the takeoff. Some of the men also said they saw fire in the outboard left-hand engines about the same time they heard the loud reports.

Others said they thought the plane had blown some of its tires on takeoff.

Searchers with flashlights worked far into the night scouring areas in all directions from the wreckage, looking for bodies or injured survivors.

The bodies were taken to a temporary morgue set up at Kulis Air National Guard Base which is located at the airport and is about one-half mile from the crash scene.

Survivors were taken to Providence and Community Hospitals in Anchorage for treatment. Those who were not seriously injured were taken to facilities at Elmendorf Air Force Base.

LARGEST CROWD EVER

3.5 Million Attend Mass

MANILA (UPI) — A huge crowd gathered to see Pope Paul VI say an open-air mass today, while not far away the man who tried to assassinate the Pope Friday said "it would be a pleasure" to have another chance to kill him.

Bishop Juan Velasco, chairman of the mass media committee for the papal visit, said he estimated 3.5 million persons gatherd before the altar set up in Luneta Park on Manila Bay for the papal mass. Police and other estimates were much lower — the highest ranging about one million persons.

"It is the largest crowd ever assembled for any papal appearance any place in the world on a single occasion," Velasco said. The largest crowd Vatican officials who travel with the Pope could remember was in Bombay when some 2.5 million Indians lined the 10-mile drive on his way from the airport to the city center.

Not long before the Pope said mass, Bolivian surrealist painter Benjamin Mendoza y Amor appeared at a press conference held at a police headquarters about 400 yards away. He told journalists, "I should be congratulated" for the attack on the Pope and added: "It would be a pleasure if I can get another chance" to kill him.

To get Pope Paul through the huge crowd to the altar presented a problem for the security-conscious police. At times his motorcycle escort swerved directly into the crowd to drive the people back.

Security men were all around the limousine and police with three-foot staves hit out at the crowd to clear the way.

Shortly before the mass, the Pope told a South Vietnamese delegation "we are doing everything in our power" to help bring peace in Vietnam. He renewed his call for "honest and sincere negotiations" to end the war.

The Pope, throughout his numerous ceremonies today, appeared unruffled by the assassination attempt and reports there may be more death plots against him.

The Pope, 73, appeared very tired Friday night at the end of what had been a 35-hour day during which he had flown from Rome to Manila with stops in Tehran and Dacca, East Pakistan. But today, despite the busy schedule, he was more relaxed and spoke with much more force.

On top of a Bolivian painter's attempt to stab Pope Paul at Manila International Airport when he arrived Friday, Manila was shaken by an earthquake today. It was a light quake, measuring only three on the Richter scale of 10, and a spokesman at the papal nunciature where the pontiff was staying said it was not noticied. No damage was reported in the quake, which came at 6:45 a.m.

The painter, Benjamin Mendoza y Amor, 35, got to within three feet of the Pope at the airport and slashed out with a foot-long dagger. He did not touch the Pope and was quickly subdued by papal aides and security police. He was charged with attempted murder today, which could bring a 20 to 40 year prison sentence.

Lt. Col. Andres Ruiz, chief intelligence officer of the security force guarding the Pope, said he received fresh reports early today that Communist Huk guerrillas have sent a man "to inflict harm on the Pope" during public appearances. He said he had another report "radical elements" planned to attack the Pope and Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos.

Ruiz said he also had received a petition from the citizens of Manila's Tondo district asking the Pope to move ahead his Sunday visit there so he could leave the slum region before dark.

Cambodia Says Communists Add Fifth Element To Major Push

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian government sources today reported evidence of a fairly strong Communist troop buildup near the town of Prey Veng 25 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The buildup would add a fifth element of Communist troops to four other columns which were reported moving toward Phnom Penh. No estimate of size was given.

There was continued speculation among government sources that the Communists were planning a new squeeze on transportation routes in and out of the Cambodian capital or possibly a direct attack of some sort.

Officials believed that any attack would not be a major military move but a tactic designed to grab headlines and embarrass the government.

Government sources said a new curfew was going into effect in Phnom Penh on Monday as part of a program of new security measures. The curfew would run from dusk to dawn and apply to all foreigners.

Pickup 2nd pgh 026A: There have

There have been seven days this year when no U.S. war deaths were reported, they noted, and three of them came during November. In addition, the level of deaths has been lower than in past months.

The level of activity has been so low that the monthly death figure was expected to be among the lowest recorded since the American buildup started in 1965 despite a helicopter loss earlier in the month in which 15 U.S. Marines died.

At first it was believed there was a 48 hour period this week in which no Americans were killed, but later reports said that one American was killed Thursday and another died on Friday. The reports brought the total number of dead recorded by the U.S. Command so far to two since midnight Tuesday.

Official communiques reported eight U.S. wounded during the period, but spokesman said there frequently were additional wounded in incidents not reported in the daily communiques.

In Cambodia, government planes and artillery pounded suspected Communist troops concentrations on the outer defense perimeter of Phnom Penh throughout the night.

Military command spokesman Lt. Col. Am Rong said despite the heavy shelling by both artillery and planes "there was not much fighting around Phnom Penh."

Meanwhile, radio Hanoi broadcast today what it claimed was another Christmas message from a captured U.S. pilot to his wife and family in California.

An American-accented voice, claiming to be Marine Lt. Col. Edison W. Miller, said, "I had hoped to be with you but unfortunately circumstances will not allow me to join with you in the holiday festivities this year."

Military spokesmen in Saigon said Miller has been missing in North Vietnam since Oct. 13, 1967. There was no way of knowing if the message broadcast by Radio Hanoi's English-language service was really Miller.

The short message to his family said Miller was "always with you in heart and mind, and take joy in knowing you are together safe and happy. Be in good spirits, opaimistic and active for peace. We'll be together soon and will have many good times and wonderful years together."

Indonesian Orchestra Large Unit

Indonesian music is based largely upon that Southeast Asian equivalent of the symphony orchestra known as the gamelan. On the island of Java, a complete gamelan "orchestra" has about 75 instruments, as many as 30 players, and 10 to 15 singers.

The traditional music preserved in ancient palace collections has been estimated at more than 800 pieces, mostly forms of gongs and percussion instruments somewhat like xylophones and drums. The unique harmonic qualities of gamelan has influenced Western world composers since Claude Debussy discovered them at the end of the 19th century.

TV NOTES

By JACK GAVER

NBC estimates that color-equipped television households as of Oct. 1 totaled 26,200,000, which is 43.2 per cent of total video households and a gain of 18 per cent over the number a year ago.

Juliet Mills, star of ABC's "Nanny and the Professor" series, has done a mother-like-daughter bit by writing her first television script. For her program, of course. Her mother, Mary Haley Bell, wife of British star John Mills, is a prominent writer of books and plays.

CBS will air the Cotton Bowl Festival Parade Jan. 1 at 10:30 a.m. from Dallas, Tex. as a prelude to its 11:30 telecast of the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, Calif.

NBC's "Meet the Press" interview program observed its 23rd television anniversary Nov. 6.

Public Broadcasting Service has received a million dollar grant from the Mobil Oil Corp. that will enable it to bring to more than 200 of its educational video stations a 39-week series of one-hour dramas produced by the British Broadcasting Corp. The series will be seen under the title, "Masterpiece Theater."

Dick Cavett's late-night talk show on ABC has been renewed through 1971. The program went on the air Dec. 29, 1969.

Soviet Protest

BERLIN (UPI)—The Soviet Union, in a protest note to the western allies, has demanded an end to West German political activity in West Berlin, western allied officials said today.

At Retreat

THURMONT, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon is spending the weekend at Camp David, his mountain retreat, to consider more high-level personnel changes and to work on the 1971-72 federal budget.

With the President are Mrs. Nixon, daughter Tricia and a close Nixon friend, C. G. Bebe Rebozo. The Nixons' other daughter, Julie Eisenhower is in Newport, R.I., visiting her husband David who is undergoing naval officer training.

Big Art Theft

KURASHIKI, Japan (UPI)—Five paintings worth half a million dollars, including a Van Gogh, were stolen from the gallery of a Japanese silk tycoon after steel bars were cut from a rear window, police said today.

Authorities in the textile and industrial city of 370,000 said the paintings were taken Friday night from the walls of the stately O'Hara Art Gallery, built in the style of a Greek temple to house one of Japan's finest private collections of Western art.

On Visit Agenda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has announced that President Nixon will meet during December with King Hussein of Jordan and British Prime Minister Edward Heath.

The meeting with Hussein will be Dec. 8, on the first day of a two-day unofficial visit to Washington, during which he also will meet with Secretary of State William P. Rogers and other officials.

13th Birthday

HYANNISPORT, Mass. (UPI)—Caroline Kennedy, who played at her father's knee in the Oval Office of the White House, is now a shy, attractive teen-agers.

Members of her family gathered at the Kennedy compound Friday to celebrate the 13th birthday of the daughter of President John F. Kennedy.

The event ended a three-day celebration that began Wednesday night with a birthday party for John F. Kennedy Jr., 10.

A pretty girl with long light brown hair and blue eyes, Caroline is popular at the school and her grades are said to be excellent. Although somewhat shy, she has many friends and is not treated like a celebrity.

U.N. Post Is Rejected By Moynihan

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's urban affairs adviser, Daniel Patrick Moynihan, has turned down a chance to become U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations. Instead, he will rejoin the faculty of Harvard University.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Moynihan, generally considered the administration's most prominent liberal, would leave his White House post shortly after the first of the year.

Moynihan had earlier indicated a desire to leave before Feb. 1 to avoid losing his tenure at Harvard, which limits to two years leaves of absence for faculty members who go into government.

Ziegler refused to confirm repotrs that Moynihan was offered the U.N. ambassador's post. Other sources said, however, Moynihan was offered the post but turned it down.

There was no indication when Nixon would choose someone else to succeed Ambassador Charles W. Yost. Nixon flew to Camp David, his retreat in the Maryland Mountains, for the weekend, and the White House said he would be considering personnel changes including the U.N. ambassadorship.

There was no immediate indication what Moynihan would do once he returned to Harvard. When he joined the White House staff at the beginning of the Nixon administration, he had been professor of education and urban studies and director of the Harvard-Massachusetts Institute of Technology Joint Center for Urban Studies.

"I am delighted he is coming back," said Theodore R. Sizer, dean of Harvard's Graduate School of Education. "He fills an important place in our program on education and social policy, particularly as that program might connect with the work of other faculities of the university."

Egypt Taking Over Missile Operations

CAIRO (UPI) —Egypt has begun to replace Soviet technicians with Egyptians manning the nation's increasingly sophisticated weapons systems, including missiles, government officials said today.

The officials said the Soviets would be returning home in greater numbers as more Egyptians become qualified to handle equipment in the Nile Valley and delta and near the Suez Canal cease-fire lines with Israel.

"We have never used this electronic equipment before," one official said. "We had to train our armed forces technicians. As soon as they were trained it was natural for them to man the weapons."

Soviets, although willing to act as advisers, were reluctant to be drawn into any situation which might lead to open conflict with Israeli forces, officials said. Under current planning, the minimum number of Soviet technicians will be kept in battle areas and as their jobs are finished and they are replaced with Arabs they will be withdrawn, officials said.

The semi-official newspaper Al Ahram said today Cairo will draw up a new protest note to the United States clarifying its objections to U.S. spy flights over the Suez Canal cease-fire area. Cairo already has protested to the United States about the flights.

In another development, Egypt, Libya, the Sudan and Syria laid plans for a political link-up which could spell peace or war for the Middle East. Officials of the four states were working out details following Syria's admission Friday to the proposed North African merger.

The Syrian decision to join the group came after Lt. Gen. Hafez Assad seized power Nov. 13 in a bloodless coup.

450 Tons Of Relief So Far To East Pakistan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has sent some 450 tons of relief supplies to cyclone-torn East Pakistan, along with eight helicopters to distribute the aid.

But Robert M. Murphy, named by President Nixon to head the Pakistan Relief Committee, said more millions of dollars worth of American aid would be needed for months to come.

Murphy said $8 million of the $10 million Nixon had pledged to the relief effort had been spent, primarily for food.

"It's anticipated further aid will be required, in the millions of dollars, in the coming months," said Murphy.

So far the U.S. supplies have filled 10 commercial charter flights, each carrying about 90,000 pounds. The shipments have included civil defense survival biscuits to help sustain survivors of the Nov. 12-13 cyclone. (Cyclones are called hurricanes in the western hemisphere.)

Under the Food for Peace Program, 50,000 tons of wheat have been granted to Pakistan. This allows the Pakistani government to release available stocks there for immediate relief feeding. The United States will send replacement stocks later.

On Nov. 25, the U.S. Agriculture Department announced that an additional $75.4 million of American farm products would be sent to Pakistan under the Food for Peace Program.

Condition Poor

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actor Brian Kelly, who appeared in the television series "Flipper," was listed in poor condition today after suffering a severe head injury in a motorcycle accident.

Hickel Will Not Relate His Story

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel cancelled without explanation a press conference next week at which he had promised to answer all questions about his abrupt dismissal by President Nixon.

Hickel's action came Friday shortly after a White House aide personally fired six other Interior Department officials, all close associates of Hickel. Other dismissals were expected.

Josef Holbert, Hickel's press secretary, had requested on Thursday that the National Press Club set up the Wednesday luncheon press conference. (Holbert was one of the six officials dismissed.)

But on Friday, an unidentified Hickel spokesman told Donald Larrabee, chairman of the National Press Club's board of governors, that Hickel would be out of town Wednesday and would not be able to return in time for the meeting.

There was no official announcement of the cancellation, but Larrabee confirmed it when contacted by newsmen.

Hickel was understood to be in Texas Friday night, but his exact location was unknown.

Hickel was fired Wednesday in a 25-minute meeting with Nixon, of one of the few times Hickel had met personally with the President. Nixon then announced he intended to nominate GOP National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton to take Hickel's place.

On Friday afternoon, about two hours before quitting time, White House special assistant Frederic W. Malek and Interior Deputy Undersecretary William Rogers summoned six Interior Department officials and told them to clear out by the end of the day.

Kidnap Plot Story Prompts Security Call

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate subcommittee chairman says he believes government security measures should be stepped up to guard against a kidnap plot reported by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., said Friday additional action should be taken to protect government officials and facilities.

Earlier Friday, Hoover told Byrd's Senate appropriations subcommittee the FBI had learned an antiwar group was planning to kidnap foreign diplomats and high government officials and hold them hostage until the United States agrees to stop bombing in Southeast Asia and releases "all political prisoners."

The FBI director said the plot had not been broken despite both an "intensive investigation" and the imprisonment of Roman Catholic priests Philip and Daniel Berrigan. Hoover described the Berrigans as leaders of the group, called "The East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives."

Rev. Peter D. Fordi, who said he was a member of the antiwar group, told UPI in New York City to East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives has never "entertained the possibility of kidnaping or bombing." A brother of the Berrigans, Jerome Berrigan, a college English teacher in Syracuse, N.Y., said he was "shocked and unbelieving" at Hoover's testimony.

Hoover said the name of a White House staff member had been mentioned as a possible victim of the kidnap effort. He declined to give any names but said the plotters had other victims in mind including "some high government officials and members of the diplomatic corps."

Hoover appeared before the committee to ask for an additional $14 million appropriation to hire 1,000 more FBI agents and 702 clerks.

$606,000 Award In Medical Case

SAN JOSE (UPI)—An 8-year-old boy who suffered brain damage during an operation at Stanford Medical Center, has been awarded $606,000 in a medical malpractice suit.

A jury awarded the damages Wednesday to Joseph Chidester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Chidester, of Menlo Park, Calif. The parents were awarded an additional $20,000 for loss of their son's companionship.

Testimony in the 11-day trial indicated that an oxygen tube became detached during an operation being performed on the boy and that as a result he suffered permanent mental damage.

The suit originally asked for $3 million damages.

Marin Poets' Corner

REMEMBERING: NOVEMBER 1963

"Stand by," a voice called out —
Could I have heard?
The truth seemed blurred;
A sharp pain then pierced my heart
For those so near, and I apart;
I stood to wonder into space,
Roses folded their petals in prayer,
Raindrops crying down the window pane,
Trees reflected as organs against the sky,
Angel's voices floated from on high.

Two I-J Employees Have Tires Punctured

Tires on the cars of two Independent-Journal employees were punctured and an Independent-Journal advertiser was threatened with further vandalism yesterday in incidents apparently related to the strike against the newspaper.

The four tires on the auto of I-J Gen. Mgr. Norwin S. Yoffie were punctured behind 1230 Fifth Avenue between 4 and 4:30 p.m., San Rafael police reported.

Four tires on the sedan of news editor Donald G. Davis were punctured during the same time span while the car was parked on Mission Avenue, police said.

Byrne's Fine Foods store of San Francisco, part of a chain whose Kentfield store advertises in the I-J, had the tires on two trucks slashed Wednesday night, and received a call yesterday warning the firm to cease advertising in the I-J, according to the manager.

Store manager Larry Bain said a note was left on the vandalized trucks Wednesday night which read, "Take your ad out of the I-J."

He said the caller yesterday threatened further vandalism last night if the food store continued to advertise, but there was none.

One tire on a large produce truck and two tires on a pickup truck were slashed between 7:30 p.m. Wednesday and 7 a.m. Thursday, Bain said, and a spare tire for the produce truck was stolen.

Seven Hurt In Puerto Suello Crash

A 57-year-old San Rafael woman was in poor condition in Marin General Hospital today, the most severely injured of seven persons hurt yesterday in a five-car accident on Highway 101 near the Puerto Sueleo Hill.

The accident also injured five members of one family. Treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts were David Pular, 35; his wife, Madeline, 34; two daughters, Sharon 4 and Lynn, 8, and a son, David, 6, all of 224 Mari Lane, Petaluma.

The seventh victim of the accident was Donna Lanning, 42, of 223 Blackstone Drive, San Rafael.

Details of the accident were unavailable from the California Highway Patrol, but officers indicated the mishap started when a car driven by William W. Nichleman, 19, of 773 Beachnut Court, San Rafael, spun out on the wet roadway and four other cars, unable to stop, rear-ended each other.

$50,000 Fire Routs Pair, Dogs

A Throckmorton Ridge couple fled with their two dogs and their car, while wind-whipped flames destroyed their home last night, Marin County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom said.

The $50,000 fire routed Mr. and Mrs. James W. Brodale of 560 Panoramic Highway at 9:28 p.m.

Chief Bloom said the fire may have been storm-connected, due to surging voltage in power lines in the neighborhood. The fire started in a bedroom wall, apparently from shorted wiring. The Brodales had retired to bed to watch television when they smelled smoke, called firemen and fled.

They and neighbors reported the lights had flared to unusual brightness at 6:18 p.m. Firemen and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. crews found high-voltage lines arcing in high winds at that time.

The Brodales spent the night with neighbors, Chief Bloom said.

He said firemen were hindered in their efforts by both wind and the power blackout which hit the area just as they arrived. Units from Mill Valley and Tamalpais Valley fire departments helped the county crews, but the destruction was total, Bloom said.

He said damage to the house was $35,000 and to its contents, $15,000.

22-Year-Old Mill Valleyan Is Missing

Relatives and friends of a 22-year-old Mill Valley woman, missing for three weeks, are seeking information on her whereabouts.

Miss Rinehart had been in Marin four months. She formerly lived in Omaha, Neb.

She is described as 5 feet, 2 inches tall, 115 pounds, with long light brown hair. She last was seen wearing a purple print dress.

Knife-Wielder Is Chased Out

When a knife-wielding man tried to hold up a cashier at his San Anselmo restaurant last night, Joe Barthel retaliated with the would-be thief's own medicine — he grabbed a knife, too.

Police said the would-be bandit, dressed in an Army field jacket, entered the restaurant, at 115 San Anselmo Avenue, about 11 p.m., grabbed a knife from a table and demanded money from the cashier.

Barthel then went into action.

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

I am an avid reader and a devoted fan of yours since I make almost all of the clothes my family wears. My sewing machine is quite old, and I have hinted for a new one. I have a feeling my husband will probably surprise me with a new one. My problem is, how to let him know what I want in a sewing machine and not let some fast talking sales man talk him into anything.

MRS. A. W.

DEAR MRS. A. W.,

Buying a sewing machine takes quite a bit of careful study and should never be done without checking carefully into the following details. A sewing machine is a very expensive purchase and should be made with the idea of using it for many, many years to come, and using it happily, because it meets all of your requirements.

The surprise should only be verbal, you and you alone should decide on the machine you want to use. Before you buy any machine, it is wise to check out several brands and see a demonstration on each one. Compare some of the following qualifications. How difficult is the threading, how many eyes does the thread have to be threaded through, how difficult is it to thread and place the bobbin into position?

Take your own fabric samples with you and have the testing done on various types of fabrics, not just the hard finish muslins that are often used for this purpose. Tension is probably the most important of all the features. A good sewing machine will have a self-adjusting tension, and it will not be necessary for you to change the tension of the top or bobbin threads for various weights of fabrics. Once the average person starts fiddling with the tension, it usually must end up in the repair shop for a professional adjustment. The best way to test the tension is with the zig-zag stitch, you can easily see if the fabric has a tendency to draw up and distort the shape of your garment.

Since knits of all types are a way of life today and will probably continue to be important in our clothing, it is wise to check the sewing machine carefully on knits. Stitch on both the very sheer knits as well as the very heavy ones and see if there is the proper give to your seams to avoid popping the stitches.

Decorative stitches make a strong selling point when you see any demonstration, but it is wise to remember that this will usually only be a very small percentage of the use you will give your machine; instead, you must find a sewing machine that stitches a beautiful straight stitch.

Today with the polyesters, synthetics, vinyls, knits we find a great deal of top stitching used to add decorative touches as well as assuring nice flat outer edges. Be sure the machine you buy stitches beautifully with buttonhole twist for this top stitching. Also, be sure the machine has a separate presser foot for straight stitching.

Most companies will let you take a machine to your home for a few days if you are seriously considering a purchase, work on it yourself, then decide.

Be sure there is good service available where you live. Occasionally, you may need it regardless of the machine. A well built machine with metal parts throughout usually needs no further service. You must be prepared to spend money for this purchase, a good sewing machine is expensive, just as any other good mechanical product.

Don't be too concerned about whether or not you will get a trade-in. You can usually sell your old machine through your local newspaper to someone who needs a second machine in the family. A gear driven machine is not necessarily better than a felt driven machine, it is much easier to replace a belt if it should be needed, than to have the gears replaced. You may also compare notes with your friends and check any consumer magazine for a specific machine rating which compares all brands. Have a happy, happy Christmas with your new sewing machine.

"Most patterns do not give yardage requirements for 60 or 68 inch fabrics as we find many times today. I have found that if I take a piece of old sheeting and fold it to the exact width of my fabric and place the pattern on this, I can usually save at least one half yard of fabric. By this savings, I treat myself to a better price fabric and consequently, I am much happier with the finished results!"

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Her Girl Friend Wants To Leave Home For Commune, Older Man

DEAR HELEN:

My girl friend who is 15, met this older guy who wants her to come and live in a hippie commune. She thinks that would be the greatest, as she has fallen madly in love with him and believes everything he says.

Helen, she's an immature little dummy, and also very stubborn. I've talked until I'm hoarse and she doesn't listen. I tell her running away is dangerous, but she says he'll carry a knife. Then I asked her what if he leaves her, and she answered, "Then I'll carry a knife."

How can I get through to a girl who hates school, her parents, and is hooked on being "free"? — WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED:

This girl needs more help than a teen can give. Confide in an adult you trust and let him take it from there. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Is it true that the fella who goes in for weight lifting and body building is really fearful of his manhood and trying to hide his sissiness under a lot of bulging muscles?

I've known several guys that walked on their hands at the beach and looked like Charles Atlas' grandsons, but it turns out they don't like girls very well. Or if they date us, it's mostly to make us feel miserable. They are so in love with themselves they don't waste any on others.

DEAR LFARM:

I advise against generalizations. Muscle culture doesn't always rule out manliness any more than brawn rules out brain. (But a little observation will soon separate the guys from the gays.) — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a 16-year-old boy, who fell for a great girl, but another guy came along, and all of a sudden she had his ring. I guess my trouble was I didn't make it official soon enough. We dated two months and I didn't ask her to go steady. She liked me then — at least she acted so.

Well, I had to teach this guy, so we had a big fight over her. Now she won't speak to me. She thinks I am immature and a non-gentleman, while this dude treats her like gold. He has a job and can take her out while I'm on the football team and have to practice, get in early, etc.

Whenever he takes her to a game, I don't play so well.

I know I made a lot of mistakes, but what can I do to get her back? — H.C.I.

DEAR H.:

Try a little "suave." Send her a single red rose everyday for a week (singles won't break you), with low key (not mushy) notes attached. Then call her up "just to talk because I felt lonesome tonight" (that really gets 'em); next "stop by" her house, being especially nice to her parents.

If she liked you once, she may still like you again, especially when you polish up that new image. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble; let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of Independent-Journal.

PRESS GUIDE IS AVAILABLE

A guide for press chairmen of organizations interested in getting news to the Marin Women's Section of the Independent-Journal is available at the San Rafael main office and the Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma I-J offices.

The booklet, "Getting News Into Your Newspaper," is issued as a service of the Independent-Journal Women's Section to assist press chairmen for women's organizations.

The guide explains policies of coverage, how to prepare news stories and meeting notices, and the special stories and features emphasized by the section.

The booklets at the San Rafael office may be obtained from the switchboard on the main floor.

ON THE AGENDA

Festival Of Trees Friday And Saturday At The Holiday Inn

The 1970 Marin Festival of Trees, an annual sale and exhibit of Christmas gifts and decorations, will be held on Friday from 6 to 11 p.m. and next Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

The festival is sponsored by the 11 Guilds of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science and the proceeds will go toward the expansion of its educational services to the community.

Local artists, craftsmen and merchants have donated exhibits to be judged by a panel of experts, including Mrs. Kendall Curry, San Rafael designer; William Cheney from Sunset Magazine; and Mr. Richard Fiscus, artist commissioned by Reese Palley Gallery of San Francisco. All exhibits will be for sale and visitors may cast their ballots.

Santa Claus will visit the festival on Saturday, and a photographer will be available for children's pictures. A continuous puppet show will also be held on Saturday.

A special shop for men, Adams' Eden, will feature fashions modeled by the Mannequin League of Marin.

Festival chairman is Mrs. Stanley Rutner of Novato, and co-chairman is Mrs. F. Paul Hacker of Terra Linda. Committee chairmen are Mmes. Allen Bernes of Fairfax exhibits; Robert Dagitz of Lucas Valley, staging; W. L. Miler and Victor Udaloff of Ignacio, program design; C. E. Welte of Terra Linda, advertising; Tim Hamill of Mill Valley, tickets; Lloyd Flatland of Kentfield, special events; J. D. Ryan of Glenwood, correspondence; and Neil Jannes of Fairhills, hostess.

Treasurer is Mrs. Joachim Jung of Mill Valley; secretary is Mrs. Robert Leonard of Fairfax; gift area chairmen are Mmes Walter Grothe and Merle Ellis of Belvedere-Tiburon; and publicty chairmen is Mrs. Ron Mires of Terra Linda.

SUSAN J. COOK

Susan J. Cook Is Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. John Cook of Tiburon have announced the engagement of their daughter, Susan J. Cook, to Gary M. Brodie of San Rafael.

Susi, who is the sister of Bonnie Jo Cook of Tiburon, is a Redwood High School graduate and is studying interior design at the College of Marin. She is also employed with the Emporium at Northgate Shopping Mall.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brodie of Greenbrae are Gary's parents and he is the brother of Marilyn Brodie. Mrs. Rose Starkey of Sebastopol and Mrs. Minnie Brodie of Fairfax are his grandmothers.

The couple plan to be married in June.

THE PLEDGE dinner for Mill Valley's Omicron Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will be held Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the Tiburon Lodge. Pledges to be honored are Mmes. Judy Edwards, Robert Moulton and Bevan Robinson.

A PREVIEW of the 1970 California Home Show is planned by the Multiple Sclerosis Auxiliary which will honor new members and salute patients from noon to 3 p.m. on Friday.

Luncheon will be catered by a restaurant and Yamaha music will provide background organ concert during the preview meeting.

Planning to attend from Marin are Mmes. Donald Baird, Greenbrae; Kenneth E. Niles, Corte Madera; Robert McCray, Novato; William Mrrall, San Anselmo; Bennet Wren, Tiburon; Richard Woods, Kentfield; Richard Boesel, Edward B. Towne and Miss Ann Morrison, Belvedere.

William Kinzes Wed 50 Years Ago

It was Thanksgiving day 50 years ago that Mr. and Mrs. William Kinz of San Rafael exchanged wedding vows. They celebrated their golden anniversary this week and last Saturday were the honored guests at a reception given by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Salas of Sacramento.

The gathering was held at the Oakview Club in Terra Linda for relatives and friends.

The Kinzes spent the first years of their married life in Auburn, where Mr. Kinz was a member of the engineering department of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. He was transferred in 1942 to the Woodland office and then in 1947 to San Rafael. The couple have made their home on Marina Court in San Rafael since that time. Mr. Kinz retired six years ago after 50 years with the PG and E, and they have traveled through the Orient, Europe, the Hawaiian islands, Canada, Alaska and Mexico.

Pair To Wed In September

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Von Lehr of San Rafael have announced the engagement of their daughter, Cathy Marie Von Lehr, to Robert Lewis Swensen of Oakland.

Robert is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Marshall B. Tucker of Oakland.

Cathy is the sister of Frederic Von Lehr Jr., Jeffrey and Mark Von Lehr, all of San Rafael. Now a nurse at Alta Bates Hospital in Berkeley, she was graduated from Terra Linda High School and Providence College of Nursing in Oakland.

Robert is a graduate of Skyline High School in Oakland, attended California State Polytechnic College and was graduated from Chico State College. He is studying toward a masters degree in business at the University of California. He is the brother of Mrs. William Costa of Hawaii and the stepbrother of Mrs. Thomas Fletcher of Newark.

Wedding plans are for next September.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

HOLIDAY SALES

A Good Season Being Forecast

The Christmas rush started yesterday, and most Marin businessmen predicted bigger sales than last year, despite job scarcity and a rise in unemployment.

Carroll A. Snyker, manager of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, said that Marin's dollar volume sales for the second quarter (April through June) this year was higher than last year.

He predicted that this upward trend in sales will continue for the last half of this year, including Christmas.

"It looks good so far," said Steve Leonesio, manager of Macy's in San Rafael. He said it is too early to tell what Christmas sales will be, but he should have a better picture after this weekend.

"The shoppers are out in droves," reported Jock Miller, president of the Northgate Mall. "It's much better than last year." He foresaw bigger sales than last Christmas, especially because Northgate is experimenting with being open Sunday afternoons from Dec. 6 through Christmas.

A similar report came from Alton Cox, president of the Northgate Merchants Association No. 1, who said sales are up about 10 per cent over this time last year.

"Considerably better than last year," said James Webb, manager of the 68 stores at the Strawberry Town and Country Village at Alto. He said stores were crowded yesterday despite the rain.

Assistant San Rafael Postmaster E.J. Fisher said the post office will be hiring about 30 or 35 extra help next month, the same as in past years. More than enough applicants have already applied for those jobs and those hired will be experienced people who worked there in the past he said.

Next week an annex will be set up in the Schoonmaker Building in Sausalito to process Marin's heavy holiday mail.

A slight increase in the parcel post rates might cut down slightly on the volume of packages, but Fisher said the total Christmas volume is expected to be about the same as last year.

In contrast to the general upswing expected in holiday sales, the state Department of Resources Development in San Rafael (formerly the Department of Employment) reported a drop in employment. Edwin Ayer, manager of the employment service at 805 E Street, reported a general economic downtrend statewide. He added that Marin is not hit as hard as other areas such as the Peninsula, where a cutback in aerospace industries has a severe impact on employment.

Snyker said this may be one explanation for the apparent contradiction between an expected sales increase and a drop in employment. "We're not tied to any particular industry such as in San Jose and Santa Clara," said Snyker. "We don't get the swings to the extent that the rest of the Bay Area does because we're quite diversified."

Mrs. Marion Skoss, who handles unemployment at the Department of Human Resources Development, reported the lines in her office are longer this year.

She had no figures for Marin but believes unemployment here is similar to figures given for the San Francisco-Oakland area, where unemployment rose from 4.1 per cent in October of 1969 to 5.8 per cent in October this year. Statewide, the unemployment is even worse. State figures show unemployment up from 4.6 per cent in October of 1969 to 7.2 per cent in October this year.

Start Of Bus Runs Snagged Once Again

The start of hourly bus service between North and Central Marin, scheduled for Tuesday, has been delayed for a second time.

The service originally was to have started by Nov. 15, but was postponed because Marin Transit Systems needed extra time to get equipment and drivers for the service, which it will provide under a contract with the Golden Gate Bridge District.

Jesse Hebert, vice president of the Marin City-based transit company, told the Independent-Journal yesterday that the service would begin on Tuesday at 8:30 a.m. from San Marin.

The transit manager of the bridge district, Donald White, however, said that it was not possible to start the service at least until Dec. 9 even "if everything fits into place." The principal job remaining is to inspect the buses, he said.

White said that the contract for the service had been sent to the transit company by the bridge district on Oct. 28, but that it was not reurned signed to the district until this past Tuesday. He said the delay in returning the contract apparently was because Marin Transit Systems needed additional time to line up extra buses for the service.

Herbert, however, said the delay resulted from time needed for attorneys for the district and company to work out details of the contract, such as a recent increase in prevailing wages.

White said that bridge personnel will begin inspecting the transit company's equipment Monday morning to see that it conforms to specifications in the contract. Also, he said, fare boxes will be installed and an inspection made of drivers' records.

The district's insurance carrier also must inspect the buses before including them under the district's policies, White said.

The cost of the weekday service will be subsidized by Marin County at a maximum of $51,000 for the first six months.

The company has been operating a feeder bus service to the Tiburon ferry for the past year under county subsidies totaling $40,000 through Monday. This feeder service also will be taken over the district under a contract with Marin Transit Systems.

The new service will link Novato, Hamilton Air Force Base, Northgate Shopping Center, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, Greenbrae, Larkspur and the College of Marin.

Prisoners Get Time For Swim

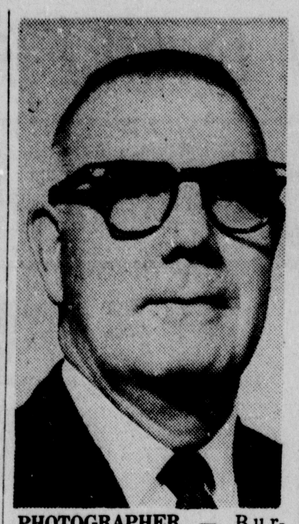
The 30 to 50 inmates at the jail are taken under guard to the county "Y" for 90 minutes once a week under a program financed by a $700 grant from the Maine Law Enforcement Planning and Assistance Agency.

The grant was announced Thursday.



PHOTOGRAPHER — Burdette E. White, nature and wildlife photographer, will present a lecture and film, "On the Trail of Feathered Jewels and Other Gems of Nature," at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the College of Marin's Olney Hall.

Recycling Dates For Next Month

The Marin Ecology Center has announced dates and locations for recyling drives to be held during December.

Marinites may take clean crushed aluminum cans, newspapers tied in bundles, clean glass bottles and jars sorted by colors and flattened tin cans to the various locations on the specified dates between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

The dates and places are:

Dec. 5 — St. Augustine's Episcopal Church, Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Oak Manor Drive, Fairfax.

Dec. 6 — Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

Dec. 9 — Prime Market, Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley.

Dec. 12 — College of Marin parking lot on College Avenue, Kentfield.

Dec. 19 — oCop parking lot, Tamal Vista Boulevard, Corte Madera.

Dec. 26 — Ali Baba Cafe, Dolan's Corners.

Shark To Be Reassembled

BOSTON (UPI)—The New England Aquarium plans to retssemble what has been described as a 30-foot basking shark that washed up on a beach at Scituate. The aquarium wants to determine more definitely its species.

It was learned Wednesday Scituate selectmen had agreed to turn the carcass over to the aquarium for reassembly in Boston.

"We are still not sure just what species of fish or mammal this is," Carlo A. Hoscow, aquarium education director said.

Jobless Area List Stable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — No new major metropolitan areas were added this month to the list of those with unemployment of at least 6 per cent, the Labor Department says.

It was the first time in 10 months no new areas had been added.

The department Thursday dropped two cities from the list. They were Saginaw, Mich., and Corpus Christi, Tex. The revision lowered the total number of areas on the list to 36.

$18,319 Collected By Hunger Marchers

The 1,000 marchers who trudged through Marin's "Walk Against Hunger" on Sept. 20 raised a total of $18,319 for their cause, a banker reported yesterday.

D.R. Swing, manager of the Crocker Citizens National Bank in San Anselmo said the amount had grown by $482 Since Nov. 4 as sponsors who pledged donations on behalf of the marchers sent in their money.

Student Robert Morgan of San Anselmo, one of the walk's organizers, said the entire amount would be sent to Washington, D. C., headquarters of three anti-hunger organizations before mid-December.

The federal Economic Opportunity Council will receive 42.5 per cent of the money raised — or $7,786 to send back to Marin in quarterly installments. The Marin EOC will apply the money to programs providing food for needy youngsters, Morgan said.

The South Korean campaign of Meals for Millions will use its 42.5 per cent of the total to buy machinery that will process low-cost, high-protein food in Korea.

The remaining 15 per cent of the Marin donations will be paid to the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation, according to Morgan. He said the foundation works nationwide to coordinate such efforts as the one in Marin, and a similar walk planned for nationwide participation next May 2.

More than 750 of the hikers who made Marin's "Walk Against Hunger" trudged the full 20 miles of the course, to earn the money pledged by sponsors on a per-mile basis.

Censorship Drive Said Picking Up

The efforts of a Novato woman to have President Richard M. Nixon censured for his conduct during the November election campaign are said by her to be gathering momentum.

Sylvia Melton, 36, of 1171 Cambridge Street, said her petition drive is "getting too big to work out of my home."

An informal 20-member Citizens Committee for Cleaner Politics has been formed and the group is seeking headquarters in Novato and San Francisco, Mrs. Melton said.

She said that "thousands" of signatures have been gathered, but was unable to estimate the count because she said hundreds of petitions remained in circulation.

The aim of the drive, Mrs. Melton said, is not partisan but hopes to bring about cleaner political campaigns from all parties in the future.

The idea for the drive came, she said, after Nixon made a political address Nov. 1 on television, "hiding behind the presidential seal."

Ultimately, she said, the drive will be expanded nationwide. If and when the goal of one million signatures is reached, she said, the petitions will be presented by a U.S. senator on the senate floor.

Fund Events For Linear Accelerator

A series of fund-raising events has been scheduled by the Linear Accelerator Campaign of Marin in an effort to raise $50,000 to help purchase new radiotherapy equipment for Marin General Hospital.

First will be a benefit buffet on Dec. 14 at Sally Stanford's Valhalla Inn in Sausalito, beginning with no-host cocktails at 6:30 p.m. with a buffet dinner at 7:30 p.m., according to Mrs. Walter G. Strauss, committee chairman.

Next will come a dinner at Sabella's Restaurant on Jan. 11 with all costs being donated by the restaurant. A theater party is tentatively planned for early January.

The campaign has been organized to raise part of the $175,000 needed to purchase a linear accelerator to replace the cobalt unit at Marin General. The balance of the money for the equipment which will provide more efficient radiotherapy will come from hospital funds.

New Assistant Dean Of Instruction Announced

A 30-year-old administrator from East Los Angeles College has been named to replace Dr. Eugene A. Farrar as assistant dean of instruction and director of community education at the College of Marin.

The appointment of Jared B. Sharon followed a lengthy screening process of 34 candidates for the position.

At East Los Angeles, Sharon was coordinator of specially funded projects.

Sharon holds degrees in the sciences and a bachelor's degree in chemistry from the University of Richmond at Richmond, Va., and a master's degree in biochemistry from the University of Southern California.

Sharon is married and has two children. He will begin his new assignment Dec. 7.

Farrar resigned last month to take a similar position at Grossmont College near San Diego.

Second Time Is Not Lucky

BEIRUT (UPI)—Two years ago Ali Mahmud Al-Sheikh, angered by what he considered the immoral behaviour of his sister, Amina, 20, drew a gun and shot her.

She survived and El-Sheikh went to prison for two years.

Thursday, El-Sheikh, now 24, returned to his home fillage of Kabeet in the far north of Lebanonan and cut Amina's throat. He locked her body in the house, then gave the key to a neighbor to pass on to the police.

Official sources, who confirmed the story today, said police were searching for the killer.

Francis Galton, an English scientist born in 1822, first proved that no two sets of fingerprints are alike.

Introductory Lecture Will Be Presented

An introductory lecture on the principles of transcendental meditation will be given by Philip Bombace of Mill Valley at 8 p.m. Thursday at Brown's Hall, 390 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley.

The lecture is sponsored by the International Meditation Society, a non profit organization founded by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, aimed at teaching people how to meditate.

Marin's Most Populated Island Is State Park Neighbor

How To Hypnotize Defenders Into Dropping Tricks–Almost!

If I were the right sort of bridge columnist, I would give free lessons in hypnotism. I would teach you to put the whammy on the opening leader, inducing him to make a friendly lead; or to hornswoggle the defenders into dropping a trick here and there. My lessons are less powerful, but they work pretty well on today's hand.

ESP NO USE

As West prepared to lead, South concentrated on "willing" him to lead a trump or anything but a heart. No use. West led the queen of hearts anyway.

South won with the ace of hearts and led the queen of clubs, hoping that the ace and king would fall together. "Step up," South projected fiercely with all the force of his telpathic power.

Evidently South was no great star as a hypnotist. West played a low club, and East won with the king. East cashed a heart trick, and West's ace of clubs eventually took the setting trick.

SIMPLE PLAY

South didn't need occult power to make his game. A simple line of play would have made five clubs for him.

After taking the first trick with the ace of hearts, South should lead the low diamond to dummy's jack and then continue with high diamonds. South discards a heart from dummy on the third diamond, with both opponents folowing suit.

LAST HIGH DIAMOND

South then leads his last high diamond. West ruffs with the nine of clubs, and South discards dummy's last heart.

Declarer regains the lead whether West leads a spade or a heart. South then leads a trump and doesn't need hypnotism to make the ace and king fall on the same trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold!
♠ Q J 9 8 5 4
♡ Q 6
♦ 10 5 3
♣ A 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades.

Since you have 9 points in high cards, you know that the combined count is 25 to 27 points. You also have distributional points to bring the count to at least the 26 points usually needed for game. Partner has at least two spades (probably three or more), so you are sure of a good trump suit. In short, you know that you want to get to four spades and that slam is out of the question. Bid the game without delay in such a situation.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Nov. 28, the 332nd day of 1970.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Sagittarius. On this day in history:

In 1520 Ferdinand Magellan entered the Pacific Ocean on his way around the world. He was the first European to sail through the Pacific from the east.

In 1956 the United States expressed concern over substantial shipments of Soviet arms to Syria.

In 1958 the United States fired an intercontinental ballistic missile at full range. It was the first such firing.

A thought for today: George Washington said, "The basis of our political system is the right of the people to make and alter their constitution of government."

Germans Plan Desalinization

HAMBURG, Germany (GF) — West Germany's first plant for conversion of sea water into fresh water will be established on the island of Helgoland in the North Sea.

The ground water supply of the well-known vacation island no longer sufficies for its German inhabitants and the stream of tourists who come there every year.

The planned desalinization plant will use a complicated and costly process by which salt water is converted to steam and then condensed to produce salt-free water.

News Mite Less Disquieting In Mid-Depression 1934

TOO MUCH OF the news these days is disquieting.

Just for kicks, let's thumb through the pages of San Rafael Independent issues published in 1934.

Jan. 2 — The California Taxpayers Association foresaw tax relief for Marin property owners. New state legislation would provide substantial increases in school support, resulting in lower local property tax rates.

Jan. 3 — The Marin Music Chest's very first concert series opened at the Fairfax Pavilion in Fairfax. The featured performer was Nelson Eddy, described by the Independent as "the young American baritone who has created a sensation here and throughout the east."

Jan. 5 — The State Highway Commission voted to purchase the Sears Point Toll Road from Vallejo to Black Point with the intention of converting the route to a toll-free state highway.

Jan. 9 — The county board of supervisors adopted Marin County's first zoning ordinance, described by the Independent as "a big step forward in beautification and improvement."

JAN. 10 — "One of the greatest mass flights in history" stopped in Marin to refuel en route from Coco Solo, C.Z., to Hawaii. The six Navy seaplanes landed at Paradise Cove and took off as soon as they were refueled, landing safely at Honolulu after covering 2,150 nautical miles in about 12 hours. The San Rafael Independent "scooped" San Francisco newspapers in reporting their safe arrival at Honolulu. Each plane had left Paradise Cove with approximately 1,700 gallons of gasoline aboard.

Jan. 22 — The California Taxpayers Association estimated that Marin County's population had increased by 2,232 persons since the 1930 census, which had counted 41,648 people in Marin.

Jan. 23 — Southern Pacific-Golden Gate Ferries Ltd. reported a net profit for 1933 of $1,393,338, down somewhat from the previous year. Gross revenue for 1933 was reported at $4,549,878, also down somewhat from 1932.

Jan. 26 — Those present at a public meeting called by the board of supervisors recommended that Sir Francis Drake Highway and the Black Point-Novato-Hicks Valley-Point Reyes route be included in the state's secondary system. This became the recommendation of the county to the state.

Jan. 30 — Property taxpayers got more good news when the county won a law suit filed by Tax Factors Inc., seeking additional payment for a county-wide property reassessment performed earlier by the firm. Had Tax Factors won the suit, an emergency boost in Marin property taxes would have been necessary to raise funds for the payment.

FEB. 2 — The long fight to retain ferry service between Belvedere and San Francisco was finally lost. A new bus service was begun from Belvedere and Tiburon to Sausalito, and the Belvedere ferry operation was discontinued. Also on Feb. 2, William P. Murray Jr. was awarded Eagle Scout rank.

Feb. 5 — The state Parks Commission voted to purchase a 30-acre parcel adjacent to Muir Woods National Monument, to be used as a state park.

Feb. 8 — Interested citizens met at Marin Junior College to organize an association dedicated to seek an adequate airport for the county. Marin was said to have more pilots for its size than any other county in the state. The countywide effort followed seven years of individual community efforts to obtain airport facilities.

Feb. 14 — "To prevent the spread of gambling houses and houses of ill repute from citizens to the unincorporated areas, the Marin County Board of Supervisors have passed three ordinances regulating the morals of the county's citizens."

Feb. 15 — State Finance Director Roland Vandegrift revealed further details of his proposal to solve the state's pressing tax problems. He called for elimination of county boundaries and establishment of 15 larger governmental districts. Marin would be included with San Francisco in a metropolitan district extending from San Jose to Vallejo.

FEB. 23 — Sweeping reorganization of the San Rafael Police Department was recommended in a voluminous study report by the chief of police of Berkeley, who "was emphatic in his criticism of San Rafael's police organization. He found nothing to say in favor of it," the Independent reported. Mayor William S. Nock, acting police chief, had requested the study.

Feb. 23 — The Independent began daily publication of a tide table "of interest to Marin County fishermen and abalone hunters."

Feb. 26 — Gov. James A. Rolph visited Marin with the announced purpose of "bringing the government to the people." He addressed a service club luncheon at Marin Golf and Country Club.

Feb. 28 — The new state sales tax raised $41,382.35 in San Rafael during the first five months since it went into effect.

Feb. 28 — PG&E announced electric power rate reductions would become effective March 1 over a large part of northern California, including Marin.

MARCH 3 — Northwestern Pacific Railroad asked the California Railroad Commission for permission to raise Marin commute ticket prices. The railroad said it lost $222,000 on its previous year's commute hauling in Marin. The president of Marvelous Marin Inc. announced his organization would strongly oppose the increase.

March 5 — The San Rafael City Council approved a compromise routing for state construction of Highway 101 through San Rafael.

March 8 — San Rafael's acting chief of police, Mayor William S. Nock, announced confiscation of 16 slot machines from various local refreshment parlors and others places of business, pursuant to anti-gambling ordinances recently passed by the city council.

March 13 — San Rafael City Council decided to notify newspapers as a means of giving advance notice of special meetings "hereafter." The action followed criticism of a closed unannounced meeting.

March 13 — San Rafael Board of Education decided to pay teachers their salaries in 10 payments a year during the school term instead of 12 monthly payments as had previously been done.

March 17 — San Rafael Mayor Nock, in his capacity as acting chief of police, personally led raids on two alleged bookmaking shops. Of one of those arrested the mayor said, "He takes bets on horses during the day and dog races at night. This stuff has to stop."

March 22 — The Marin County Grand Jury called for a program to provide public access to Marin beaches, most of which cannot be reached without "trespass over some private property with fear of arrest."

March 29 — Capt. H.B. Nurse, in charge of Hamilton Field construction, said the halfway point had been reached in the $5 million development of the Army Air Corps installation.

As a look through the San Rafael Independent for the first quarter of 1934 has shown, yesterday's news doesn't seem so bad as today's.

Bouquets And Brickbat

BOUQUET to Frances Lestanguet for her service as Fairfax city clerk and in the unwanted role of city administrator.

BRICKBAT to the Novato Teachers Association for continuing a "sanctions alert" against Novato Unified School District despite accepting a 6.5 per cent pay raise. This smacks of blackmail.

BOUQUET to Jed Barahal for making straight A grades two consecutive semesters at San Rafael High School.

Talk Show Shortage Solved; How About Publishing Crisis?

WASHINGTON — The United States is suffering from its worst shortage of radio and TV talk show guests in 20 years. The reason for this is that while talk shows have been multiplying by the thousands, the people who have been appearing on them have become worn out. In 1960, there were 250 guests available for each talk show. Ten years later, there are 250 talk shows fighting over the same guests.

Things have gotten so bad that a professor who wrote a book about the mating habits of woodworms was recently kidnaped in front of the "Today" show in New York and flows out to California where he was forced to go on a radio-telephone talk show instead.

Two famous late-night show hosts got into a fist fight in a Sixth Avenue delicatessen last month over a waiter who could make a white napkin look like a rabbit.

And only three weeks ago, two female talk-show hostesses had a hair-pulling contest in a beauty shop over the TV rights to an author of the definitive book on false eyelashes.

IN ORDER to avoid an all-out war between the talk-show commentators, a secret conference was called at Johnny Carson's hideaway farm in the Adirondacks.

Black limousines with their shades drawn kept arriving at two-minute intervals and out stepped such big guns in the talk business as David Frost, Dick Cavett, Mike Douglas, Hugh Downs, Barbara Walters, Virginia Graham, Irv Kup, and David Susskind. Every major TV host and hostess was there.

Everyone brought his own producer and talent coordinator for protection, but Carson's people made everybody leave their teleprompters at the door.

Ed McMahon opened the meeting by saying, "And heeerrrre's Johnny."

CARSON GOT down to business right away. "We all know why we're here," he said. "There's a crisis in the talk-show business and unless we find an answer to it we'll all be doing commercials for Maxwell House coffee."

"Right," said Mike Douglas. "Now, my boys in Philadelphia say that unless some equal way is figured out to share the few available guests left, we're going to take them off the metroliner before they reach New York."

"Is that so?" said Virginia Graham. "Well, we on the West Coast are getting sick and tired of your eastern talk shows coming out here and grabbing all our guests."

"That's right, Ginny," said Merv Griffin. "If you muscle in on our territory, we" muscle in on yours."

DAVID FROST spoke up, "We're not getting anywhere with threats. As I see it, no matter what we do, we've used up every singer, comedian, author and politician for the next two years. A new crop should be coming up by then, but none of us can wait. What I suggest is that we each volunteer to go on each other's shows to fill the vacuum. After all, we are more interesting than the people we interview."

"I agree with David," Dick Cavett said, "but it seems to me the public would become very suspicious if we kept turning up on each other's shows without a reason."

"Why don't we each write a book? Then we would have a legitimate reason for going on each other's show," David Susskind said.

Carson replied, "You know we don't have tiem to write books."

"But suppose," said Frost, "we put together transcripts of our interviews with our former talk-show guests. Wouldn't that constitute a book?"

"Of course," said Barbara Walters. "Then no one could criticize us for going on each other's show."

AND SO IT was decided that each talk-show host would put together the best talks he or she has had. This would mean 345 books, which would take up the talk lack for the next two years.

As the long black limousines pulled out of Carson's farm, the state police, who were tipped off to the meeting, showed up. But, unfortunately, almost everyone got away.

Real Pot Of Gold Found In Marin

More re: the rainbow.

I love it for a very special reason. I have only recently moved to Marin, and when I return home from a business trip to San Francisco, the rainbow gives me a warm feeling because I have escaped the 5 per cent intercity telephone tax, the extra ½ per cent tax on purchases, the increased cost of the Chronicle (I now subscribe to the I-J). Scavenger collection, water and ad infinitum.

Social Security Honors Centenarian

Your reporter neglected to mention, however, that in addition to her other cards, Mrs. Mathiasen also received a personal birthday greeting from Robert M. Ball, commissioner of social security, which I had the pleasure of presenting to her several days before her birthday.

Mrs. Mathiasen is indeed a delightful woman, one of several centenarians receiving social security benefits in Marin County. We in the Scoial Security Administration wish her continued good health and the privilege of sending checks to her for many years to come.

Britain, Like U.S., Is Plagued By Inflation And Unemployment

LONDON — Both President Richard Nixon and Prime Minister Edward Heath are wrestling with the same demon. Inflation is an imminent threat to the best-laid plans to restore stability and orderly growth.

Inflation is a drug, a stimulant, a form of economic "speed," that the West has been hooked on for a very long time. In West Germany, Chancellor Willy Brandt's Christian Democratic opposition exploits the fear of steadily rising prices as effectively as it cultivates the alleged peril of too close an embrace with the Communist bloc in Brandt's East policy. In the background is the memory of the bushel-basket inflation that brought down the Weimar Republic in the '20s.

THE FEVER CHART of inflation is up more sharply in Britain than in the United States. The cost of living has gone up nearly 7½ per cent in the past 12 months. The rise in October was 1½ points.

In office six months, Heath is being pressed hard to do something about it. He has already cut back government services by a billion dollars. These cuts range from whacking off agricultural subsidies — a saving to the taxpayer who will then pay more for food at the story — to cutting out free milk for school children over seven.

With an almost religious conviction Heath holds to the virtues of free enterprise and the need to take the government out of business. The Conservatives would like to turn the nationalized steel industry, or part of it, back to private ownership. The prime minister would, in short, reverse the trend of welfare statism and public ownership and give the citizen more of his own money to spend as he chooses.

But taking business off the dole is proving difficult. The Labor opposition in parliament jeered the government's proposal to give Rolls Royce a subsidy of more than $100 million to develop a new engine for a British-made air bus.

Whether inflation can be checked without rising unemployment and a spate of bankruptcies is doubtful. That may explain Heath's hesitation as a rising chorus of his own back-benchers in the House of Commons demands that he get on with it.

Large-scale unemployment is a specter in Britain. In November the number of unemployed rose by 4,000 to a total of 602,000 or 2.6 per cent of the labor force. That may seem small measured against the United State's 5.6 per cent, but the figure is the highest since 1940.

BOTH HEATH and Nixon can put the blame on the men who preceded them in office. The President can point to Lyndon Johnson's failure to apply taxes to pay the cost of his escalation of the Vietnam War. The Conservatives charge Harold Wilson and his Labor government with yielding to exorbitant wage demands.

With labor as the key, if stability under a system closer to free enterprise is to be restored, the Conservative majority in Parliament is backing a measure like the Taft-Hartley Act to prevent wildcat strikes. Strikes by 100 or 150 workers that shop stewards seem powerless to control have shut down for long periods plants employing thousands of workers. The competitive position of British goods, conspicuously motor cars, on the world market is steadily eroded.

The Conservative government has one advantage over the Nixon administration, and that is beginning with a clean copy book. While what to write in that copy book is unclear, the options are still open. It will take courage and strong and appealing leadership to prune back the luxuriant government growth of recent decades.

In contrast, the Nixon copy book is, after two years, blotted. The bland assumption was that the economy could be cooled without increasing unemployment. Whether president or prime minister can stop the merry-go-round is anyone's guess. But Heath would seem to have a better chance, with a margin of time and a solid election victory still of recent memory.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Giants Of Communism Learning To Get Along

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

When Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin made his surprise visit to Peking in September, 1969, he proposed to Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai they seek out areas where they might agree rather than those where they could not.

After a decade of deteriorating relations, in which war seemed a distinct likelihood, the Kosygin proposal has become the premise of their dealings with each other.

The two had withdrawn their ambassadors in 1966.

OTHER EVENTS in November included the signing of a new trade agreement between the two and a warmer than usual message from Peking to Moscow congratulating the Soviet Union on its 53rd anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

It was not back to the good old days of 1959 when trade between the two came to more than $2 billion, nor was it back to early 1969 when bloody border clashes along their 5,000 mile borders brought relations to their lowest point.

It was shortly after the Kosygin visit that the two began their border talks which have been going on ever since.

The attempt to lower tensions has been apparent on both sides.

THE RUSSIANS have avoided criticism of the Chinese leadership and have voiced a desire both for improved relations with the Chinese government and with the Chinese people. The declarations studiously avoid any mention of relations between the two huge Communist parties, seemingly split irreconcilably over the Soviet policy of peaceful coexistence and the Red Chinese advocacy of violent revolution.

Chou En-lai told Kosygin that never in 10,000 years would the Chinese swerve from their own interpretation of Marxist-Leninism.

ON THE CHINESE side, the more relaxed attitude toward the Russians has been accompanied by a similar relation toward the world in general, with the United States the main exception.

The Chinese Cultural Revolution, reaching a peak in 1967-68, saw the Chinese withdraw their representatives from most of the world as Mao Tse-tung tore down the party structure and, with the help of the military, rebuilt it closer to his own image.

That revolution has been largely completed and the Chinese are re-emerging.

Travelers doing business with them report the country is settling down to the main jobs of supplying food for a population that expands by 10 million annually and is developing its industries.

Years of good growing weather have helped.

WHILE IT IS apparent that both sides are attempting to avoid a major confrontation, it is apparent also that both are keeping their powder dry.

The Russians are reported to have at least 35 divisions along the border and to be capable of launching an offensive with either conventional or nuclear weapons.

The Chinese also have been building up their conventional forces and are said to be nearly ready with at least a handful of missiles in the 1,500 to 2,000 mile range.

Ramadhan: Month Of Fasting For Moslem World

Millions of Moslems around the world will laugh, eat, drink, make love and light bonfires to mark the end of Ramadhan, the rigorous month-long fast which turns night into day and keen-eyed workmen into drowsy somnambulists.

Naming it a time of trial, the Koran declared: "O believers, prescribed for you is the fast . . . the month of Ramadhan wherein the Koran was sent down to be a guidance to the people, and as clear signs of guidance and salvation.

"So let those of you who are present at the month, fast it. And if any of you be sick, or if he be on a journey, then a number of other days . . .

"And eat and drink until the white thread shows clearly to you from the black thread at dawn, then complete the fast until the night."

Ramadhan this year began with the sighting of the new moon on Oct. 31. Muezzins on their minaret platforms, the thunder of ancient cannons and excited announcements over modern radio brought the news to the Moslem faithful.

Since then believers have abstained daily from all food and drink between dawn and sunset. Not even a taste of water may wet the lips of those keeping the fast.

Even pregnant or nursing women are required to give a bushel of wheat to the poor on the days they cannot fast.

Sex is forbidden during the fasting hours. So is smoking. In places such as Saudi Arabia, where the Islamic law is scrupulously observed, not even visiting non-Moslems are permitted to smoke in public.

At that moment the faithful quickly offer prayers and break their fast, first quenching their thirst with water, or —in the Arab world —drinking thick apricot syrup prepared from thin round wafers of dried apricots.

As the first meal ends, nighttime streets become alive with activity in the topsy-turvy Ramadhan world. Restaurants and coffee shops are thronged. Thousands pour into the brightly lighted mosques for the fifth prayer of the day.

Much social visiting takes place at least until 3 a.m. when the cannons fire again to signal the sahur, the last meal permitted before dawn.

In many Moslem cities a town crier roams the streets beating a drum to rouse those who have snatched a few hours sleep. "Wake sleepers," he cries, "it is time for sahur and prayers."

There seems little doubt that the Ramadhan Fast takes its toll of efficiency and industrial productivity. Sleepy workers fail to achieve much during a month in which they spend most of the night feasting. However, the law of the Koran takes precedence over the demands of a modern age.

The end of the month, signalled by the appearance of a new moon, relieves pressures which become intense. The festival of ending the fast, known as "The Little Id," is the second greatest day in the Islamic calendar.

Each family member wears new clothes and shoes and the souks (markets) of the Arab world offer everything from Egyptian cotton to English wool in all patterns and colors. Candies and chocolates, stored long beforehand, are consumed in vast quantitites by sweet-toothed Arabs.

Homes are scrubbed, rugs beaten and white starched covers are placed on the chairs.

In countries where Ramadhan is strictly kept, Id becomes a long festival. Saudi Arabia has a one-week holiday. Bands of men armed with swords dance the national ardah —once a war dance —in the streets and sing to the beat of drums.

The celebrations assert that the flesh may now be appeased, having endured the strictures of the fast.

The practice of fasting as a spiritual discipline is both ancient and widespread. It antedates Islam even among the Arabs. The Prophet himself, according to tradition, observed the feast of Ashura, a custom derived from the Jewish Day of Atonement.

HOLIDAY SHOPPER

Excellent New Bible Editions

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

If you accept the premise that Christmas is supposed to have some religious significance, you're wide open to the suggestion that the best possible Christmas gift is a Bible.

The suggestion is especially valid this year, as several excellent new editions of the Bible are available for Christmas giving.

Heading the list are The New English Bible and the New American Bible. The New English Bible is the work of British Protestant scholars. The New American Bible was produced by American Catholic scholars. Both are fresh translations from the original biblical languages (Hebrew and Greek) into eminently readable contemporary English.

The New English Bible (Oxford and Cambridge University Presses, standard edition $8.95) seems to me somewhat superior in clarity and elegance of language, but I would give high marks also to the New American Bible (St. Anthony Guild Press or Catholic Book Publishing Co., $8.50). Neither translation has any narrow "denominational" bias, and there is no reason at all why Protestants should not read the Catholic translation or vice versa.

If you feel like splurging on a gift for someone special, your best bet is the new deluxe edition of The Jerusalem Bible with 32 magnificent color plates by Salvador Dali (Doubleday, $39.95). The Jerusalem Bible has been available in English since 1966 and has won wide acclaim from both Catholic and Protestant scholars. This large-type edition, printed on a special kind of paper that's reputed to last for 2,000 years, is about as handsome a Bible as you'll ever see, and the Dali paintings are magnificent, a striking departure from his old surrealist style.

At the other extreme in price is Good News For Modern Man, thek fantastic little paperback published by the American Bible Society. It is the New Testament in sprightly, idiomatic English, illustrated by 200 line drawings. Some 24 million copies have been sold, which is sufficient proof of its appeal for readers of all ages.

This is a good choice for distribution to a long list of people: the price is only 35 cents. That's below the actual cost of printing. The loss is subsidized by the publisher, the nonprofit American Bible Society. You can find it on newsstandsa nd in book stores, or order it directly from the Society at 1865 Broadway, New York 10023.

For children, there are several superb new books of Bible stories, including Young Readers Book of Bible Stories (Abingdon, $7.95); the Taize Picture Bible (Fortress Press, $4.95); and Bible for Children (Westminister, $4.95). Perhaps the best of the lot is the series of paperback Bible story books with full-color, full-page illustrations, published under the Arch Books label (Concordia Publishing Co. 39 cents each, set of six for $2.25).

If your shopping list includes a blind person, or an elderly person with failing vision, you might consider a "talking Bible." The American Bible Society has recorded its Good News for Modern Man on records for $6.75, or in cassettes for $29. All orders to the Society, for books or recordings, should be accompanied by a 5 per cent fee for mailing and handling.

Marinite Will Deliver Talk

Leonard DeMartini, associate minister of the San Rafael Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, will be one of the speakers at next weekend's semi-annual circuit assembly at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Martini's talk is scheduled at 8:45 p.m. Friday, opening day of the gathering. His topic will be "Show Love — Help All Press on to Maturity."

Highlight of the assembly will be a talk on Sunday at 8 p.m. by Alvyn L. Franck, district ministerial supervisor.

Folk Concert

Wednesday's Children, a folk group from Burbank, will be among groups performing at a 2 p.m. festival tomorrow at Brown's Hall, Mill Valley, under sponsorship of the Baha'i Community of Marin.

New Leaflets For Mission

Retracing the steps of Father Junipero Serra, Mrs. Mary Kuepper of Malibu brought 5,000 packets of "Good News for California" to Mission San Rafael Arcangel in San Rafael to celebrate National Bible Week this week.

Mrs. Kuepper, coordinator of Roman Catholic women's activities for the American Bible Society in 13 Western states, has visited each mission in California to distribute the packets picturing each of the Spanish missions of California with readings from scripture on each leaflet.

Most of the selections are from "Good News for Modern Man," a new translation of the New Testament accepted widely from both Protestants and Roman Catholics.

POPE GIVEN COPY OF NEW AMERICAN BIBLE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pope Paul VI has a new Bible.

The pontiff received a copy of the New American Bible, specially bound in white leather, as a gift from the Catholic bishops of the United States. It was presented to him by Cardinal John Dearden, Archbishop of Detroit and president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, and Bishop Joseph L. Bernardin, general secretary of the organization.

Bishop Bernardin, upon returning to the United States, said the pontiff expressed deep appreciation for the efforts of the 49 scholars, four of whom were Protestants, who translated and edited the New American Bible.

The New American Bible, a 26-year project, was translated into modern English from the original texts of Greek, Hebrew and Aramaic.

In accepting the gift, His Holiness sent a message to the United States bishops that said in part: "We are gratified to find in this new translation of the Scriptures a new opportunity for men to give themselves to frequent reading of, and meditation on, the living word of God. In its pages we recognize His voice, we hear a message of deep significance for every one of us. Through the spiritual dynamism and prophetic force of the Bible, the Holy Spirit spread His light and His warmth over all men, in whatever historical or sociological situation they find themselves."

CARDINAL POLICY

Decree Unlikely To Placate Liberals

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The decision by Pope Paul VI to bar cardinals over 80 years old from voting in the election of popes is unlikely to placate liberal churchmen who want the election thrown open to the church's 3,000 bishops.

The Pope, in an historic and revolutionary decree published Monday, ruled that any cardinal over the age of 80 can no longer vote in the conclave to elect a successor to the throne of St. Peter.

Although the new ruling goes far in reducing the conservative influence of age in voting for a new pope, it does little toward meeting demands of such liberal churchmen as Cardinal Leo J. Suenens of Belgium.

Suenens, 66, and one of the Roman Catholic Church's most outspoken liberals, has called for expanding the voting for new popes to include all the church's more than 3,000 bishops or at least the presidents of national conferences of bishops.

Suenens has so far not commented on the pope's decree.

The private theological feud between the Pope and Suenens was brought to the surface earlier this month when the Pope Paul said in a congratulatory telegram to the Belgian on his 25th anniversary on becoming a bishop that he was praying for Suenens to find "strength and wisdom."

The papal ruling also barred cardinals over 80 from working in the Vatican government and stipulated they must offer their resignations from top curia posts at the age of 75. The Pope may either accept or ignore the resignations at the earlier age.

The decree renewed speculation that the pontiff himself may resign when he reaches either 75 or 80. But Vatican officials refuse to even discuss the possibility either publicly or privately and the Pope has never hinted at such a step.

Only one other Roman Catholic Pope has voluntarily resigned his pontificate and that was in 1294 when Pope Celestine V stepped down after five months reign. Pope Paul visited Celestine's death place in 1966, the same year he suggested bishops should resign their office at age 75, but said nothing about following Celestine's example.

The decree, which will affect 25 cardinals out of the 127 now enrolled in the college, will come into effect Jan. 1.

Glimpse At Missions In Africa

Dr. Nobel Brown, professor of New Testament and an administrator for the Nigerian Baptist Theological Seminary, Ogbomosho, Nigeria, will discuss missions in Africa during tomorrow's 6 p.m. service at the First Baptist Church in Novato.

Brown, who is visiting professor of New Testament at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary, Mill Valley, while on furlough from Nigeria, will illustrate his talk with slides depicting missionary work in Nigeria.

The 40-year-old Southern Baptist missionary and educator has been assigned to Nigeria since 1963. He is a 1956 graduate of North Texas State University, and earned his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Golden Gate when the seminary campus was still in Berkeley.

He was awarded his Doctor of Theology degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky.

Ordained in 1952, Brown served in California and Kentucky as a pastor. He was for two and one-half years a fellow and instructor in New Testament Greek at Southern Seminary.

Liberal Policy Gains Support From West German Church

HAMBURG (GF) — The decision of a section of West Germany's Protestant Church to give 27,000 dollars to the anti-racism program of the World Council of Churches has sparked a heated controversy in this country.

The nation's Protestant Church is split over whether to support political organizations such as African liberation movements for which the money is destined, though it would be used only for humanitarian purposes, for legal aid, information and domestic improvements.

Preceding the dispute was a resolution by the recent synod of the United German Evangelical-Lutheran Church defending use of force by the individual Christian to protect the rights of others.

The synod, at Eutin, Germany, added that the church itself must not resort to violence, lest it destroy its own credibility. Nevertheless, endorsement of violence in support of freedom movements was rejected by the Geneva Secretariat of the Ecumenical Council.

Since then, West Germany's Hesse-Nassau Regional Synod of the Evangelical Church has accepted the Geneva interpretation and has voted to join in the World Council of Churches' 200,000 anti-racism program.

Active church aid for freedom movements is of course more than just a moral decision against racial discrimination. It is, as Ecumenical Council Communications Section Director van den Heuvel says, a political decision.

Van den Heuvel explains that in 1966 the ecumenical movement urged not just integration of colored peoples into existing society. The movement said a solution of the racial problem could be achieved only through a change of social conditions.

Church leaders meeting in Uppsala later also concluded the main effort must be directed against white racism, because they said this was the most urgent problem.

Reaction in West Germany to the Hesse-Nassau regional church decision tends to follow general political patterns.

Thus, the conservative daily newspaper "Die Welt" of Hamburg spoke out against a "miserable theological simplification" and disputed the church's right to "finance the sword in the name of the cross."

The liberal "Sueddeutsche Zeitung" of Munich countered that the church must in deed give up its tradition of political abstinence. Religious leaders, it added, "must abandon their institutional ghetto of outdated religious mysticism."

Guest Priest Will Celebrate Eucharist

Rev. Joseph Kennedy, former assistant to the rector at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Oakland, will celebrate Holy Eucharist at both the 8 and 10 a.m. services tomorrow at The Church in Ignacio.

At noon he will meet with the Bishop's Committee as a possible candidate as interim priest, according to H. Erwin Griffin, warden.

Physician To Give Seminary Lecture On Medical Ethics

"Who Is To Live," a lecture on medical ethics for a Christian physician will be given by Dr. Ernest P. Guy, associate professor at the University of California School of Medicine, during "Lecture and Dialogue Day" at Golden Gate Baptist Theological Seminary on Wednesday.

The talk, to begin at 9:50 a.m. in Room 210, Academic Building on the campus at Strawberry will include a discussion of the ethics of abortions and heart transplants, according to Dr. J. Roger Skelton, chairman of the Chapel and Special Events Committee at Golden Gate.

The public is invited to attend the lecture and a question-answer, dialogue session which will follow, Skelton said.

"Lecture and Dialogue Day" was begun during the 1970-71 school year as a monthly event to give students, faculty and other interested persons an opportunity to hear and talk with prominent men regarding current thought and issues.

Dr. Guy is the second speaker featured in the fall quarter series of lectures. The California medical doctor and teacher is also active in California Southern Baptist circles and is chairman of the Board of Trustees for Golden Gate Seminary, having served on the board since 1961.

A native of Jackson, Tenn., Guy is a 1946 graduate of Union University in Jackson and received his medical degree from the University of Tennessee's College of Medicine in 1949. Following an internship at John Gaston Hospital in Memphis, Tenn., Guy practiced medicine in Henderson, Tenn. He has been on the California School of Medicine staff since 1957.

In 1962-63, Guy was granted a year's leave from the UC School of Medicine to assume duties as visiting professor of anesthesia at the American University of Beirut, Lebanon.

He is an active member of Tiburon Baptist Church, where he is chairman of the board of deacons and teaches a men's Bible class.

Used Clothing, Toy Shop Opens

A new children's shop featuring new and used clothing and toys opened yesterday next door to the FYT (Formative Years Training) School, 1046 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley.

School Director Jaki Albright said that proceeds will be used for school scholarships. Hours of the shop until Christmas will be 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The school has also started a series of Saturday films for children 3 to 8 years old designed so that parents can be free for Christmas shopping. The full-length features will be shown each Saturday until Christmas at 10 a.m. and at 1 p.m.

Sports Events Cheerleaders Are Elected

San Rafael High School students have elected cheerleader teams for the varsity, jayvee and other teams at the school, according to Kerry Easom, director of elections.

She said the winners in the election were:

Freshmen — The Jabarakos with Janet Love, Janet Kamp, Barbara Bowers, Renee Fish, Karen Kelly and Joann Flynn.

Advanced Student Art To Be Displayed

The College of Marin Art Gallery will display work by advanced students of the Rudolph Schaeffer School of Design in San Francisco, from Thursday through Dec. 18.

Hours for the Kentfield campus gallery are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Reduced Charge In Cannibal Death

LIVINGSTON, Mont. (UPI)— A jury has returned a verdict of guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter against Harry Alan Stroup, 20, in connection with the canibalistic death last July of a Roundup, Mont., welfare worker.

The trial was highlighted by the testimony of Stanley Dean Baker, a friend of Stroup's who told the court he alone was guilty of the crime.

Baker earlier had pleaded guilty to murder and had been sentenced to life imprisonment. Stroup was to be sentenced later.

I-J Carrier averts serious fire, wins Community Award

If young Mark Bramman, I-J carrier of Tiburon, had not been "alert and inquisitive we would have had a very serious fire." The quote is from Tiburon Fire Chief Franklin J. Buscher, commenting on Mark's recent exploit in saving a home from serious damage.

For keeping his "cool" in a hot situation and taking immediate action, Mark is the winner of the Community Service Award of the California Newspaperboy Foundation.

Deeds like this are not at all uncommon among I-J newspaperboys. Because they are intimately aware of the community. They know virtually every house on their routes. And being trained to be responsible, these youngsters seem to respond to situations requiring decision. Mark Bramman is a pretty outstanding example.

Outlook Dim For Taxi Settlement

NEW YORK (UPI)—Efforts to avert a strike by the city's 36,000 taxicab drivers have reached an impasse and the situation is "highly critical," the chief mediator in the contract dispute warned Friday.

The owners and drivers reported earlier this week they had arrived at a "general understanding" pending a review by their accountants, but State Mediation Board Chairman Vincent D. McDonnell told leaders of the City Council Friday the agreement had broken down.

The council's Consumer Affairs Committee, which had convened to meet with negotiators on a possible increase in taxi fares to finance the new contract, adjourned indefinitely as both sides resumed talks in McDonnell's office.

"We thoughe we had it but a study of the figures shows we don't have anything to go before the committee with," Harry Van Arsdale, president of the taxi drivers union, said.

McDonnell said the situation was "highly critical" and Van Arsdale said while he hoped there would be no strike he was not optimistic.

"We've done everything possible to avoid a stoppage," he said. "We'll continue our effort but there is nothing to be optimistic about."

The 36,000 drivers and 1,200 garage workers had scheduled a strike for midnight Nov. 17 but postponed it after Mayor John V. Lindsay proposed a fare raise to provide funds for a $53 million contract settlement.

The "general understanding" was said to fall within the limits of the mayor's proposal, which would have raised the price of the average taxi ride from $1.35 to $1.90 and instituted a toll of 25 cents for each passenger after the first.

The drivers, who presently average $150 a week, sought parity with other transit workers earning $174 to $200 a week.

Markleeville Not Overly Concerned

MARKLEEVILLE (UPI) — Residents of mountainous Alpine County do not seem overly worried by the three-person advance guard of the Gay Liberation Front scouting the area over the holiday weekend for a threatened takeover.

"I don't think they'll make it," said Gus Egger, a member of the county board of supervisors for 22 years and owner of this town's only grocery. "I think it's just a lark. These guys have no idea how they'll make a living once they get to Alpine County.

"Maybe they'll be able to infiltrate in two or three years, but I don't see any big takeover right away."

Two men and a woman from the homosexual group gathered on the courthouse steps Thursday, but only newsmen and a beagle greeted them.

Steve Beckwith, a Los Angeles accountant, said the GLF is serious about its plan to import enough homosexuals to outnumber the county's 384 registered voters and elect a gay county government.

"At first it was just an idea," he said, "but thousands of gay people have rallied to our cause and now we have international support."

He said the GLF hopes to call a town hall meeting Dec. 18, when he said a much larger contingent from his organization will be present to make plans.

"We want to show the local residents that homosexuals are just plain people like everybody else," Beckwith told reporters.

He was accompanied by a young man who identified himself as Rod Gibson and a young lady named June Herrle.

Retail Stores See Upswing In Holiday Sales

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most retail stores expect an upturn in Christmas business this year although selling will be harder, it was reported yesterday by the Bureau of Advertising.

The bureau, an agency of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said three out of four retailers said tight money, unemployment, and increased competition will make selling tough and at least 13 per cent of them reported they would start promotional campaigns earlier this year.

According to the bureau, 55 per cent of the retailers anticipated an increase in sales although 73 per cent felt selling would be more difficult than last year.

The figures were based on a survey of 307 retailers. The bureau also reported that prices of items advertised by department, specialty and general merchandise stores averaged 0.91 per cent higher in October that they did the same month in 1969.

Cove Apartment Hearing Reset

Four-thousand flyers to the contrary notwithstanding, a hearing on the 102-unit Strawberry Cove apartment project will not be held Tuesday by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

William Rochester, co-chairman of Save Strawberry Cove, said he learned yesterday that the hearing has been postponed to Dec. 17, but it was too late to halt the mailing of flyers to 4,000 Strawberry and other Marin residents.

The meeting will begin at 2 p.m. in room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco.

49ers Favored Over Rams In Kezar Mud Tomorrow

Big Game In Race For Title

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The last time the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams played on a muddy field at old Kezar the Rams "escaped" with a tie and a rebuke of the stadium that got coach George Allen a slap on the wrists from Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

If Allen thought Kezar was in bad shape for that 20-20 standoff two years ago wait until he gets a load of the field for Sunday's big showdown with the 49ers, which could decide the NFC West title.

Rain early in the week, plus a high school game Thursday has left the field in about as poor condition as it can be, but really not all that bad when you consider some 40 plus games were played there this year.

Two days ago sea gulls practiced landings and takeoffs at midfield and when the water finally receded there wasn't a blade of grass in sight between the 40 yard lines,

GOSSETT GOAL

Bruce Gossett booted a field goal with 17 seconds left in that game two years ago to help the Rams save a 20-20 tie. After the game Allen called Kezar Stadium such things as "a disgrace, something they ought to give to the hippies, and the worst stadium in pro football."

Some of his athletes felt the same way and they yelled almost as loud as Allen, but Deacon Jones, the Rams' star defensive end, felt only charity.

"I feel sorry for the 49ers," Jones said then. "We play here only once. They have to nearly every week. The commissioner should do something about it."

Rozelle did, the very next day, advising Allen to keep his opinions to himself and not to air them publicly. He also told the Los Angeles coach he would be held responsible if any of his players made disparaging remarks about Kezar.

That was two years ago. The Rams survived the tie to win the division title. Now, they come to San Francisco a game behind the 49ers in the division race and 2½ point underdogs. And Kezar is a mess.

TOUGH CUSTOMERS

The Rams still are pretty tough customers but this time so, too, are the 49ers whose 7-2-1 record actually belies how good they have played this year. Los Angeles is 6-3-1, losing to Minnesota 13-3, to the New York Jets 31-20, and to the 49ers 20-6.

San Francisco's losses were to Atlanta, 21-20, and to the Detroit Lions last Sunday, 28-7.

Sunday's game brings together an offensive line (of San Francisco's) that has given its quarterback the best protection in the NFL and a defensive line (Rams) which has dumped opposing quarterbacks a league leading 44 times.

John Brodie is having one of his best years as San Francisco quarterback mostly because he has been operating behind a fine line which has kept enemy rushers off his back every time except seven.

The 49ers have a couple of other things going for them, too. In addition to seeing Brodie lead the league in passing they have the league's third leading pass receiver in Gene Washington, the league's sixth leading scorer in Gossett and the league's No. 5 rusher in Ken Willard.

FRONT FOUR

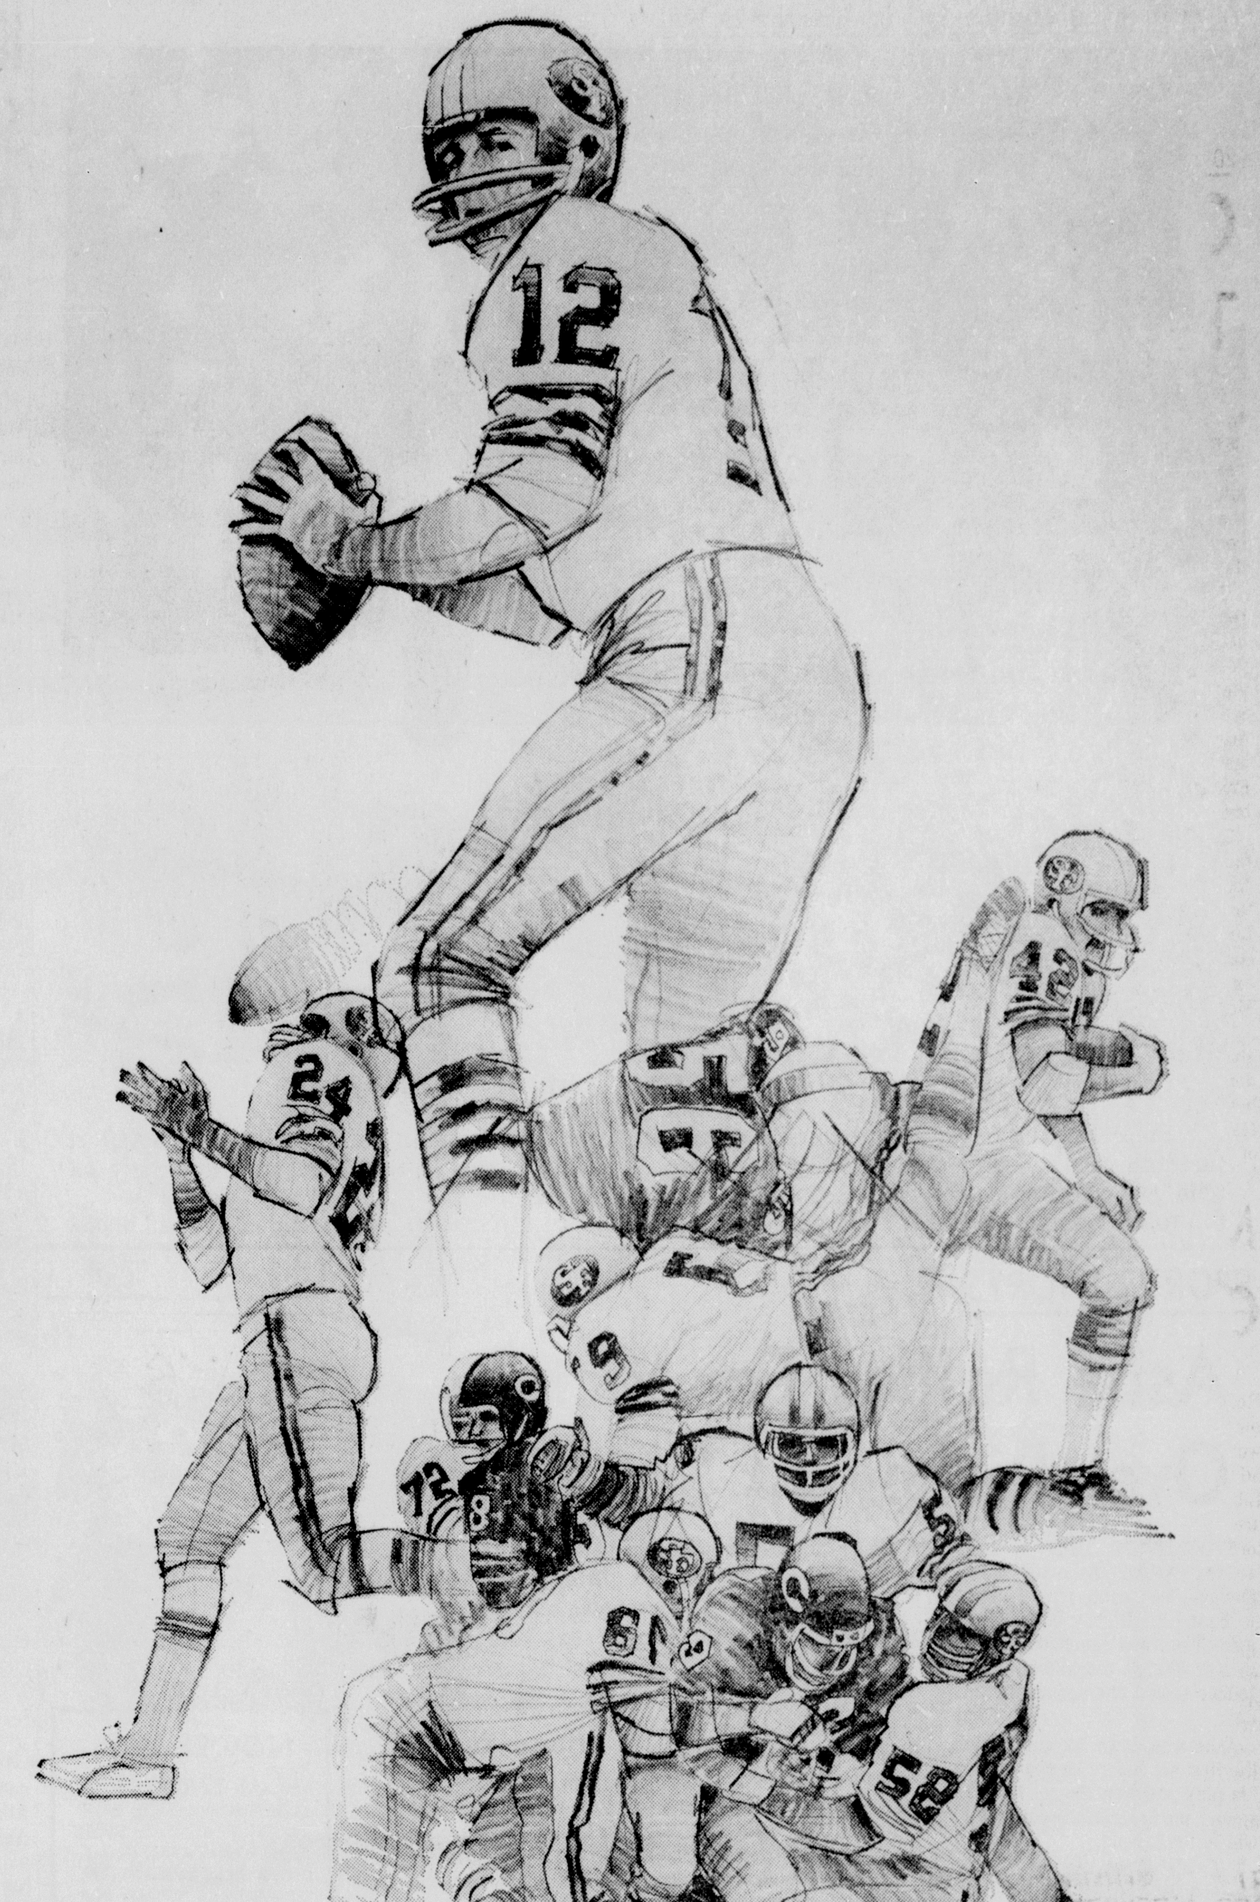
A "new" man in their defensive backfield is Kermit Alexander, who played so many years for the 49ers. He went over to Los Angeles during the off-season in exchange for Gossett, a move which has worked out well for both clubs.

Offensive tackle Cas Banaszek, who missed last week's game against the Lions, more than likely will start for San Francisco. He'll line up nose to nose with Jones, a man he has been able to contain in previous confrontations.

The Rams have lost running back Tommy Mason for the season. He had a shoulder operation in Oklahoma City Friday. Cornerback Eddie Meador (hamstring) and linebacker Maxie Baughan (arch) are possible starters for the Rams. If they can't go then Alvin Hammond and Jim Purnell will take over as they did last Sunday in the 17-7 victory over Atlanta.



ON THE SPOT — Quarterback John Brodie of the 49ers, depicted in drawing by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey, will lead San Francisco against the rugged Los Angeles Rams tomorrow at Kezar Stadium.

MARIN BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Texas Transfer Sparks Tam To Impressive Win

Center Will Garner, a junior transfer from El Paso, Tex., poured 22 points through the nets at Tamalpais High School last night to lead the Indians of Mill Valley to a 81-58 devastating win over Lincoln of San Francisco. It was the Indian's first basketball game of the season.

Other Marin County Athletic League teams did not fare so well last night. In season opening games, Redwood lost to Washington of San Francisco, 44-38 in Larkspur, and Terra Linda bowed to Salesian in Richmond, 65-48. Losing for the second straight time were San Rafael, which bowed to Armijo in Fairfield, 62-58, and San Marin, an overtime victim of Healdsburg, 58-53 in Novato.

Four Tam Indians made double figures including flashy guard John Earl Huff who ran the visitors from the city's AAA league dizzy. Huff scored 15 points in the three quarters he played. Tam coach Bernie Schneider pulled him at the start of the final period, and took out Garner just minutes afterward to avoid further embarrassment to the Mustangs.

Garner, 6-foot-3, who started as a sophomore last year for a team that went to his state's finals, posted 12 points in the third quarter when the Indians outscored the city team, 31-17. Actually, the game was a "no contest" affair as early as the second period, when Huff sparked a rally that gave Tam a 29-22 halftime lead.

Also in double figures for the Indians were David Jones, who picked up 12 as a replacement for Huff late in the game, and forward Steve Miles with 11.

The defending MCAL champion Redwood Giants found the going rough against Washington. Scott Thobbe collected a game-high 18 points for Dick Hart's local troops, and Steve McGee added 13, but the Larkspur team couldn't hold a 20-19 halftime lead.

Terra Linda trailed Salesian by just one point going into the fourth quarter, but then the roof caved in on Bob Corley's boys. Starting guards Larry Kerr and Gordon Walker fouled out, and forward Joe Casteel sat out most of the final period in foul trouble, so the Richmond team took the opportunity to outscore the Trojans, 33-18 and put the game away.

Casteel had a hot hand before he came out, and ended up leading all scorers with 21 points.

San Rafaels' Bulldogs took their second loss in as many games, but this contest was far closer than Wednesday's 96-68 rout at the hands of Sonoma. Down by six at the half, the Bulldogs rallied to tie the game with minutes remaining, but just couldn't turn the tide. Jerry Malinari racked up 15 points to lead Coach Mike Diaz' San Rafael team, and following him were Jim Thorne with 11, and Wayne Lechner with nine.

The San Marin Mustangs also improved over Wednesday night, when they lost to Napa, 72-46. Once again, though, they played without star center Dana LaFerriere, suspended two days ago for reasons coach Andy Frauenhofer stated were "personal."

Marin Wins Cage Opener

College of Marin Tars, playing sloppy but explosive basketball, waltzed to a season-opening, 90-75 win over College of San Mateo last night in Kentfield.

The Tars were as inexperienced as possible at playing together with no returning letterman — and they made an almost unbelievable total of 35 turnovers. But four players hit double figures, and Marin stormed to as much as a 21 point lead in the second half.

Mike Peden led all scorers with 21 points; following him were Joe Smith with 17, Ed Herrnberber with 14, and Roosevelt Green with 12.

"We shot well but we didn't handle the ball well," said coach John Panagakis. "The first game always shows you have a lot of work to do."

Warriors Muff One; Host L.A.

OAKLAND (UPI) — They muffed a chance Friday night, but the San Francisco Warriors can barge into first place tonight in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division.

The Warriors, now 13-10, host the division-leading Los Angeles Lakers at the Oakland Arena. The Lakers have won two less games and have lost seven.

Nate Thurmond entered the Warrior record book when he scored a field goal in the opening period to raise his career point total to 8,015, bettering by one the old mark held by Wilt Chamberlain. For the game, Thurmond had 16 points.

For the Sonics, player-coach Len Wilkens scored 31 points and Don Kojis 22.

MARIN NETTER ACCEPTS BID TO AUSTRALIA

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael, 18, one of America's budding young tennis stars, has postponed a trip to South Africa next week in order to compete in tournaments in New Zealand and Australia this month, it was announced today by her father, Les Walsh of San Rafael.

Miss Walsh is vacationing in England this week following participation in tournament play there, but will return to San Rafael next week before departing for the "Down Under" tournaments. "She'll have to change her wardrobe from winter to summer clothing," her father said, "because it's hot in Australia at this time of year."

Following the important Australian tournament Miss Walsh plans to play in South Africa and possibly other tournaments in Europe.

Namath Declared Out For Season

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Jets placed quarterback Joe Namath on the reserve list Friday, ending any chance that he would return to action before the end of the National Football League season.

Namath broke his right wrist in a game against Baltimore, Oct. 18. He is scheduled to meet with his doctor early next week for an examination of the wrist, but the Jets felt that regardless of his improvement it would be best for Namath to avoid playing until next year.

Namath has stated that he unequivocably intends to return to football in 1971.

The Jets, who were expected to be a power this season, have only a 3-7 record.

Poor Seals Drop Sixth Straight

OAKLAND (UPI)—As if he didn't have his hands full with a slumping hockey team, California Seals coach Fred Glover has agreed to double temporarily as general manager of the National Hockey League club.

Glover, who will fill in for Bill Torrey, who left the post earlier this week, made the announcement before Friday night's game with the Minnesota North Stars, which the Seals dropped 3-2, gaining a firmer hold on the NHL West Division cellar.

The luckless Seals had twice come from behind in the second period to tie the score 2-2, but Minnesota rookie Jude Drouin's deflection goal in the final period wrapped it up and handed the Seals their sixth straight loss.

California had a chance to tie it in the final minute when Ted Harris of the North Stars was sent to the penalty box for tripping. California pulled Gary Smith for an extra skater, but they couldn't get past Minnesota goalie Cesare Maniago.

After a scoreless first period, Minnesotas' Danny Grant lit up the scoreboard by tapping in a rebound at 4:44. Oakland's Ernie Hicke matched this four minutes later following a two-on-one break.

Danny O'Shea tipped in a pass from the corner to put the North Stars ahead less than a minute later, and Oakland got its final goal at 12:12 by Billy Hicke, Ernie's brother, on a power play.

In assuming the managerial post, Glover becomes the fifth coach in the NHL this season to double as a manager.

Knick Ace Sees Blood On Horizon

By United Press International

"They'll want blood tonight!"

That's the way Walt Frazier interprets Milwaukee's feelings after the New York Knicks snapped the club's string of 16 straight victories, 103-94, Friday with a stunning defense that held the Bucks to just 11 points in the final quarter.

A Knick loss would have put Milwaukee within a game of New York's 18-game consecutive winning record set last season. The teams meet in New York tonight in the second half of a home-and-home set.

"We needed this one," said Captain Willis Reed, who scored 34 points and frustrated Lew Alcindor into committing five fouls and losing his poise in the final two minutes when the Knicks ran off the last six points of the game.

STILL GREAT

"It proves that we've still got a great club," Reed said. "We've had all sorts of problems getting started this year, with injuries and other little things. This game gave us a chance to measure ourselves."

Phil Jackson, the substitute center, hit for two key baskets while Reed was rested late in the game and helped generate the momentum that overcame a nine-point Milwaukee lead going into the last quarter.

Alcindor hit for 33 points and outrebounded Reed, 16-10, as Milwaukee lost only its second game in 19 outings this season.

In other NBA games, Cincinnati nipped Philadelphia, 113-109, Boston rolled past Baltimore 153-107, Chicago whipped Buffalo 121-104, Portland topped Cleveland 111-102, Seattle beat San Francisco 101-96, Phoenix upset Los Angeles 116-105 and San Diego defeated Atlanta 128-127.

DROPS LOWER

Philadelphia dropped five games behind New York in the Atlantic Division as Tom Van Arsdale broke a 107-all tie on a pair of free throws with 1:54 remaining. Van Arsdale and Johnny Green each scored 23 points for the Royals, who closed to within four games of first place Baltimore in the Central Division. Billy Cunningham led the 76ers with 22 points.

John Havlicek scored 25 of his game-high 33 points in the first half as Boston recorded its biggest victory margin in 25 years of NBA play. The 46-point spread eclipsed the 173-139 triumph over Minneapolis in 1959. Gus Johnson paced a weak Baltimore attack with 22 points.

Chicago led all the way in the Bulls' triumph over Buffalo as Bob Love tallied 31 points and Chet Walker had 19. Dick Garrett and Bob Kauffman each scored 16 points for the Braves, who trailed by 30 points at one stage of the fourth quarter before the Chicago subs took over.

EXPANSION BATTLE

Portland pinned Cleveland with its 24th loss in 25 games in a battle of expansion teams. Jim Barnett led the Trail Blazers with 20 points while Walt Wesley led the Cavaliers with 24 points.

Rookies Don Adams and Calvin Murphy and veteran Elvin Hayes combined for 87 points to lift the Rockets past Atlanta. Adams had a career high 33 and Hayes tossed in 32. Murphy, making his first pro start in place of the injured Larry Siegfried, had 22.

Toby Kimball's tip-in in the last 18 seconds provided the margin of victory over the Hawks who were led by Lou Hudson's 32 points.

Paul Silas had 27 points and 22 rebounds and Neal Walk tossed in 25 points to lift Phoenix over the Lakers. Jerry West led Los Angeles with 33 points.

Ailing S.F. Youth Grabs Golf Lead

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI)—If John Miller plays as good a game of golf when he's well as he does when sick, he's going to be a tough man to beat.

The 23-year-old Californias, in his first full year on the pro tour, went into today's third round of the $100,000 Heritage Golf Classic with a one-stroke lead over brawny amateur Steve Melnyk.

He got that lead by shooting a 5-under-par 66, oe stroke off the course record, in Friday's second round despite an upset stomach brought on by eating too much Thanksgiving dinner the previous day.

That 66 gave Miller a score of 138 at the midway point of the year's third from last PGA tournament and kept him in front of the 247-pound Melnyk, the 1969 National Amateur champ, who posted a 67 Friday for a 139.

Miller held a four-stroke lead over his next closest competitors—first-round leader Homero Blancas, Bob Lunn and Bert Greene, all at even-par 142 as only two golfers in the 102-man field were able to break par for two days over the short but tricky Harbour Town course.

BLANCAS SLIPS

Blancas, the only man to break par in Thursday's opesing round when he had a 70, shot 72 Friday while Lunn had a 67 and Greene a 68.

Defending champion Arnold Palmer, vutting together the "wildest" 70 he had shot in a dozen years, and Bert Yancey, who had a 67, were another stroke back at 143.

Miller, out of SKAN Francisco, had four birdies in his first seven holes and was 5-under after 10 holes before that Thanksgiving Day dinner caught up with him.

"I was playing great through 10 holes and, although I know you're not supposed to think that way, really thought I could set a new course record," Miller said. "But that dinner began to get to me. I really felt terrible for about four holes and, although it cleared up after that, I was lucky to hang onto what I had."

Miller, who joined the tour at mid-year in 1969, wasn't invited to last year's Heritage. But he has already won more than $50,000 so far this year.

DON'T CHOKE

j; I've been thrilled to dea with my play this fear," the slender blond said. "Last year, I thought those $1,000 checks were super. When you get used to the bigger checks, you don't choke as early.

"I'm still choking, but not at the same prices."

The $30,000 Sea Pines Open, a satellite to the Heritage, is being played on this same coastal island and winds up today. South Carolinian Randy Glover, forced off the regular tour by a hip ailment, held a three-stroke lead over Larry Wood going into the final round.

Melnyk, who recently "trimmed down" from 260 pounds, insists he doesn't know whether he'll turn pro. "I don't think I'm ready to go out on the tour," the insurance company representative from Jacksonville, Fla., said. "But, if I continue to play well, I may change my mind."

PALMER SCRAMBLES

Palmer had a real scrambler of a round and said it had been a long time since he played like that "and got away with it. That was one of my funnier rounds. A dozen years ago, I used to play that way all the time."

Jack Nicklaus, who is playi

Jack Nicklaus, who is playing here only because he helped design the course on which the tournament is being held, wasn't disturbed that his 71-146 had him eight strokes off Miller's pace.

"I'm tired now and want to rest up for next year," Nicklaus said. "I'll play this week and then forget it. This is the time of year I'd really rather not play."

Ashe Rallies For Victory Over Richey At Stockholm

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Top-seeded Arthur Ashe of Gum Springs, Va., came from behind to beat Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., and reach the finals in the $35,200 Stockholm Open Indoor tennis championships today.

Ashe was down 0-2 and 2-4 in the first set before he sharpened his play and won the set 7-5. He wound up the match with a 6-4 win in the second.

Richey, winner of ILTFS Grand Prix competition, lost the battle on bad serving. He broke his opponents service twice in the first set and scored a breaker in the second set but could not hold his own service.

Football

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League announced Friday that running back Tom Matte of the Baltimore Colts will be sidelined for the remainder of the season and wide receiver Paul Warfield of the Miami Dolphins will be out of action at least until the final game of the season.

Matte is suffering with a knee injury while Warfield is scheduled to undergo surgery to repair rib damage.

Didion, a 6-4, 245-pounder, was the Redskins' 7th round draft choice in 1969. He joined the Redskins from Oregon State.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — Jim Valek was relieved officially of his job as Illinois football coach today and apparently there'll be no repetition of a threatened player revolt which saved his job in mid-season.

The action to relieve Valek was taken by the Board of Directors of the Athletic Association, which "reaffirmed" its decision of Oct. 23 not to renew Valek's contract.

The board announced on Oct. 24, before the Illinois game with Ohio State, that the coach was fired effective at the end of the game. But the players voted unanimously that they would neither practice nor play unless Valek was retained.

Thus the following day the board stayed their action and Valek was allowed to finish the season, in which Illinois won three and lost seven, winding up in a tie for last place in the Big Ten with a 1-6 record.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Tulane will be invited to play Colorado in the Liberty Bowl here Dec. 12 if the Greenies upset sixth-ranked Louisiana State University Saturday night in New Orleans, the Memphis Commercial-Appeal said today.

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (UPI) — East Tennessee State University football players voted Friday to play in a "Dedication Bowl" at Huntington, W. Va., for the benefit of Marshall University if the school agrees.

The game would be dedicated to the memory of members of the Marshall University football team who were killed in the crash of a jetliner near Huntington, W. Va., on Nov. 14.

SAN MATEO (UPI) — Paranha $9.40 outlegged a field of six two-year-old fillies on a muddy track Friday to post a three-and-a-half-length triumph over Lulie's Glory in the $15,000 added Santa Cruz Stakes before a crowd of 10,001 at Bay Meadows.

DONCASTER, Eng. (UPI) — Caramel, a six-year old mare who is the daughter of 1957 English Derby winner Crepello, was purchased Friday for $63,000, a record price for the Doncaster Bloodstock sales. Caramel's new owner is Mrs. Anne Harries, who maintains the Coxland Stud at Ewhurst, Eng., founded by her late husband.

Basketball

DALLAS (UPI) — Bill Blakely, 36, was named head coach of the Texas Chaparrals Friday, replacing Max Williams who resigned to devote full time to the office of general manager.

Blakely had been serving as business manager and assistant coach since April, 1970. Prior to that he was athletic director and head basketball coach at Christian College of the Southwest, where his teams compiled a won-lost record of 125-24.

49er Toe Has Score To Settle

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — Bruce Gossett has another score to settle with George Allen, head coach of the Los Angeles Rams.

Allen traded Gossett to the San Francisco 49ers earlier this year and later explained he wanted "an athlete because an athlete reacts better to pressure" than a place kicker. Allen made that remark on national television and it ruffled the feathers of Gossett.

"He was not only knocking me but Cox, Stenerud and all the kickers," said Gossett. "And I imagine there's been more field goals kicked this year than any other."

Gossett kicked two field goals in San Francisco's 20-6 win over the Rams earlier in the season. The teams meet again Sunday at Kezar Stadium with the Rams (6-3-1) one game behind San Francisco (7-2-1) in the Western Division of the National Football Conference.

"This game is the key to the season for us," adds Gossett. "I think we've come back great from what happened at Detroit (a 28-7 loss)."

Boat Racer Is Killed

LAKE HAVASU, Ariz. (UPI) —Outboard racer Warren V. Thompson was killed Friday during practice for the World Outboard Championships when his boat strayed off the course and hit a sandbar.

The 21-foot De Silva split in two when it struck the sand and the upper portion hit Thompson on the head' fracturing his skull.

The 53-year-old driver was picked up by a patrol boat, and was pronounced dead on arrival at a local physician's office. It was the first death in the seven-year history of the race.

His boat was capable of speeds up to 100 miles an hour and it was estimated from the condition of the wreckage that he was traveling at 70 mph when he hit the bar.

It was the first time Thompson had entered Havasu race and he was unfamiliar with the course.

The championship race will be run Sunday with $63,500 in prize money at stake.

Record Boat Speeds Expected

LAKE HAVASU, Ariz. (UPI) —Record setting speeds were predicted for Saturday and Sunday's World Outboard Championships here, with some experts looking for speeds averaging over 80 miles an hour.

That's not too bad considering that in 1967, the race record was tied at 59 miles an hour.

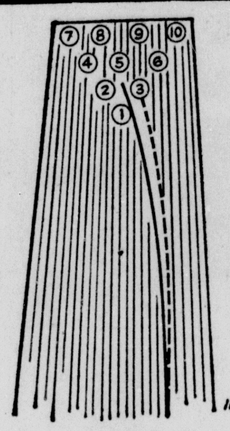
Top drivers out to pick up chunks of the $63,500 prize money will be making their runs in innovative, tunnel-hulled boats which, catamaran-like, skim the water. There is hardly no drag. Although several of the boats entered in the Havasu race have been driven at speeds in excess of 100 m.p.h., the swiftest run (18.99) has been made by a 16-foot tunnel hull powered by a Johnson Stinger engine.

The tunnel-hulled boats also dominated the 1969 race.

Aerodynamics has been the key to the new design and consequently, the new speeds. Only a handful of drivers plan to compete with older styled crafts.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



When your ball does not quite reach the solid 1-3 pocket (striking the 1-pin too far to its right), don't try to achieve more spin to bring it up. It's much easier and more dependable to move a board or so to the right and roll the ball over the same spot without extra wrist-twist. This position will help correct the situation.

Two 700s Are Rolled In Marin

Terry De Young, a lefthander, and Gordon Hutchison, a righthander, found the conditions at Nave Lanes to their liking this week and went over the 700 mark, high scores of the pastweek's Marin County bowling.

The 21-year-old De Young rolled games of 256, 229 and 278 for a whopping 763 series in the California Trophy Travel League. Hutchison rolled a 279 game and went on to a 702 in the Sportsmen's League.

Marilyn Epidentio was the star among women for the week, a 679 series on games of 253, 214 and 212 in the Mixed Mates League at Greenbrae Lanes. Ann Rogers was next with a 256 game and 620 series in the Woodcutters.

Chiefs Get Big Test Tomorrow

By BILL MADDEN
UPI Sports Writer

The Chiefs, 5-3-2, in the Western Division of the American Football Conference, a half-game behind Oakland (6-3-2), entertain the San Diego Chargers (4-4-2) in the first of four straight games against their division lodge-brothers.

A victory over the Chargers would be a step in the right direction for the Chiefs as it would propel them into a first place tie in the AFC West with Oakland, which was defeated by Detroit on Thursday. A loss, however, would drop the Chiefs into a tie for second with the Chargers and make the trip toward another World Championship increasingly difficult.

The Denver Broncos, the fourth member in the division and the early leaders, take their 5-5 record on the road to Houston after snapping a four-game losing streak last week against New Orleans.

In other AFC action, Boston (1-9) is at Buffalo (3-6) and Cleveland (5-5) at Pittsburgh (4-6).

Over in the National Conference, Los Angeles (6-3-1) is at San Francisco (7-2-1) in a game that will seriously affect the outcome of the Western Division title, the New York Giants are at Washington and Philadelphia is at St. Louis. Dallas defeated Green Bay, 16-3, Thursday.

In inter-conference games, Chicago is at Baltimore, New Orleans at Cincinnati, Minnesota at New York against the Jets and Miami will play at Atlanta Monday night. Oakland's loss to Detroit on Thursday was 28-14.

In addition to the title chase consequences, the Chargers-Chiefs matchup also features the return of Mike Garrett to Kansas City for the first meeting against his old teammates since being dealt to the Chargers early in the season.

Garrett, however, has not been sorely missed by Kansas City. Second-year man Ed Podolak rushed for a season high of 112 yards in 23 carries for the Chiefs in last week's 6-6 tie with St. Louis. In all, Podolak has gained 481 yards for an average of 4.3 yards per carry to lead the club.

Rams Activate Defensive Back

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Defensive back Nate Shaw has been activated by the Los Angeles Rams and accompanies the team north today for the key National Football Conference game against the San Francisco 49ers Sunday.

Coach George Allen announced that Shaw would fill the vacancy in the Rams' roster opened up by the injury to running back Tommy Mason, who is out for the season with a shoulder injury he suffered last week.

Shaw played his collegiate football at the University of Southern California and was on the active list briefly earlier in the season.

Showdown Is Awaited By Raiders

The Raiders, despite their 8-14 loss to Detroit on Thanksgiving Day, enjoy a slim half-game edge over the Chiefs, who host the San Diego Chargers Sunday.

The Chargers are fourth and last in the Western Division race but trail the Raiders by only 1 1-2 games with Denver in third, also 1 1-2 games away at 5-5.

Should the Chiefs defeat San Diego Sunday, they'll move into a tie with the Raiders, thus setting the stage for the following weekend's titanic.

The winner of that game should clinch the championship spot in the AFC playoffs because of the system used to break championship ties. In the case of a tie, the winner is determined on the basis of the head-to-head records between the two teams.

Since the Raiders and Chiefs tied in their first game, the winner of the second game would automatically have the better head-to-head record.

Mill Valley Scouts Will Get Eagles

Three Mill Valley Boy Scouts will receive Eagle Scout awards at a Scout Troop 77 honor court and special mass in the Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 11.

The honors will go to Mark John Bluth, 15, and borthers Martin Nolan, 18 and Michael Nolan, 15. All three are holders of the Ad Altare Dei award, the highest award given a Catholic Boy Scout by the church. They are members of the Order of the Arrow.

Bluth, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bluth of 18 Stanton Way, is a sophomore in Tamalpais High School. He is an honor student and active in school clubs and the water polo team. His special interest is electronics.

The Nolans are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew J. Nolan of 39 Valley Road. The senior Nolan is scoutmaster of Troop 77.

Martin Nolan is a senior at Marin Catholic High School, co-editor of the student newspaper and active in the Model United Natins program and the school's ecology club.

Bikers Hurt In Crash With Car

Two Marin City youths were injured Thursday at 3:05 p.m. when their bicycles collided with a car at Bonita and Turney streets in Sausalito, police reported yesterday.

Donald Moore, 13, of 1 Cole Drive, was treated at Marin General Hospital for scrapes and bruises. John D. Smith, 12, of 109 Drake Avenue, was treated at Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael for scrapes.

Police said they were riding their bicycles south on Bonita Street and collided with a car being driven east on Turney Street by Pamela Till, 37, of 6 Cazneau Avenue, Apt. B, Sausalito.

Marinites Reminded Of Yard Burning Ban

While the burning season opens Tuesday for ranchers, other residents are still prohibited from backyard burning, Novato's Asst. Fire Chief R. W. Beyer reminded Marinites today.

Noting recent calls about illegal burning and a steady influx of new residents, Beyer issued a reminder of the ban instituted Jan. 1, 1970.

Residents are not permitted to burn any refuse, litter trimmings or leafes in outdoor fires and the use of indoor fireplaces can be hazardous and is usually objectionable due to smoke, he said.

He suggested the leaves and lawn clippings could be placed in plastic bags or cardboard boxes with a capacity of two cubic feet and placed beside the family garbage can once a week for disposal.

Where an entire neighborhood is deluged with leaves and fallen branches, a group of neighbors, eight or 10, could contract the Novato Disposal Co. to place a large debris bin in their neighborhood.

"And for the avid gardeners there is the process of returning such material to the earth, known as composting Beyer said.

Marin Symphony To Benefit From 'McGovern Day'

"Terry McGovern Day" tomorrow at the Electrovision Theater in Ghiradelli Square, San Francisco, will be a fundraiser for the Marin Symphony.

Proceeds for this one day from admission to "The San Francisco Experience," a sound, light and film history of the city now at the Electrovision Theater, will go to the symphony. Included in the 45-minute show is simulation of the 1906 earthquake and fire. The show runs continously fron 11:15 a.m. through the evening.

McGovern, a Novato resident and KSFO disc jockey who assisted at the recent "whole works auction" that raised over $7,000 for the symphony, arranged the benefit with Donna Casavant, a director of the show. The disc jockey will be present to sign autographs and meet fans.

Ancient Reptile Skeleton Found

CHRISTCHURCH, New Zealand (UPI)—A well preserved skeleton of a cynodont believed to be 200 million years old has been found 350 miles from the South Pole by U.S. Antarctic program scientists, a spokesman said Wednesday.

The 10-inch long skeleton found Nov. 10 by a member of the Institute of Polar Studies of Ohio State University was considered an important link in scientists' efforts to prove the existence of a lost supercontinent.

Cynodon's were four-legged carnivorous reptiles with dog-like teeth. They ranged in size from a little larger than a rat to about the size of a wolf.

The month of May was named after Maia, Roman goddess of the growth of plants.

Exception To Secrecy Law Is Being Sought

Marin County is trying to get another exception to the state's antisecrecy law so that city councils or county boards of supervisors can meet in secret to discuss security countermeasures against "revolutionary or conspiratorial attack."

This is one of the new state laws proposed in the county's legislative program for 1971, drawn up by County Administrator Alan Bruce and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney. A draft of the county's legislative program will go to the Marin County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday.

The county administrator said city councils and county supervisors should be allowed to discuss in secret, security measures to be taken against revolutionary violence "in those instances where effectiveness of security measures would be vitiated by public revelation."

This is one of three new bills proposed by the county administrator since the Aug. 7 shootout and the Oct. 8 courtroom explosion in the Marin Hall of Justice.

The two other bills concern insurance coverage for public buildings. One would expand the State Compensation Insurance Fund to provide damage and liability insurance to public buildings. The other would prohibit an insurance carrier from making unilateral changes in the provisions of an insurance policy or canceling the policy without cause.

Nuclear Submarine Tests New Warhead

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The nuclear powered submarine Daniel Boone shot a Poseidon missile to an Atlantic Ocean target area late Friday on a flight testing both the missile and a dummy version of its new multiple warhead payload.

It was the 27th launch of the 34-foot rocket and its seventh from a submerged submarine. The USS James Madison is scheduled to begin operational patrols with 16 of the new missiles early next year.

G.M. Asks Recall Of 4,800 Cars

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. announced Friday it is asking owners of about 1,800 early production 1971 model cars to return them to their dealers for correction of a possible safety defect.

The cares involved in the recall are six-cylinder Chevrolets, Camaros, Novas, Chevelles, El Caminos, Pontias LeMans and Firebirds, F-85 Oldsmobile and Buick Specials.

G.M. said the carburetor throttle rod and retainer clip on the cars need to be replaced.

"The correction is necessary," the company said, "because a retainer clip on the upper throttle control rod may be misaligned, allowing it to contact the throttle lever and hold it in a partially open position.

"That condition could make it difficult to slow or stop the car."

G.M. said the parts would be replaced at its expense and no accidents had been reported as a result of the condition.

Crocker Bank Robbed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Three men wearing ski masks robbed a Crocker-Citizens National Bank of $5,500 Friday but three suspects were in custody several hours later.

Virginia Dare was the first English child born in the New World.

Road Projects Win Approval

Three highway improvement projects in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties have been approved for funding by the California Highway Commission.

James A. Moe, state director of public works, said four-tenths of a mile of Highway 37 east of Lakeville Road in Sonoma County will be resurfaced.

Guardrails will be replaced on Highway 37 from its junction with Highway 101 to a point nine-tenths of a mile east of Lakeville Road, and on Highway 101 in and near Novato. Moe said the cost of the two guardrail projects is estimated at $44,000.

Use Fruit, Flowers For Color

At holiday time, flowers and fruits or a combination add a colorful tone to the festivities.

Fruits and flowers plus vegetables in combination are very appropriate through the fall and winter.

Apples, oranges, lemons, grapes and nuts with multicolored gourds combine well with bronze and yellow pompom chrysanthemums. Decorative vegetables include peppers, green and red; red onions, artichokes, tall, thin carrots and red cabbage.

FRUITS PILED high around will conceal flower holders. The flowers may be inserted in florist's water picks and arranged individually. Or use "non-spillable" water, the plastic florist material that absorbs water as a sponge.

Place the material in a low bowl with a bit of extra water to replace that drawn out by the flowers. The holder here also may be camouflaged with encircling fruits.

Prof. Raymond T. Fox of the New York State College of Agriculture at Cornell University has a word of caution about table decorations featuring flowers, fruits and vegetables.

Ripening fruits and vegetables, he says, give off quantities of ethylene gas. Where air currents do not dissipate the gas, ethylene has a definite detrimental effect on flower life.

"SOME FLOWERS react very strongly to the gas," he noted.

Red roses develop the purple-tones of aging flowers. Snapdragon florets drop prematurely, and carnations fold in their petals and die.

"These flowers show the strongest reaction," he added. "However, other flowers also have a tendency toward shorter vase life, but chrysanthemums are less affected than most other flowers."

To Extend The Life Of Holiday Greens

To extend the life of Christmas evergreens, especially holly, mash or crush the tough, woody branch ends and place them for a couple of days in a quart of water mixed with a tablespoon of brown sugar.

This will help branches absorb enough moisture to hold them through the holidays.

San Domenico's New Approach To Music

by MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Child-sized instruments are really new element in a system of teaching music to children that is proving highly successful at San Domenico School Sleepy Hollow.

The system is based on the philosophies of Carl Orff, a contemporary German composer, and Zoltan Kodaly, the late Hungarian composer and teacher, according to Faith France, head of the school's music department, and Carol Stetler, the teacher in charge of the program.

"We started the program five years ago," Miss Stetler explains, "and about three years ago we began buying the instruments designed by Orff.

OVER A PERIOD of 25 years Orff worked on getting the best wood and other materials, and in designing the best sound chambers. The instruments are very expensive because they come through a distributor in Germany. Copies are available in the United States, but they are made of cheaper materials and the craftsmanship is not as good.

"The size of the instruments is important because children often lose an innate sense of rhythm when they are forced to try to control small muscles on instruments, such as the piano, that are too big for them. Orff-designed instruments use the larger motor movements, and the rhythm flow is developed in the proper order by using them."

The Orff instruments are all percussion, such as xylophones, glockenspiels, tympani, hand drums, triangles, tambourines and mellophones, but scaled-down string instruments and recorders are used to complete a small orchestra.

"THE ORFF and Kodaly systems are compatible," Miss Stetler says, "because both stress learning through joy of making and listening to music — both are dedicated to music for children — and both use native folk music.

"This has been adapted to American melodies, literature and rhythms."

"The Kodaly system," she adds, "emphasizes singing, especially the use of the body as instrument, and progresses gradually to musical literacy and the reading of music in a graduated sequence.

"The Orff system also emphasizes teaching music through rhythm, body movement and musical games, but is more improvisational; and, of course, the instruments are a unique Orff contribution."

AT SAN DOMENICO the music program is organized so that the first three grades have four music sessions a week in which they are involved with songs, verse, drama, movement and other musical experiences related to understanding of tone, melody, rhythm and musical symbols.

In addition to this, students are given recorder study in fourth grade, violin and cello instruction in fifth grade, and instrumental ensemble training in the sixth grade.

Carol Stetler, who holds a master's degree in music from Indiana University, has had special training in the Orff system in summer school work in Los Angeles and in the Kodaly system at the College of the Holy Names in Oakland. Last summer she conducted a workshop for teachers at Western State College in Colorado.

"We notice in piano study," she says, "that children who have had a couple of years of this training have a much better sense of rhythm and are really ready to study piano. There is improvement in all body coordination.

"The system has completely changed our string program. Children used to be lukewarm when introduced to string study in the fourth grade. Now they are so accustomed to making music that the strings do not seem so difficult.

"With interest so strong last year, we were able to have for the first time this year in the sixth grade a string ensemble, including along with violins and cellos a double bass and viola.

She continued, "We noticed

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS scaled down in size for children to promote a better development of rhythm sense is the unique feature of this orchestra at the San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow. Carol Stetler, who is in charge of the Orff-Kodaly system of teaching music in the lower school, directs the orchestra in a rehearsal for the school's Dec. 11 production of "The Christmas Story" by Carl Orff.

that as a result of the training in listening when we took the fifth grade to the opera this year, the children were able to get a great deal out of it."

The music chairman, who in private life is Mrs. Hugo Rinaldi, wife of the head of music in the San Rafael public schools, feels that this kind of teaching may be the method for reviving interest in music study in schools. She warns, however, that unless the system is taught by a strong musician using the complete materials, it will not be successful.

She says that when she and her husband were on a European tour last summer they found that Hungary, because the Kodaly system is taught there in all the schools, was the only country in which school children were getting any "in-depth" music training.

"IN ITALY musicians are getting panicky," she says. "The children are no longer much interested in music because there is no music taught in the schools. The music conservatories are not full, though

MARGE HIBBETT of San Rafael shows you some of the decorative wall plaques for home and patio that she has fashioned from wood shingles and a variety of dried materials. Her unique creations will be featured at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross when the Decorations Guild holds its traditional Greens Sale in its building Dec. 11, 12 and 13. Mrs. Hibbett hit upon the idea for the plaques when she balked at discarding and wasting a stack of old shingles she found in a Guild workroom. (Independent-Journal photos by Alfred M. Arn)

Works Of Art From Wooden Shingles

By LOIS B. GRIFFITH

Are you still searching for that elusive gift for the person who has everything?

No one else had until last May when Margery Hibbett originated them at the Decorations Guild building of the Marin Art and Garden Center grounds in Ross, where she is production manager and a member of the board.

Marge in giving one of the workrooms a spring-cleaning found a stack of old wooden roof shingles which she was about to throw away. Suddenly it occurred to her that these could be transformed into plaques for porches, patio and/or gardens.

WHEN THEY were cleaned and decorated with driftwood, pine cones, pods and other dried natural materials, each designed differently, they sold as quickly as her skillful hands could make them.

A family which was replacing its shake roof agreed to let the Guild use those old shingles. And since the plaques are so unique and beautiful, the Guild then decided to feature them at its annual Greens Sale in December. So Marge Hibbett has been busy for weeks making a large supply.

SHE IS soft-spoken, tactful, even-tempered, witty, and has a quick, contagious smile and a warm personality.

Marge is interested in most aspects of art, and has taken numerous courses in color, design, woodcarving, metal work, decoupage, collage and painting. But of all these forms of art, she likes best to work with the dried natural materials which the Decorations Guild uses, and prefers making picture collages.

She says, "One of the best things that happened to me was the opportunity of becoming a member of the Decorations Guild. It gives me an outlet for my compulsion to create, and brings me in contact with so many talented women."

MARGE ATTRIBUTES her creative ability to her father, who was a builder, and later was in the hardware business in San Francisco. One of five children, three girls and two boys, she came with her family to this country from Dublin, Ireland, when she was 6. They lived in Buffalo, N.Y., for two years before moving on to San Francisco.

They were a close, happy family, she recalls, and if they expressed a wish for anything, their father would say, "I'll build you one." He designed and built everything from doll beds to tree houses.

BOTH HER parents were "jewels," and perhaps this ac-

THE PHOTOS on this page provide you with a step-by-step report of how Marge Hibbett turns out her handsome wall plaques. At upper left, she begins with an old wooden shingle and drills holes in it, through which will be run the wires that will be used to attach the dried materials that will form her design. And at upper right, she starts with an interesting piece of driftwood, and proceeds to tie it down. At lower left, cones are added to her creation after some study to make certain the effect is the one desired. And at lower right, she poses with the finished piece. Her unusual wall plaques have enjoyed a brisk sale in the Decorations Guild building at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, where next month the annual Greens Sale will be the big pre-holiday attraction. Plaque prices vary from $5.50 to $7.50, depending upon the materials used, and the amount of work that has gone into a piece.

Rabbit fur garments or trim should not be dry-cleaned. Even the fur-cleaning method with sawdust may reveal the weaknesses of rabbit fur.

As you may have learned, rabbit fur does not wear well even under normal conditions. There is little oil in Coney and Belgian fur and for that reason the hairs become brittle. They break and shed. This fur, also, may mat, producing a most unsatisfactory appearance.

When purchasing a garment that has rabbit fur, keep in mind the fur's poor serviceability and its tendency to mat or shed. Then, buy with your eyes open to its poor wearing qualities as well as its beauty.

After attending grammar and high school in San Francisco, she became a registered nurse, then an anesthetist. She is a graduate of the Lakeside School of Anesthesia in Cleveland, Ohio, which is a branch of Western Reserve University. She worked in Cleveland at the Lakeside Hospital and at the Crile Clinic, then came back West and worked in most of the San Francisco hospitals.

"Anesthetists get around, you know," she smiles.

SHE LOVES the profession and has found it "fascinating and thrilling to watch the skillful surgeons."

She met her husband, Lloyd, in San Francisco, and came to Marin County as his bride.

Both the Hibbetts love to travel, and since his early retirement, have done so extensively in the U.S., Canada and Europe. They have been almost everywhere in the world except the Orient. Both are enthusiastic golfers, and long-time members of the Meadow Club, and both enjoy gardening for exercise and pleasure.

Marge's profession as an anesthetist seems incongruous to the artistry of the picture collages she loves to create. They have a tranquil simplicity to which the eye keeps returning, and an everlasting appeal.

THE SHINGLE plaques are, in reality, collages without frames. Each is different, all are beautiful, and they make provocative conversation pieces. Prices for the plaques vary (from $5.50 to $7.50) depending upon what materials were used, and the number of hours spent on each.

The 1970 Greens Sale will be held at the Art and Garden Center Dec. 11, 12, and 13 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and there you will find not only the plaques, but many unique gifts. The theme this year is "A Storybook Christmas."

It is the annual sale of the Decorations Guild and features hand-made fresh green wreaths, swags, kissing balls, table decorations and branches of do-it-yourself greens, plus the popular yule logs, and the sugar-plum tree which offers numerous small items for children, tree decorations and novelties.

BECAUSE OF the theme, the members have made an abundance of storybook characters, irresistible to all ages, and tableaux depicting favorite stories, with the characters and buildings affixed to bases, suitable for centerpieces, table decor or use beneath the tree.

The Garden Society of Marin, one of the founding groups of the Center, will assist with the fresh greens, helping the Guild to collect, separate and sell them.

THE PATHFINDERS' Tea room will be open, and the Pixie Parents will have homemade delicacies for sale.

The Guild's bouquets, line arrangements, tree plaques, wreaths and other products which are on sale all year will be available, too.

The sole function of the Guild is to raise funds for the maintenance of the Marin Art and Garden Center, to which its yearly profits are given. The members are all volunteers, highly skilled and trained by the Guild.

Throughout the county and far beyond, all year long, members gather, dry and store separately over 2,000 varieties of natural materials. Each member creates her own flowers by combining two or three of these materials, gluing each petal into place by hand and then coloring them and arranging them permanently. Each creation takes hours to complete.

ESPECIALLY BRIGHT and colorful items are made for Christmas, both with the dried materials and with fresh greens.

Marge Hibbett is so versatile that she has made some of nearly everything the Guild sells. In addition to the shingle plaques, she originated the miniature boutiques that are tiny, colorful, dried flowers, arranged in a bouquet and set in a small, glass-covered oval picture frame.

There are many members of the Decorations Guild with outstanding talent, and she insists that this be stressed. But resourceful, modest Marge Hibbett is nevertheless a keystone of the organization, and one of its most beloved members.

"Marvelous Marge," her co-workers call her.

A VERY BUSY PLACE these days is the workshop of the Decorations Guild of the Marin Art and Garden Center, as the talented women prepare for their traditional Greens Sale to be held on the Ross grounds Dec. 11, 12, and 13. The wares feature decorations for the holiday season such as wreaths, kissing balls and yule logs. Other units at the art and garden center will also be active during the three-day weekend event.

Marin Youth Digs Into History Of California's Mother Lode

By DON KEOWN

A family trip into the Mother Lode country four years ago when he was 12 started it all for Steven Cabella of Kentfield.

Since then, the teen-ager has been an ardent student of California Gold Rush history and an enthusiastic collector of the mementoes of that era.

His introduction to collecting came through antique bottles, "and I still pick some of those up from time to time."

But that trip to the Gold Rush towns and mine sites really set young Cabella off. "I was really caught up in what I saw," he says. "I thought it was really great."

STEVE HAD studied that period of California history some in school and found it interesting. "But being there in person was something else. That was the real start for me."

As for collecting memorabilia of an era when gold prospecting and mining were rivaled only by saloon-keeping as a California industry, Steve says: "It fascinates me to feel that I own a piece of real history."

The collection began with a canceled check drawn on a Mother Lode bank. To that he has added mining tools, Wells Fargo receipts, mine stock certificates, a deed to a mining claim that belonged to one of his uncles, other checks, pictures and books.

A FAVORITE is a booklet entitled "The Miner's Ten Commandments." And Steve's favorite commandment is the one that solemnly intones:

"If thou telleth a lie about good diggings up in ye mountains, the person who has been lied to shall come down and present thee with the contents of his rifle, and thou shall fall down and die."

Steve works part-time with his father, Louis Cabella, who is employed by the Schultz Building Co. Most of his wages go, not for the usual teen-ager recreations and interests, but instead for additions to the gold mining collection.

"ONCE IN awhile some one gives me something," he says. "But most of the things I have to buy."

Some of his friends, the Sir Francis Drake High School junior admits, are bewildered by these expenditures, and a few even sarcastic. But Steve doesn't let that dim his enthusiasm. "It's my money," he says.

Louis Cabella was recently remarried, so that there are now 13 brothers, sisters, half-brothers and half-sisters, counting Steven, at home.

"THAT DOESN'T leave me much room for my collection," grins Steve, "and right now it's mostly stored away inside boxes."

But the Cabellas are in the final phases of the construction of a new home. "And once we move in," Steve says, "I imagine my room is going to look pretty much like a museum."

From time to time Steve unpacks his collection and takes appropriate pieces with him when he speaks at a Marin school on Gold Rush history.

STUDENTS AT Drake High, A. E. Kent and Wolfe Grade schools and the College of Marin have heard his talks. And he has displayed his collection at Redwood High School and at the Wells Fargo Bank in Greenbrae.

"The kids seem to be very much interested in the subject and what I have to say and show them," says the 16-year-old "authority" on events that occurred a century before his birth.

Steve says part of his success as a lecturer in schools lies in his approach. "I try to keep it relaxed, and pitch my talk at kid-level with plenty of humor. There's none of that pay-attention-or-out-you-go-kind of stuff."

LAST YEAR Steve took the California history course at Drake High and enjoyed it.

The teacher, Jerry Jones, "is particularly expert on Indian history," he says. "And he let me help out on the Gold Rush days."

This year Steve is doing some special work on Mother Lode history for credit.

The youth notes that he comes by his interest in the history of the area and itfs glory era naturally, for a great uncle, the late Archie D. Stevenot, was a regional historian of considerable repute.

WHEN STEVENOT, to whom Steve was related on his mother's side, died in Sonora in 1968 at the age of 85, the Stockton Record described him as "champion of the Mother Lode and a noted area historian."

That newspaper went on to declare: "Few men possessed a keener perspective of the historical past than Stevenot, the grandson of Jean Gabriel K. Stevenot, a lawyer from Alsace-Lorraine who landed in San Francisco in 1849. The attorney accompanied General Sutter to Calaveras County in 1850 where he pitched his tent a half-mile below Carson Hill and started the New Melones Mining Co."

Archie's father, Emile K. Stevenot also settled at Carson Hill, but later went to San Francisco to start a borax metallurgical refinery and to become know as "the Borax King."

IT WAS AT Carson Hill that Archie Stevenot, sixth child of Emile and Sarah Stevenot, was born on Sept. 25, 1882.

Archie Stevenot went on to become the Carson Hill postmaster during the Taft administration, a mining superintendent and engineer, and a hotel keeper. As a youth, he had sold candles to miners, traveling throughout the Mother Lode. And for a time he ranched.

He was one of the organizers of the California State Chamber of Commerce, the founder of the Mother Lode Highway Association in 1919 and its long-time president and director, a past president of the San Joaquin Valley Hotel Association, a past president of the Golden Chain Council, and active with such organizations as the Native Sons of the Golden West, the Lions Club, the American Mining Congress, the American Institute of Mining Engineers

SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD Steven Cabella of 10 McAllister Street, Kentfield, takes notes from Mother Lode newspapers concerning the illustrious career of his great uncle, Archie D. Stevenot, Gold Rush country historian and booster, whose biography the youth is writing. Young Cabella is also a student of early California gold mining days and a collector of memorabilia of that colorful era.

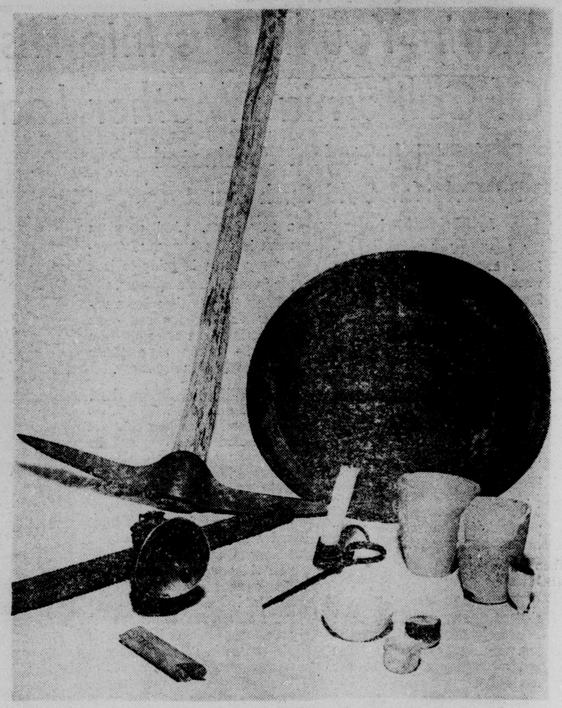
INCLUDED AMONG the mementoes of California's colorful Gold Rush era that have been collected by Steven Cabella, 16-year-old history enthusiast living in Kentfield, are an 1846 Colt dragoon gun and holster, an 1883 deed to one of the Carson Hill mines and an antique bottle.



OTHER PRIZED possessions of Steven Cabella include a miner's pick and pan, two large assay cups, a pipe bowl used for melting gold dust, a miner's candleholder, carbide lamp, in front of it a core sample and behind it a dill bit or "widow-maker," and some smaller assay cups.

Tuolumne, Mariposa and Calaveras historical societies, E Clampus Vitus, the Elks, the Red Cross and the National Parent-Teacher Association.

HE HELPED organize the Mother Lode Baseball League and was a delegate to the Republican National Convention of 1927 at which Herbert Hoover was nominated for President.

The California State Legislature officially designated Stevenot "Mr. Mother Lode."

"I've always liked people and long ago I eliminated the word 'hate' from my vocabulary about people or anything," Stevenot once said.

A RECEPTION and testimonial affair on his 81st birthday in 1963 drew hundreds of people.

In 1967, Stevenot received an award of merit from the California Historical Society.

"I guess I come by my interest in regional history naturally," says Steve Cabella.

The youth adds that he is at work on a biography of his great uncle that he hopes, when completed, will attract the interest of a historical society or a publishing house specializing in western history.

THIS PAST summer Steve and a friend, David Casini of Greenbrae, took a 120-mile bicycle ride through the Mother Lode, one of the purposes of which was to collect material for the Stevenot biography.

Steve is also trying to acquire ownership of or access to his great uncle's papers which he feels would be invaluable in his work.

The biography will mark the start of what Steve hopes will be a career as a professional historian.

BUT FIRST, he would like some experience as a ranger in one of the national monuments, parks or forests of California. "I think that would provide a marvelous background."

And where would he ultimately like to settle down and pursue the profession of historian?

Way, in the Mother Lode country, naturally.

"It's so different there," he says, "so quiet, easy-going and friendly. And I don't think it is going to change much.

"We can be grateful for that."

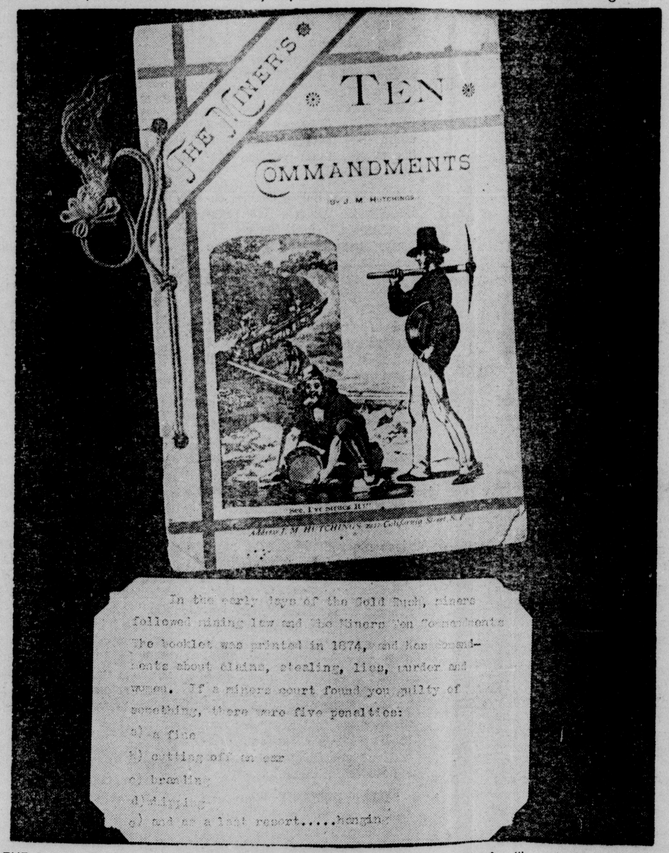
VOUCHER PAPERS from the historic Carson Hill Gold Mining Corp. and a photograph of approximate 1880 vintage of miners at work also are part of Steven Cabella's growing collection from Mother Lode history.



THE BOOKLET, "The Miner's Ten Commandments" by J.M. Hutchings, owned by Steve Cabella, sets forth the "laws" of the Mother Lode during the Gold Rush period — and the grim penalties that awaited the offender.

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

Man has gone down to the sea for ages in quest of adventure, romance, food, or just fun and relaxation.

In older times, he set out in about any contraption that would float — hollowed out trees, timbers lashed together with vines, cockleshells of reed and animal skins, among others. Later came the wooden sailing ships and iron steamboats, but often as not it still was rough going.

Today, he can sail the Seven Seas in luxury and style aboard sleek air-conditioned liners equipped with stabilizers and other modern electronic safety devices, offering all the comforts of home — and more.

AND WHAT with the steady increase in popularity of vacations at sea, scores of steamship companies have scheduled thousands of cruises designed to fit the time and money budget of virtually everyone.

Sailings range from one-day trips to a nearby port to round-the world voyages of 90 days and more with scores of ports of call. Generally, the cost of a cruise starts at about $30 per day per person —or about what you would expect to pay at a land based resort.

The cruise cost, however, includes accommodations, transportation to the ports on the itinerary, use of swimming pool and other sports facilities, entertainment and meals.

NOT INCLUDED are bar bills, laundry and other personal expenses, including tips. Holland America Line, however, has abolished tipping on its cruise liners.

Naturally, the better the accommodations, the more you will pay.

Steamship companies usually quote only the minimum rate in advertising and these rooms, generally a few inside on the lower decks, go fast. So, if you are planning a cruise, book as early as possible since most cruise ships operate one-class service and all passengers have equal status in the dining room and other public facilities.

VETERAN CRUISE passengers will tell you to leave your calorie counter at home. For in addition to breakfast, lunch and dinner — with menus offering scores of choices —there are 11 a.m. bouillon with crackers, 4 p.m. tea with cookies and a sumptuous midnight buffet.

Usually there are two sittings for lunch and dinner. So one of the first things to do after boarding the ship is to find the maitre d'hotel and select your sitting and table.

The early sitting for lunch is about noon, for dinner around 6 p.m. Second sittings usually are about 90 minutes later.

After getting squared away in the dining room, look up the chief deck steward. From his deck plans, choose the location of your deck chairs. Decide whether you want sun or shade, wind or shelter, be near the pool or other sports facilities, or a quiet area where you can read and relax.

INCIDENTALLY, if you are planning a bon voyage party with friends before sailing don't forget to bring your own liquor. If advised in advance, the room steward will provide glasses, setups and canapes.

By U. S. law all liquor cabinets must remain sealed until the ship is outside the territorial waters of the United States.

Dress aboard ship is informal. There are formal events, such as the captain's dinner, but evening wear is not compulsory. I've made do with a black bow tie white shirt and dark suit; my wife with a cocktail dress.

EXCEPT ON the longer cruises, most cruise ships in the Caribbean sail from port to port during the night. During the evening and night hours, there are first run movies, dancing, floor shows, masquerade parties and similar special events arranged by the cruise director.

Bigger liners generally have a bar which remains open until the last guest leaves.

During the day, there are numerous shipboard activities — swimming in the pool, golf and shooting lessons, shuffleboard, bridge, bingo and horse race games, foreign language and dance lessons and lectures on upcoming ports by the cruise director and his staff.

HERE ARE A few more tips the first-time passenger may find helpful:

-- Check the cruise line company on required documents, such as passports, visas and health certificates. And make sure your passport and smallpox vaccinations are valid.

— Tip waiters and room stewards at least $1 per day per person on the one-to-two week cruises — a little more on the shorter trips and a little less on the longer ones. Figure about $5 per week for the maitre d'hotel if he is extra helpful and about $3 for the wine steward and the deck steward for extra services.

Tip barmen and others as you would ashore.

A Grand Old Dame Is In Distress

The lady is Venice, the treasured city of canals and art masterpieces, now suffering from the ravages of time, nature and man. An appeal for funds to help her is being made through 21 magazines published from New York to Tokyo to Tel Aviv.

"Venice is under assault by uncontrolled tides, pollution and old age," says John R. McDermott, president of Diners Club magazine division. "Atmospheric acid is eating away its art treasures — stone, bronze and pigment; the walls of its buildings are being eroded by floods; industrial waste is polluting its waters.

"UNLESS THESE conditions are alleviated and repairs made, some of the loveliest art in the world will be lost forever and eventually the city itself could cease to exist as we know it now."

To prevent such a disaster, McDermott and his counterparts in foreign countries are taking part in an appeal to raise funds for art restoration and preventive engineering projects. The Italian government has promised 250 million dollars, but more is needed.

"The movement was started by Claudio Chiodelli, managing director of Diners Club of Italy," McDermott said. "He has publicized the problems to his countrymen, explained what corrective action can be taken, and set up a special fund for contributions. The fund is audited by the Italian government and the United Nations International Fund for Monuments."

The U.S. Diners Club magazine Signature told of Venice's plight in its November issue and asked for contributions from its million subscribers. Twenty other Diners Club "sister" magazines around the world are issuing similar appeals.

"WE HOPE TO get Venice's story across to our two million Diners Club members and their families and friends. They are, after all, sophisticated people interested in travel and sensitive to the arts, and we are hopeful they can make a significant contribution toward the preservation of the city, its architecture and art," McDermott said.

Checks from U.S. contributors should be made out to Diners Club of Italy Save Venice Fund and sent to Banca Nazionale del Lavoro, 25 West 51st Street, New York, N.Y., 10019, a participating sponsor and administrator of the fund.

What Those Flags Mean

For example, ships of Norwegian Caribbean Lines fly a special Norwegian national flag bearing the work "Post," signifying it is authorized to carry royal Norwegian mail.

It also serves as the flag of registry and is flown from the stern mast.

The same foremast carries the flag of the country where the ship is visiting. If it is the ship's country of registry, then the flag flown is of the country last visited.

When two ships come within sight of each other while at sea, they exchange a bit of traditional courtesy.

The first to respond to the sighting dips her national flag of registry. When the other dips hers in return, the first raises hers again and the other follows turn.

Don't Be Intimidated By Money

The Travel Pages

Not everyone has a yen for handling foreign currency — yet a yen comes in might handy in Japan.

And a bit of knowledge about this and other currencies of the Pacific (easy to acquire, remember and use) increases any travelers enjoyment of the earth's "world of exotic enchantment."

The Pacific Ocean area, served regularly by ships of the member lines of the Trans-Pacific Passenger Conference — American President, Mitsui-OSK, Orient Overseas and P & O — is the world's most extensive. Nations and cultures also are extremely diverse and widespread.

However, currencies — a bugaboo for many travelers when there's really no reason for it — aren't as complex as the national pattern might suggest.

But with any foreign currency, these facts are always present; it's never as complicated as it appears on the surface to convert values from one currency to another; and if you don't have a good idea of values, you're likely to spend money needlessly. What's more, if traveling by ship, you need not learn all about all the various currencies at once. Do it for one nation at a time — prior to arriving in port.

Banks aboard cruise ships give the latest and most favorable exchange rate available, usually at sailing time. This could go up or down en route, or be higher or lower when you reach port, but the range generally is not great one way or the other.

ONCE ASHORE, if you want to exchange dollars for local currency, banks or exchange bureaus give the most for your money (in some places like Hong Kong it pays to look around, but normally there isn't too much difference between what various places offer.) Next best bet, as a rule, is hotels.

Almost always, travelers checks bring a higher exchange value than bank notes.

Some nations still have certain currency restrictions.

AN EXAMPLE: New Zealand money, at the present time, not only is limited in export amounts but can't be exchanged outside the country. The ship's purser can give you details on such matters, and the banker will usually re-convert amounts you've previously purchased from him.

Additional tips: for fast figuring, use a round number (based on conversion rates) to divide or multiply the posted price to get the approximate U.S. dollar cost (this can be done in every country and, even on expensive purchases, you'll only, at most, be a few dollars off); learn how the local monetary unit is expressed symbolically, keeping in mind that a $ sign does not necessarily mean U.S. dollars; carry in your pocket the currency converter given you aboard ship.

In going around the Pacific, you'll handle francs, pesos, bahts, rupees, yens and dollars. When you arrive at additional island-nations, such as Samoa, Tonga and others, more names will join this list. It could all be very confusing, but — as we said — there's no need for it to be so.

PERHAPS ONE of the worst things a traveler can do is to fish into his pocket or purse and extend a handful of money, telling the seller to take what is required.

Most people are honest, but — as anywhere in the world — the open palm can be an open invitation to be "taken." It's much better to spend a few moments — and that's all that's really necessary in any country — to become familiar with the local coins and bank notes, and to know their worth in U.S. dollars, or vice versa.

Practical suggestions?

Certainly. Let's, for this purpose, divide the Pacific into two regions — north and south — and deal with tourist-frequented areas.

SOUTH PACIFIC: French Polynesia (Tahiti, Bora Bora, Moorea, etc.) has francs while Fiji, New Zealand and Australia have dollars. In terms of U.S. currency, these are all rather close, varying only a few cents. For fast figuring: take 100 francs or one dollar in the Commonwealth countries, and add about 12 per cent for the equivalent of U.S. dollars.

For example, an item costing $10 in New Zealand would mean about $11.20 in U.S. currency.

MID-AND NORTH Pacific: in Hong Kong and the Philippines, divide the posted price by six (it will be dollars in Hong Kong and pesos in the Philippines); should you visit Thailand, figure 20 bahts equal $1 USA. India (with rupees) means divding by seven and a half to calculate the US dollar equivalent.

In Taiwan, the dollar is 40-1 while in Japan the yen are about 360-1. This latter figure can get confusing, and here's where a converter card comes in handy.

The main thing to remember is never to be intimidated by another form of money. It's pretty much like your own. Only the value is different, and it's simple to determine that. From there, you can spend like a native, and at the same time gain the fun of trading in another currency and garnering bargains in the process.

Any change left over, by the way, makes an interesting souvenir.

Letters Of An Embittered Man

I doubt that this book will be received by anyone with an open mind.

The polarization that exists in this country will lead those on one side to acclaim it as "a weapon of liberation and a love poem" as does Jean Genet, who wrote the introduction.

Those on the other side will probably mostly not read it; and those who do will be appalled by its bitterness, or else discredit the whole book as false —as a series of writings aimed at gaining sympathy for the writer.

In Marin County, since the Aug. 7 shoot-out in which a respected judge died and a young assistant district attorney was so badly wounded that he will be paralyzed from the waist down for the rest of his life, there probably won't be much sympathetic reaction to the writings of Jackson.

Jackson, the brother of the youth who brought the guns into the courtroom in an abortive escape-attempt, was apparently one of the prizes sought in the kidnaping.

Reviews Of New Reading

As he left the courtroom with the three black convicts he had armed and the five hostages they had taken, 17-year-old Jonathan Jackson shouted, "Free the Soledad Brothers by 12:30."

Although the attempt to free George Jackson and the other two convicts charged with slaying a Soledad guard failed, the older brother wievs his brother's action in this way:

"Man-child, black man-child with submachine gun in hand, he was free for a while. I guess that's more than most of us can expect."

The book purports to be a series of letters written from prison by George Jackson during the past six years.

If one accepts as fact that Jackson's mother, father, brother, friends and lawyers saved all these letters so they could be published, a first hurdle to accepting the book at face value has been overcome.

That a man with little formal education can write eloquently is not such a hard obstacle to confront — this has happened before. If a man can write with a certain natural flow, editing will take care of grammatical and punctuation difficulties.

A very bitter tale of a man who has become obsessed with the belief that only through revolution can black men achieve anything. Filled with "death to the pigs" slogans, Jackson's letters implore his family and friends to fight, fight, fight and never work within the system.

His mother, especially, is rather gently berated for espousing Christianity and a "good" attitude. Angela Davis enters the book near the end — the letters to her are a combination of political interchange between two fellow revolutionaries and typical love letters.

The book cannot receive an impartial review from me.

While easily able to find sympathy for a man who has spent the last 10 years in prison, much of it in solitary confinement, I cannot do so for a man who says, "Black men born in the U.S. and fortunate enough to live past the age of 18 are conditioned to accept the inevitability of prison."

Probably the most revealing sentence about the author is when he wrote, "All my life I've done exactly what I wanted to do just when I wanted, no more, perhaps less sometimes, but never any more, which explains why I had to be jailed."

Max Rafferty Says It All Over Again In Latest Book

CLASSROOM COUNTDOWN by Max Rafferty; Hawthorn, 296 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson

Some years back, Max Rafferty began attacking the practices and philosophies of what is known as "progressive education" and discovered he had a lot of company. A great many people had been nursing misgivings about what passed for education; Rafferty put their misgivings into torrid and telling prose.

He has never let up. But in his latest volume, "Classroom Countdown," he appears to be running low on material.

The themes of "Classroom Countdown" are predictably similar to those of his "Suffer Little Children" (1962) and "What They Are Doing To Your Children" (1964), and of the many columns he has written since then. He blames progressive education for most of what's wrong with America — including, this time, riots and bombings.

However, not only are the themes similar; Rafferty is repeating himself, word-for-word in some cases.

For instance, on page 40 of "Suffer Little Children" appeared this:

"A former student of mine who became a paratrooper during World War II and found himself stationed in various European countries made it an invariable custom to seek out a typical resident of each town his outfit liberated, and ask him to name the village's three most successful citizens. Almost always, he recalled, he was given the same three titles: the marie, or burgomaster; the cure or priest; and the schoolmaster."

He then went on to contrast this with the regard in which school superintendents and principals are held in this country.

The same anecdote appears on pages 11 and 12 of "Classroom Countdown," expanded this time to have the paratrooper ask the same question in American towns while stationed at Fort Benning and get the reply: "The bank president, the Cadillac dealer, and the Coca-Cola distributor."

On page 61 of the new volume, Rafferty tells how to know if your school is still devoted to "progressive education" even though it denies it:

"Do the people who are running your school believe that life adjustment is or should be the main goal of the instructional program? If they do, this is progressive education.

"Does your school place primary emphasis upon the happy, easy, comfortable acceptance of the child by his 'peer group'? If it does, your school is 'progressively' oriented." And so forth.

The same catalogue, with scarcely a word changed, appeared on pages 74 and 75 of "What They Are Doing To Your Children."

On page 64 of "Classroom Countdown," inveighing against the lack of history and literature in the school curriculum, appears this:

"Get sixth-grader Johnny in off the Little League diamond for a few minutes. Stand him in front of you, with his soiled sneakers and torn T-shirt. Ask him to tell you something about Charlemagne. Get him to expound on Hannibal. Ask him what century Julius Caesar lived in, who knocked him off, and why . . . .

"Then get sixth-grader Mary in on the carpet . . . . Ask her to quote just the opening lines of 'Paul Revere's Ride' or 'The Charge of the Light Brigade' or 'Old Ironsides' . . . . She'll probably think you've gone right off your rocker."

This no doubt is just as true now (unfortunately) as it was when the same paragraphs appeared word-for-word on pages 162-3 of "What They Are Doing To Your Children."

Maybe a good thing is worth repeating, and, after all, some readers of the latest book may not have read the earlier ones. But this can scarcely be the rationale for repeating oneself within the same book.

The fourth paragraph on page 111 of "Classroom Countdown" reads:

"The graduate who leaves the hallowed halls of academe convinced that his teachers have found the answers for him and have shared those answers with him has failed to get an education, regardless of what those answers may have been or how feverishly they may have been promulgated."

The first complete paragraph on page 279 reads:

"The graduate who leaves the hallowed halls of academe convinced that his teachers have found the answers for him and have shared those answers with him has failed to get an education, regardless of what those answers may be or how feverishly they have been promulgated."

Much of what Rafferty said in 1962 and subsequently, still makes sense. But there does not seem too much point in saying it over again in the same words.

An Exploration Tour Of Country's Finest Homes

TREASURE ROOMS OF AMERICA'S MANSIONS, MANORS AND HOUSES by Rita Reif; Coward-McCann, 297 pages, $19.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Tailored and timed for the Christmas trade, here is a hefty gift book that offers the connoisseur of fine furnishings an armchair tour of some of this country's most impressive homes.

The range is from the 17th Century Philipsburg and Van Cortlandt manors of New York to early 20th Century showplaces such as Washington's Anderson House and Hillwood and Winston-Salem's Hanes House.

They are shown through some 300 plates, nearly 100 of these in color, chosen by Rita Reif, the knowledgeable New York Times writer on homes, furnishings and antiques, to encompass the best in U. S. decorating styles over a period of more than 250 years. Mrs. Reif provides an interesting and enlightening text that is richly descriptive and detailed. And her book provides an armchair tour that the admirer of period housing and tasteful furniture could find nowhere else. Several of the homes and their treasures have never been photographed before.

After Jan. 1, the price of the big book goes up to $22.50. For the aficionado, it is probably worth that cost. So at $19.95 it must be a bit of a bargain.

Third Novel In Trilogy Lively Yarn

The third of a trilogy about Woods Palmer Jr. — the earlier books were "The Banker" and "The Family" — "The American" is a lively adventure novel set in Europe, spiced with intrigue and romance, and populated with generally interesting characters.

Soon he is involved with a pretty young woman and caught up in international plotting. Waller is not adverse to explicit sex scenes, but uses them better than most. And the continental background is first-rate.

Waller keeps a busy plot going at a rapid yet controlled pace. "The American" is not a great novel and makes no pretentions of being one. But it is an entertaining yarn.

Dispassionate Look At Vietnam War

By DON KEOWN

Our involvement in Indochina is one of those sensitive subjects Americans are seemingly unable to discuss or consider without extreme emotion.

The defenders of our policies approach it from the standpoint of a rigid patriotism or with an almost hysterical hatred and fear of communism.

Critics belabor it out of horror for the suffering that has been inflicted and from the depths of a terrible national guilt and despair.

In short, Veitnam is a moral issue, intensely so, and cool, dispassionate appraisals have become a near impossibility.

We say "near impossibility," for Chester L. Cooper, a veteran of the diplomatic service, demonstrates in his "The Lost Crusade" that this most difficult feat can still be done.

Here, by a true professional, is an astonishingly detached analysis of how, little by little, this country slipped and skidded into a Southeast Asian morass that now leaves most of us, belatedly awakened, aghast and confused.

Along with a remarkable ability to keep his cool while examining a subject that generates much heat, Cooper has other advantages that fit him admirably for his complex undertaking. For one thing, he demonstrates a considerable writing talent in setting forth his material literately and eruditely.

For another, he can speak with the insight of a true insider. For a decade and a half of his distinguished government career, Cooper was intimately associated with U.S. involvement in — and then its efforts to extricate itself from — the Vietnamese quicksand. That association extended from the 1954 Geneva Conference (with the U.S. playing a disappointing obstructionist role) to the frustrating talks in Paris that are still under way. Cooper is thus able

"The Lost Crusade" at first is the story of a government motivated by contradictory and often antequated concepts and principles into intruding itself deeper and deeper into a perilous situation. Then it becomes the sad story of a stubborn refusal to admit mistakes and a desperate desire to save face, so that opportunities to reverse the dangerous direction of our Southeast Asian policies were repeatedly flubbed and wasted.

Cooper does not deal in villains, nor in heroes either (except for Averell Harriman, the diplomat he seems to admire most). His point is that at the outset there were few Americans, in or out of government, who were concerned over the moral implications of our Vietnamese adventure. A handful, like Sen. Wayne Morse, expressed indignation or alarm. But we all know how Oregonians ultimately rewarded Morse for his foresight. It was not until much later that the outcry became general, and even then it was our lack of overwhelming military success, more than the ethical aspects of our policies, that created the greatest disillusionment and clamor for disengagement.

Cooper recites the record of our entrapment. And it becomes clear that the snare was set, not so much by the Vietcong, the North Vietnamese nor Red China,, as by our supposed allies, the South Vietnamese and their several governments.

For, says Cooper, of all the reasons offered for American involvement in Vietnam, the most legitimate was our claim that we were there to secure "freedom of choice" or the values of democracy for the people of South Vietnam.

But, admits Cooper, the people in power in Saigon, from Diem through Khanh to Ky and Thieu have made a mockery of our resolution. Their objective has been anything but "freedom of choice" for the people over whom they rule.

Cooper strives for fairness, and admits that application of the principles of democracy under the conditions that existed in the 1950s and 1960s in Vietnam would have been a most difficult, if not impossible, undertaking. But if American participation in the fighting was to be justified morally, at least some effort in that direction was an absolute prerequisite.

Cooper suggests that at this stage the U.S. would still be wise to concentrate upon the "free choice" objective. A fair election, he admits, might well be won or partly won by the Communists. But at least Americans could then say they had realized one of the commitments for which they began their ill-fated "crusade."

Would the Vietnamese themselves, North or South, now agree to such a formula? Perhaps not. But if they did not, then the U.S. might finally have cause to disengage and pull its soldiers out of Asia. A basic war aim would be proven unrealizable. Cooper does not suggest this specifically. But he does advise that we must learn the benefits of sometimes saying "no" to allies that renege upon their promises or blackmail us politically.

Cooper suggests, too, a long range lesson the U.S. might learn from this unfortunate episode in our history — that Congress must reassert its responsibilities in helping to make foreign policy, and particularly its power to declare war. This coming from a man who worked long, hard and honorably for the government's executive branch, is especially impressive.

Cooper aruges too for a better informed, more interested public. Yet, somewhat conversely, he maintains that a certain element of secrecy is essential to successful diplomacy. One wonders, however, if the reverses and problems created by public exposure would have been any worse than has been the outcome of policies conceived in such secrecy that often bureaucrats, generals and others directly involved have been uncertain as to their content or intent.

Yet, candidly and clearly, Cooper has written a brilliant exposition of the course that we have followed in Southeast Asia from qualified support of doomed French imperialism i Indochina, to the disastrou point where we now find ou selves cast in the role of interl per and invader. Those who e pect from Cooper either an apc ogy for government positions, (an angry diatribe against h former superiors will be disa pointed. But those who hope f a wealth of information calm evaluated by a diplomat wh frankly admits he acquired h second-sight belatedly, will b amply rewarded by the be book yet to be written on a sul ject that haunts and bedevils a of us, as well it should.

TO MARK the 20th anniversary of the Reed Union School District, the district's Parent-Teacher Club has issued a new, revised edition of the Tiburon-Belvedere area history "Shark-Point — High Point." The book was originally a project of the Reed District eighth grade class of 1954 and published then as a mimeographed booklet. Subsequent classes contributed further to the material and in 1958 a printed edition was published. That book, however, has become exceedingly scarce. Thus, the new updated and expanded edition just published with an editorial committee consisting of Joyce Wilson, Mrs. David Teather and Mrs. Erwin Farley, all of whom served with the late Mrs. Richard Y. Dakin in a similar capacity in 1958, in charge. The new cover was designed by Mrs. Farley, and there are now 46 illustrations including the Ken Molino photo above of the Reed eighth graders at Lyford Tower in 1953 that was originally taken for the Independent-Journal. Copies of the new edition are available at area bookstores for $3.50, or can be ordered for $3.70 including tax and mailing charges from the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society, Post Office Box 134, Belvedere-Tiburon, Calif., 94920.

Some Good Prospects For Small Containers

Gardening in pots offers continuous rewards for the inventive gardener.

Indoors or out, month in and month out, he can enjoy beauty and pleasure from plants which he pots-up.

The advantages of growing plants in small containers are many.

THE POTS CAN be moved to take advantage of bloom where it's needed. Besides the portability, there is the convenience of being able to carry on in spite of weather conditions. And don't overlook the intimate relationship a gardener has with the plants he features in pots, whether they are grown on the patio, under lath —or indoors.

Potting-up any plant makes it something special in the mind of a gardener, or why would he go to the trouble of potting it?

Growing plants in pots or containers can be the first step to a possible hobby and to countless hours of pleasure.

The California Association of Nurserymen reports there are a great number of plants that are favorites for potting. In their season, geraniums, pelargoniums, tuberous begonias and fuchsias are top summer choices.

FOR WINTER color to be potted-up right now, cyclamen is a favorite. Christmas cactus and African violets are also enjoyable plants to grow in pots.

Bulbs are excellent choices for potting, and spring-blooming bulbs are still to be found in nurseries. Tulips, hyacinths, daffodils and other narcissus are recommended.

Bloom is not necessarily a requisite.

Ferns are striking specimens in a pot; the varying foliage textures and colors of ivy plants — Hahn's, English, Grape Ivy, etc. —are refreshing sights to behold.

The only true requisite is to plant what gives you pleasure. An inspection of your nearby nursery will turn-up a host of likely candidates.

Aluminum Foil Proves Effective Against Aphids

Aphids — small insects that suck the juices of plants — often transmit virus diseases that reduce crop yields. The repellent foil strips provide an effective barrier from aphids by reflecting ultraviolet rays from the sky.

Reflected rays cause the flying insects to change their course. Traps on protected plots captured 90 to 98 per cent fewer aphids than traps on unprotected experimental plots.

Alumininum reflectivity is demonstrated anew in this application. For years farmers have taken advantage of the fact that aluminum roofs reflect up to 95 per cent of the sun's radiant heat, providing cooler interiors to boost livestock production.

GARDENER'S CHECKLIST

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- Top dress garden beds with compost, peat moss or wood bark products. Start a compost pile from leaves you rake-up.
- Continue your fall clean-up in the garden. This is a good time to spray certain deciduous trees and shrubs, so check with your nurseryman about yours.
- Spring blooming bulbs are still to be found, but you should plant them without further delay.
- Plant stock, snapdragons, pansies, violas, calendulas and Iceland poppies from nursery flats. They'll provide brilliant garden color as soon as the weather starts to warm-up in late winter.
- For something different in a berried shrub, see the Chinese and English hollies trained as small patio trees. They add a distinctive touch to the landscape.
- Don't forget to shop for that living Christmas tree before the supply becomes picked over.
- The azalea makes an excellent indoor plant to lend a special note of cheer to your home during the holiday season.

The Care And Cleaning Of Upholstery

Time spent keeping upholstered furniture clean today will pay dividends in longer life and better looks.

Upholstered furniture represents a substantial investment, and it merits planned and careful care. Soil and stain unattended soon become difficult, if not impossible, to remove.

CARE BEGINS before you buy . . . Before you buy any upholstered furniture, ask yourself, "How will it wear and clean?"

Most fabrics used today are blends of different yarns. Durability and shrinkage cannot be determined for every blend on the market and do not correspond with the characteristics of fabrics rated individually.

ROUTINE upholstery care . . . . Vacuum once a week and reverse cushions. Keep furniture away from direct sunlight. Brush with "soft" brush only (stiff bristles can damage fabric fibers). Remove spots immediately. Use partial slip covers (on arm and head rests since they receive the most wear).

RECOMMENDED cleaning products . . . For synthetic fibers and cotton you may use light-duty detergent foam (but this is risky because the liquid may cause over-wetting and also must be rinsed). Or use an upholstery shampoo specially formulated to dry into solid, hard crystals for easy removal by vacuuming.

For leather, use saddle soap, paste wax, leather preservative or upholstery shampoo. For plastics use a mild detergent-and-water solution or upholstery shampoo.

For fabric over foam rubber, use upholstery shampoo (never use spirit solvent cleaning fluids because they can damage the rubber padding.)

A Homemaker's Opportunity For Individuality

Handyman's Page

The bedroom is often the only place a homemaker can be totally free to express her own individual taste in decor.

In other rooms she has to compromise with family foibles.

If father is inclined to spill ashes or drop newspapers willy-nilly on chairs or davenports, white brocade upholstery is not for her. And junior can make a deep-pile rug look like a race track after the races, permanently.

BUT IN THE bedroom the homemaker has free choice of materials and colors and she can display her own personal treasures, fragile or otherwise, for her particular pleasure.

That's one reason (of many) that the addition of a master bedroom ranks high when families need more room. In comparatively limited square footage, you can plan space not only for a bed, but for a reading corner, desk, wardrobes, master bath and dressing room.

Regardless of the style of the house, many homemakers choose to be eclectic in plans and materials for an addition; a vaulted ceiling, for instance, makes space seem larger, and wood paneling creates a warm and intimate setting.

HEMLOCK OR red cedar panel boards can be used in a variety of styles and tones on walls and ceilings. Louver closet doors will provide ventilation for wardrobes, while hiding their contents as effectively as solid doors.

A small nook alongside a closet is ample for a built-in desk and shelving convenient for correspondence and household accounts.

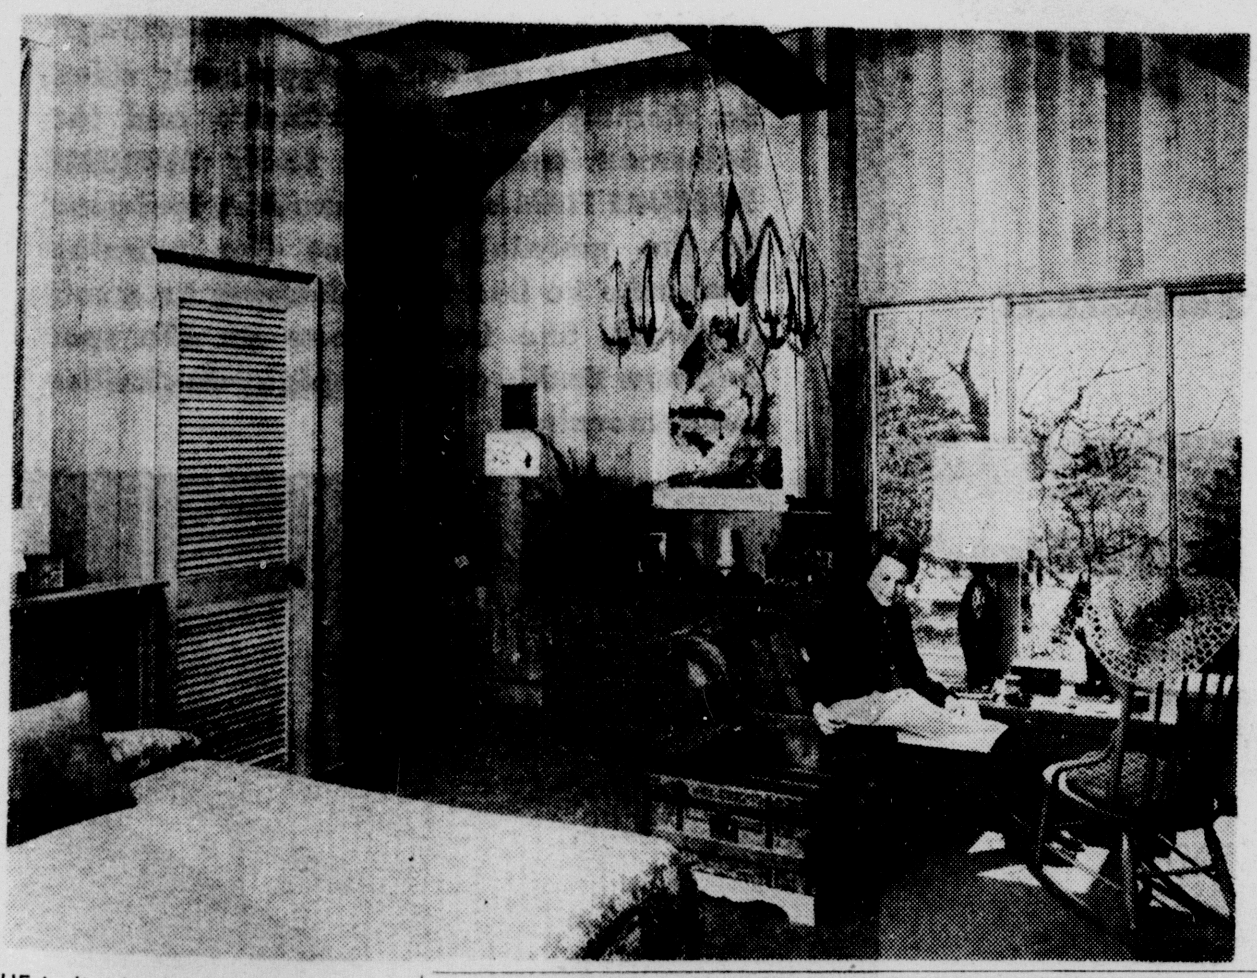
A comfortable chair or two is a must — perhaps a day bed if space allows — and a table or chest for magazines and needlework alongside. Using a gaily painted old trunk is a "campish" fad now.

Choice of headboards needn't be limited to available merchandise at decorators' salons or discount houses. For example, a panel door may make a handsome headboard that will blend in beautifully with walls and de-emphasize the presence of the bed.

BESIDES READING and bed lamps, overall lighting is desirable. A false beam made of a one-by-12-inch board with one-by-two-inch sides will conceal a row of light bulbs, or a neon tube. The absence of fussy fixtures leaves you free to indulge in mobiles or sculptures.

Colors? Choose those that express your personality. Soft greens and golds tone in well with woodwork. But if you're a "pink-and-purple" girl, by all means choose them. After all, it's your own room.

Camp or classical, it's up to you.



THE individuality of the occupant has had full expression in the design and decor of this bedroom. The headboard is a nine-foot raised panel door that has been cut down and framed. Candelabra was custom-designed. The nook shelters a built-in desk. Walls are rough-sawn one-by-six-inch western red cedar boards. The ceiling and louvered door are hemlock.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

Continuing last week's rundown of recent Columbia releases:

LOCAL ROCK group Santana has had a big hit in their single "Evil Ways," as well as with their first Columbia LP, CS 9781 It contains that funky tune, as well as "Jingo," and "Soul Sacrifice" and six others. The group's Latin make-up and emphasis on conga drums adds an extraordinary excitement and sets Santana apart from all those rock groups that seem to sound alike.

Leader Carlos Santana has a good voice and the group comes through with tremendous impact and high musicality at the same time.

COLUMBIA'S "Greatest Hits" series has provided unparalleled opportunities for both pop and classical record buyers to add many of their favorites to their library at lowest cost. My vote for the most successful in the jazz category is "Miles Davis' Greatest Hits," (CS 9808).

With over 26 minutes per side, unusual for jazz LPs, eight of the moody trumpet star's very best can be packaged together. You'll find the swinging theme of "Seven Steps to Heaven," the beauty of "Someday My Prince Will Come," the funk of "Walkin'," plus the Gil Evans Orchestra backing up Miles in "So What."

Some of Davis' recent far-out explorations are upsetting his staunch fans — if this applies to you put CS 9808 on your turntable and nostalgicate.

Brod Crawford Lives Casually

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Broderick Crawford, his battered face the single most impressive element of "The Interns," is divorced, hard working and enjoys the company of Indians more than he does most other persons.

A hulking 220 pounder, Crawford lives in a modert furnished apartment which is a 15-minute walk to Columbia Studios where the medical series is filmed

The studio was also the site of his two greatest screen triumphs, "All the King's Men" for which he won the Oscar in 1949 and "Born Yesterday."

HE IS UNAWARE of his surroundings in the apartment. It is not his home. Because he works only three days a week on the average, the apartment has just become a place to hang his hat.

Crawford's real home is a lovely lonely ranch house outside Tucson, Ariz.

"I live there because I can't stand the California taxes," he said. "And the smog in Hollywood is terrible. Smog is getting to Arizona. I guess I'll keep moving until I end up in northern Maine."

Crawford's ranch consists of 55 acres. He says he raises hell, but no crops, in the open spaces.

HE OWNS FIVE horses, three of which have yet to be ridden. Most of the time a half-dozen or so Indians share the ranch with the actor. He has great fondness and compassion for them.

The ranch house is furnished with rustic Western chairs, tables, rugs and couches, the kind of cushions you don't want to get up from. It's strictly a man's hangout with little or no sign of a feminine touch.

Crawford had the three-bedroom, three-bath house built to his own specifications. The living room is 30 feet square with a fireplace at each of two ends. Windows provide sweeping vistas of scenery.

LIFE IS CASUAL at the ranch. Frequently dinner consists of what Crawford shoots; rabbit, deer, quail.

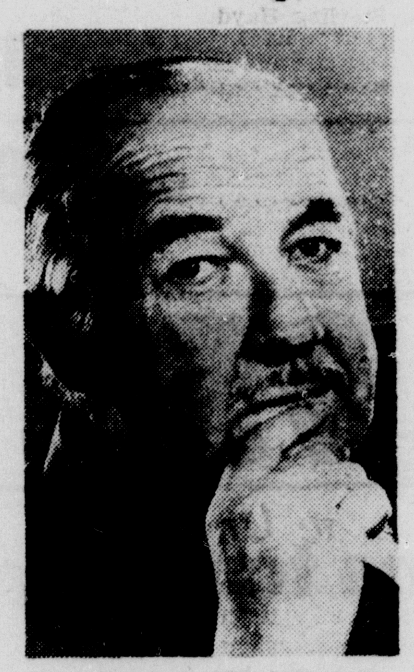
In addition to the Indians, Brod's social life includes a few other ranch owners in the area.

A big night consists of sitting around talking, drinking, admiring paintings and enjoying a large meal.

ONE PARTICULAR old-timer is convinced he has the original map locating the Lost Dutchman gold mine. He has been trying to convince Crawford to help him go in search of it for years.



BRODERICK CRAWFORD
He prefers the ranch

Crawford is the father of two sons, Kelly, a 19-year-old aspiring actor, and Chris, 22, who drives a truck in Hollywood, Fla.

"They're both doing what they like. They're happy," the big man concluded. "Sometimes I wish my own father had encouraged me to become a truck driver."

Indonesian Orchestra Large Unit

Indonesian music is based largely upon that Southeast Asian equivalent of the symphony orchestra known as the gamelan. On the island of Java, a complete gamelan "orchestra" has about 75 instruments, as many as 30 players, and 10 to 15 singers.

The traditional music preserved in ancient palace collections has been estimated at more than 800 pieces, mostly forms of gongs and percussion instruments somewhat like xylophones and drums. The unique harmonic qualities of gamelan has influenced Western world composers since Claude Debussy discovered them at the end of the 19th century.

TV NOTES

By JACK GAVER

NBC estimates that color-equipped television households as of Oct. 1 totaled 26,200,000, which is 43.2 per cent of total video households and a gain of 18 per cent over the number a year ago.

Juliet Mills, star of ABC's "Nanny and the Professor" series, has done a mother-like-daughter bit by writing her first television script. For her program, of course. Her mother, Mary Haley Bell, wife of British star John Mills, is a prominent writer of books and plays.

CBS will air the Cotton Bowl Festival Parade Jan. 1 at 10:30 a.m. from Dallas, Tex. as a prelude to its 11:30 telecast of the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, Calif.

NBC's "Meet the Press" interview program observed its 23rd television anniversary Nov. 6.

Public Broadcasting Service has received a million dollar grant from the Mobil Oil Corp. that will enable it to bring to more than 200 of its educational video stations a 39-week series of one-hour dramas produced by the British Broadcasting Corp. The series will be seen under the title, "Masterpiece Theater."

Dick Cavett's late-night talk show on ABC has been renewed through 1971. The program went on the air Dec. 29, 1969.

Marin Poets' Corner

REMEMBERING: NOVEMBER 1963

"Stand by," a voice called out —
Could I have heard?
The truth seemed blurred;
A sharp pain then pierced my heart
For those so near, and I apart;
I stood to wonder into space,
Roses folded their petals in prayer,
Raindrops crying down the window pane,
Trees reflected as organs against the sky,
Angel's voices floated from on high.
